The Land of Old Age.

This is one of the bitterest things we mothers have to bear when we get old. We have learned then that we can't help our children to lead their lives one bit better. There is not one single stone we can carry from beneath their feet, be our old fingers ever so willing. With yearning hearts we see them making the mistakes we could teach them to avoid if only they would listen. We see them going through one experience after another, stumbling here, again hurting themselves against the same corner you hurt yourself so long ago, repeating all the world-wide mistakes, while we elders watch anxiously and may not even cry out. "Take care" Our sons repeat the follies of their fathers; our daughters make over again all the mistakes of their mothers. It is very hard to sit in silence when you see them doing all the things that you did and then so painfully learned better. We feel that we could so easily point to the fair open road if our children would let us, but we are as useless to them as guideposts to the blind. We must watch our children lose themselves in a tangle whose miseries we know so well, and see them at last, after long years of wandering, find their way back home heart sore and worn—and all the time we can't help thinking it all needn't have been. That, to us older mothers, is the heart rendering part of it.—Harper's Bazar.

Got $5 Reward For Giving Up $20,000

New York, Sept. 13.—According to the Sun to-day, William Fenlon, an employe of the New York, New Haven, and Hartford Railway at Furchester one day last week found a cigar box lying on the station platform. He took it into the baggage room and opened it. The box was packed with $100 bills.

An hour later a well-dressed woman rushed into the baggage room and asked him if he had seen a cigar box.

"What did it contain?" asked Fenlon.

The woman answered, "Twenty thousand dollars."

Fenlon put his hand under the counter, and, taking hold of the box full of money, handed it to the woman. Too nervous to give her name, or even thank him, the woman rushed out of the room and boarded a train for New York.

Fenlon returned an anonymous letter yesterday containing a $5 bill and thanking him for his honesty.

Population Increases.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 13.—The census taking of the past summer in the three prairie provinces shows Canada now possesses a population west of Lake Superior of something over a million souls.

The returns from Manitoba are not quite complete, but will show something over 200,000, as compared with 255,211 in 1901. Saskatchewan and Alberta both show more rapid gain. The former contains a population of about 260,000 and the latter 185,000. Five years ago the census of these districts gave a population of 163,531.

The True Test of Oysters.

"The best oyster experts that I know of," said the captain of an oyster boat, "judge an oyster by the smell instead of by the taste. There is something about the smell of any oyster that indicates its condition to me much plainly than does the taste. People buy them and eat them probably on account of their taste. So also do they buy tea, coffee and the various grades of whiskey and brandy for their taste, but all experts on those things pass upon them entirely by their smell. The professional tea taster or whiskey taster, so called, never tastes them, but simply arrives at their taste by their peculiarities of flavor or, to speak plainly, smell. I can tell what price a load of oysters will be rated at when they arrive at the wharf here by opening up the hold of the boat and smelling. In eight cases out of ten I am right. It strikes oystermen as strange when they see persons going about from boat to boat, as they lie at the wharf, tasting oysters before they conclude to buy. Taste is all right, but if they don't smell right they will never taste right."

American Tourists and Their Ways.

English people, as a rule, try to enter a hotel drawing room or any other public place as quietly as possible and endeavor not to interfere with the other occupants of the room more than they can help. A party of French or Germans will never dream of stopping to consider whether their piercing voices are deafening their neighbors, while Americans have a particularly maddening habit of reading their correspondence aloud in public without the slightest regard to other people who are reading or conversing in the same room. It is no doubt part of the same lack of breeding which leads them to hold conversations at the top of their very penetrating voices not only in public picture galleries, but also in continental churches, without paying any attention to the fact that a solemn service may be going on within a few yards of them.—London Modern Society.

Too Much is Bad.

"Well," said Old Twilight to Sir Ann's eldest boy, "how'd you make out with yer ram lamb at the fair? Git anything?"

Wilfrid (his father was a grit) looked confused.

"I didn't show him—I never took him out on the wagon."

"Never took him out on the wagon? Snakes alive, boy, what'd you take him there for?"

"Well, when I see the other ram lambs in his class I reckoned he had no show, so I took him home again."

