should be remembered that a million people crossed the Magara frontier in Chairman Mabee: "We have had eleven complaints from passengers who crossed the line at Niagara during bagatelle of the real occurrences." Mr. Bell produced an agreement beween the railways, dating back to 1893, providing for this system of examining passengers. When the matter was before the commission some time ago the railways had agreed to send out a circular to their conducpassengers from undue annoyance, on the part of United States officers to the head office. To Notify Conductors. This circular, explained Mr. Bell, had been issued by the G. T. R. transportation department, but through
