

SOME NEWS FROM FRENCH CAPITAL

Curious Dilemma of Assize Court Judge—The Weak Petition of a Lady to the Saint of Divorces

(By A. W. Lamoureux)

PARIS, April 9.—A good story is told of an assize court judge in a provincial town, where an important murder case is being tried just now.

"You are our prisoner!" they said. "There was nothing to be done but to allow himself to be escorted to the nearest town."

At the gendarmerie, however, the judge was able to prove his identity in spite of his old clothes.

Grounds for divorce are numerous under French law. A new one has been brought forward by a petitioning husband, who produced in court a copy of a written prayer discovered among papers belonging to the respondent, his wife.

"It is my baby that you are judging," said a young mother, as she held her child in her arms in a Paris court, where she was being tried for having attempted to stab the father.

The judge steered his way through the crowd against her tender appeals, but this task was made more severe by the pathetic entreaties of the lady's counsel, Mdle. Miropolska, who pleaded for the mother.

"It is my baby that you are judging," said a young mother, as she held her child in her arms in a Paris court, where she was being tried for having attempted to stab the father.

The judge steered his way through the crowd against her tender appeals, but this task was made more severe by the pathetic entreaties of the lady's counsel, Mdle. Miropolska, who pleaded for the mother.

"It is my baby that you are judging," said a young mother, as she held her child in her arms in a Paris court, where she was being tried for having attempted to stab the father.

The judge steered his way through the crowd against her tender appeals, but this task was made more severe by the pathetic entreaties of the lady's counsel, Mdle. Miropolska, who pleaded for the mother.

"It is my baby that you are judging," said a young mother, as she held her child in her arms in a Paris court, where she was being tried for having attempted to stab the father.

The judge steered his way through the crowd against her tender appeals, but this task was made more severe by the pathetic entreaties of the lady's counsel, Mdle. Miropolska, who pleaded for the mother.

"It is my baby that you are judging," said a young mother, as she held her child in her arms in a Paris court, where she was being tried for having attempted to stab the father.

The judge steered his way through the crowd against her tender appeals, but this task was made more severe by the pathetic entreaties of the lady's counsel, Mdle. Miropolska, who pleaded for the mother.

"It is my baby that you are judging," said a young mother, as she held her child in her arms in a Paris court, where she was being tried for having attempted to stab the father.

The judge steered his way through the crowd against her tender appeals, but this task was made more severe by the pathetic entreaties of the lady's counsel, Mdle. Miropolska, who pleaded for the mother.

MR ASQUITH AND HIS HOUSE OF LORDS

Speech of British Premier at Oxford in Which He Defined His Position With Respect to This and the Budget

(By W. Hamilton Rhodes)

LONDON, April 9.—In a recent speech at Oxford, Mr. Asquith, the Prime Minister, threw some light on his plans for fighting the Budget of 1910, although his position on some points is still very obscure.

"I have no intention of making any alterations in the Budget of 1910," he declared. "The Budget is a whole, and it would be a strange thing if it had."

The boys ran home as fast as they could and told what they had seen, and when an hour had elapsed the manly was aroused.

"Why, I know that man. He works at Spencer's, and he camps here at the camp."

"And why is it that at the election which has just taken place the question of the pearls has been the subject of the party?"

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

MR ASQUITH AND HIS HOUSE OF LORDS

Speech of British Premier at Oxford in Which He Defined His Position With Respect to This and the Budget

(By W. Hamilton Rhodes)

LONDON, April 9.—In a recent speech at Oxford, Mr. Asquith, the Prime Minister, threw some light on his plans for fighting the Budget of 1910, although his position on some points is still very obscure.

"I have no intention of making any alterations in the Budget of 1910," he declared. "The Budget is a whole, and it would be a strange thing if it had."

The boys ran home as fast as they could and told what they had seen, and when an hour had elapsed the manly was aroused.

"Why, I know that man. He works at Spencer's, and he camps here at the camp."

"And why is it that at the election which has just taken place the question of the pearls has been the subject of the party?"

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

PILL MAN ON THE OPERA SITUATION

Beecham Is Not a Believer in State Supported Operas, But Believes in Encouraging the English Talent

LONDON, April 9.—When Mr. Beecham's season of opera at Covent Garden closed recently he was asked whether he was satisfied there was a public for opera in London, outside the Grand Opera.

"I am glad," he said. "You have asked me that, because the whole idea of a national opera house is preposterous, and a waste of money."

