A Child Gored by a Cow.

GAIT, Oct. 23.—The 2-year-old grandson of Nicholas G. Kinsman, Stone road, followed his grandfather out to the barn,
and while the latter was attending to some twork he heard the child screaming in the yard outside. Going out to learn the cause of the noise he found the little fellow tying on the ground, being gored by a cow.
The poor child's injuries are extensive,
the horn making a deep wound in the left
groin about as inches long and the thigh
bone is broken in two places.

Quebec, Oct. 24.—The jury, after five minutes' consultation in the conspiracy case of Connolly vs. Robert MaGreevy and O. E. Murphy, rendered a verdict of "guilty" at 4:30 this afternoon.

Early yesterday morning it was whispered about the city that both Murphy and McGreevy had preverred to place their confidence in the railway trains than in the vindication of their innocence before the jury. When their names were called at the Court of Queen's Bench this morning the truth of the rumor was made clear. They could not be found, and Mr. Tarte and D. Rattray, Murphy's bondsmen, were each called upon to

The trial was concluded, the jury was addressed by counsel on both sides, and after a short deliberation a verdict of guilty was returned. passed around in the evening. The books of the firm, temporarily surrendered to the court by the Privileges and Elections Committee, were said to have disappeared. All kinds of whispers were afloat, but it was subsequently learned that the books were only taken as far as the C. P. R. station. An order was obtained from the Superior Court by Michael Connolly to recover possession of the books as soon as the Court of Queen's Bench was through with them. Fearing the execution of the order, the books were taken from the box at the instigation of the Ottawa authorities and stowed in two ordinary trunks, and late in the evening they were quietly carted to the station under the direction of Panet Anger to be shipped to Ottawa.

Peterboro, Oct. 23.—The convention of the Ontario Provincial Union of Societies of Christian Endeavor began its second days' proceedings with a sunrise prayer meeting at 6:30 yesterday morning. The large lecture room of St. Paul's Church was well filled.

The president in his annual address congratulated the convention on the marvelous growth of the Christian Endeavor movement. He could not conceive how any church could give the cold shoulder to a movement whose specific purpose was to recognize the society, alleging that it was contrary to the polity of the church.
