HORSE TALK

Two Strong Stock Foods DR. HESS' STOCK FOOD

Although this stock food is comparatively "new" in this section, we are receiving splendid testimonials from stock raisers who are trying it. This is what they claim it will do:

FOR HORSES

It increases appetite and produces perfect digestion. It cures coughs, distemper, dropsy; gives life, vigor and energy and produces a fine, smooth, glossy coat and is a wonderful flesh producer. Dose—Two tablespoonsful morning and eve-

FOR COWS

It increases the quality and quantity of milk; increases the appetite and purifies the blood; will greatly assist to fatten cattle. Dose—Same as for horses.

FOR HOGS

Give it for indigestion, loss of appetite or slow growth; gives wonderful results if fed to hogs when they are being fattened. Dose—Two tablespoonsful twice a day, each 500 rounded.

FOR SHEEP

Aids digestion, sustains vigor and cures cough. Dose-Two tablespoonsful twice a day for eight sheep.

We have a well written and instructive stock book pub-lished by Dr. Hess, which you may have for the asking. Call

NERVOUS ENERGY.

Don't Overdraw Your Account In the Bank of Nature.

You have a deposit of nervous energy placed to your account in the bank of your body. It may be large, in which happy case you are a milliomire in strength and accomplishing power, or it may be so microscopic as to need careful husbanding and little expendi-ture to how if from dwinding more diture to keep it from dwindling out al together.

But many millionaires become pau-pers, and some "dime savings" swell into millions. It depends upon the way the capital is managed. You may think you have so much that there is no need to be economical. You get up in the morning and feel the blood m the morning and feel the blood bounding through your veins like moun-tain cataracts, and you think you can turn the mill wheels of the world. You work day and night or you play day and night, which is sometimes more exhausting, and go at the limit of your speed all the time. You are out more exhausting, and go at the limit of your speed all the time. You are over-drawing your bank account of energy, and that needlessly, for you probably have enough to last a long and useful lifetime. It pays to sit down and useful en your tools, and it adds cens per cent to your body bank deposit. Another with work help your basis

Another with not half your brains or bustle will get ahead of you in the end, for he makes every act, every thought, go straight to the mark. He wastes no effort. Everything, he does means something. It helps toward some given end. You spend a great deal of mumulities on your owner hearth between the armunition on your quarry because you are overanxious. He keeps cool, takes steady aim and wings his bird. You get wrinkles and frost tipped temples and become a bankrupt in vitality when you should be in your prime. You have overdrawn the best Lord ever placed on the books of life-the ability "to love and to work and to play and to look up at the stars."

A MONTE CARLO LEGEND.

The Story the Crouplers Tell of the Wandering Jew.

Wandering Jew. All gamblers are superstitions, and some of their pet superstitions are now so old as to have acquired the respec-tability of venerable traditions. The crouplers of Monte Carlo have an in-teresting set of traditional supersti-tions of their own, most of which are entirely unknown to the many thousands of visitors who toy with the "tiger" in that gilded court of chance. The most striking of these is the story of the Wandering Jew, which the crouplers believe as fervently as they do that the bank will down any "system" that ever was invented. There is one day, and one day only, in the year on which the rooms of the casino at Monte Carlo are closed—that is on Good Friday. When the rooms are opened on the following day, they say, the first person to enter the "Grand Nouvelle Salle de Jeur" is an old man of venerable appearance. He wastes no time; but, walking straight to one of the tables, he places with the trem-bling fingers of extreme old age a piece of money upon a certain number. The wheel is turned, the croupier's naanl cry falls upon the ear, announcing that the number selected by the old man has won. With a bitterly savage exclamation the aged man seizes his winnings, throws them about him and hurries from the room to disappear, no one knows where.

He is the Wandering Jew, and until he can lose a bet at Monte Carlo he must continue his wanderings. Get on the "blind side" of any of the old crou-piers of Monte Carlo, and they will tell you this legend. Have they seen him? Of course they have and are fully per-suaded that the aged and mysterious stranger is note other than the man condemned to perpetual earthly wan-derings nearly 2,000 years ago.

in Iowa. Jim went to a revival m ing (unthinkingly, the congressman says) and "got religion." In his first burst of enthusiasm he told his brother of how much better he felt since his conversion and urged Ed to come into the fold. The latter pondered gravely for a time and then said: "Ain't any doubt but what religion's a good thing, and I'm glad you've got it. Jim, but I guess you better let me alone just now," he continued reflectively. "You see, Jim, one of us has got to weigh the