"But where I differ very much from some of my predecessors is in the belief that the services of a very large number of English artists of great ability as many on the Continent, and possessing for the most part, superior voices can be utilized, and that a certain number of native composers can be encouraged to write."

CONDENSERS BRITAIN'S SYSTEM OF EDUCATION

German Educationalist Says it is Greatly Inferior to the German System—His Analysis

BERLIN, April 9.—Professor Rogozinski, of Culin, a German educationalist, who was formerly lecturer at the University of Bonn, is about to publish a long treatise dealing with the differences between the British and the German educational systems.

"The organization of English schools is lacking in uniformity," he writes. "The teachers, to whom is entrusted the most important work of the nation, are wanting in thorough scientific pedagogic training."

"The Second Chamber" opinion that it is desirable in this as in other democratic countries to have a Chamber, that there are functions which should be assigned for such a Chamber to perform; that if it is rationally constituted and its powers are wisely defined, it can be a valuable safeguard for wise legislation and for prudent control of the executive.

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

PRICE ELLISON OFFERS SITE FOR UNIVERSITY

If Commission Reports Favorably He Will Give One Hundred Acre Plot of Land Near Vernon

KANSAS CITY, April 9.—Yusef Mahmut tonight defeated Dr. B. F. Roller of Seattle, in straight falls in a wrestling match, the first in 35-30, and the second in 2 minutes and 30 seconds.

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

REGULATING THE AERIAL TRAFFIC

Aero Club of France Submits Draft of Regulations to the Minister of Public Works to Control Traffic in the Ether

PARIS, April 9.—The Aero Club of France has placed before the Minister of Public Works a series of suggestions for the regulation of aerial traffic. One of these is for insuring the privacy of enclosed spaces like courtyards and gardens, by making it punishable offence for pilots to cross property at a height above fifty yards, or to halt above them at less than 500 yards, while towns are under way.

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

EFFORTS TO PASS MCCOLL AMENDMENT

Premier's Suggestion That the Committee Report Progress Adopted—Doubt As to Matter Being Again Taken Up

OTTAWA, April 7.—The Miller anti-gambling bill, which has commanded the attention of the house for two days, was put out of existence for this session by a motion of Mr. McColl, which was adopted. The death-bed scene was somewhat marked with confusion, and its dying hours were noisy, there being no mistaking the sentiment of the house regarding the legislation.

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

SEARCH FOR GRAFTERS

District Attorney at Pittsburg Issues Request for Information—Ed. Pittsburg Editor Is Specified

PITTSBURG, Mo., April 9.—District Attorney Blakeley tonight issued a general invitation for a number of the residents of Allegheny county to appear before the grand jury tomorrow to contribute any secrets they may hold about grafting in Pittsburg. The invitation is being sent to the following named persons: Mr. Moore, editor of the Pittsburg Leader, which in an editorial today charged that residents of Allegheny county were engaged in grafting. The editor, as stated, was a member of the legislative committee on the amendments. On the first clause being put Mr. Moore moved that it be struck out. Amid a scene of great excitement were conducted business as usual in the division, as the house was in committee, but a standing vote taken. The French Canadian vote was 72, the majority of 78 to 77. It was then that the death knell of the bill began to toll. On section two, Mr. McColl made a motion that the clause be struck out, and I trust that Mr. Moore can find absolutely no excuse to decline this invitation. Mr. Moore's amendment was negatived by 87 to 74, and clause two struck out. The bill then passed. The votes were not by any means confined to party lines. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. MacDonald, Mr. Laurier, Mr. Patterson voted with Mr. Miller. Mr. Borden and many other Conservatives, particularly from Ontario, Canada, and the United States, voted with Mr. McColl in opposition to the bill.

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

SCOW OVERTURNED RAILS WERE LOST

Submerged, Piling Punctured Lighter Alongside the Funnel Line Titan at Seattle

SOME 250 tons of rails brought from the United Kingdom by the Blue Funnel Line were dumped in the harbor at Seattle when the tugboat was scow was overturned by the leverage of a submerged piling against its bottom when the tide went out. It was not until the tide went out that the scow was overturned by the leverage of a submerged piling against its bottom when the tide went out. It was not until the tide went out that the scow was overturned by the leverage of a submerged piling against its bottom when the tide went out.

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."

"The pearls?" said the young man. "I don't know what you mean. The pearls are in the room."