"Ah—huh!" mused Old Twilight, "that's the way with you. We think our ram lamb is the greatest ram lamb that ever happened; and if we never went away from home we'd never see no idee what a real high bred ram lamb looked like. There's an old sayin' that a rillin' stone gathers no moss. Well, moss ain't much use to a body, any way, and 'sperience is. Yes, sir, this here boy uv Sir Ann's has found out that there's milliums—yes, thousands uv ram lambs who wouldn't be found dead in a ten-acre field with his runt of a ram lamb. They wouldn't associate with him; they wouldn't be seen in his company; but Sir Ann's boy didn't know that till he took his imitation ram lamb to the fair. He found out that breeding and size don't fize so long as you don't 'fit' yer ram lamb to the show. How're you gon' to learn how? Why, go way from home an' associate with moss."

Wilfrid had been 'fitted' to make their mark.

"If I had a boy uv my own, I'd kick him out when he was 'bout twenty an' make him rough it among strangers for a few years. When he ken home he would know a good ram lamb when he see him, and could start a nice flock uv sheep then."

"Well, Wilf, I'm glad ye took yer ram lamb to the fair. Ye didn't git a prize, but ye learned something that'll be a dang sight more usefeller to you than a red ticket an' a diploma."—The Khan

Official Story Puts Blame on the Brakes.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—Last night General Manager McNeill of the C. P. R., gave out the following report of the wreck at Sudbury:

As far as the messenger despatches we have of the accident go to show, it was caused by the failure of the brakes on the express to act. The harvesters' train was standing on the main line, waiting, while the brake-man ahead to turn the switch, so that it might be sidetracked to allow the passage of the east-bound express. Before he could get the switch in position the express arrived and plunged head on into the standing train, smashing the first colonist to fragments and killing or injuring over half of the people in it.

The engineer of the east-bound express was not killed and he later claimed that the accident was caused through the failure of the brakes on his train. A hasty examination of the train proved the correctness of this assertion. A little back of the middle of the express a single wheel on the air brake tubes had been turned, which shut off the latter half of the train, where the heavy sleepers and diner were, from the front end. The result was that when the engineer applied the brakes from the front, half of the train was affected, and the weight of the latter half forced it on into the standing train.

"Had the brakes not been applied at all there would have been a much greater accident, as the harvesters' train was crowded with passengers."

Favor Smaller Farms.

Montreal Star.—Men who have bought land by the square mile and are trying to crop thousands of acres in grain farms may be compelled by the scarcity of labor to divide and sell. This will be no great hardship, for they can take a handsome profit. It will be no loss to the country, for the land will still be worked, and the laborer employed in harvest time will have all the weight of the latter half will grow up on the land. He will maintain and use schools, churches, and other institutions of civilization.

"I Kannot Tel a Lie."

London, Sept. 14.—Punch, in a fullpage cartoon, shows "Teddy" Roosevelt in cowboy costume, sleeves rolled up, standing hatches in hand, by a great tree which represents the English language. Father Time, examining the tree with a powerful nifty glass, observes a slight incision in the tree trunk. "Who has been trying to cut down this tree?" he asks. "Father," answers "Teddy," "I kannot tel a lie, I did it with my lit ax." To this Father Time replies: "Ah, well, boys will be boys."

G. T. R. Pays $4,500.

Sarnia, Sept. 13.—Mrs. Colman, widow of the late John Colman, Grand Trunk engineer, who lost his life in the St. Clair tunnel disaster two years ago, has settled her damage suit with the Grand Trunk Railway Company. The company paid Mrs. Colman $4,500 in full of all damages for the loss of her husband.

Marriage Complications.

William Higginson, of Meriden, Conn., aged 60, was married a few days ago to Mrs. Lucinda Beardsley, a widow. Higginson's two daughters were married recently to Mrs. Beardsley's grandsons. Friends trying to figure out the various relationships have given it up in despair. William Higginson married William Stone and shortly afterward Sadie Higginson was married to Harry Stone, William's brother. Mrs. Stone, mother of the two bridegrooms, is the daughter of Mrs. Beardsley.

A charge of selling liquor during prohibited hours was laid one day last week against Henry Bossesberry, of Grand Bend, by Inspector P. D. McCallum. The case was to have been tried on Friday, but the defendant called on Magistrate Thos. Parkinson, of Thedford, on Thursday, and pleaded guilty. He was fined $75 and $9 3/4 costs. Inspector McCallum is determined that the License Act must be complied with in his inspectorate.

LOCAL OR OTHERWISE.

An increase in pay of country postmasters is in sight. The Postmaster-general is seeking a deputation early in October to talk the matter over. The amount of increase will, doubtless, be fixed afterwards.

Mr. Armstrong, M. P., is superintending the work of cutting down the sand hills on the road into Port Frank. After a layer of clay has been put on the surface, the road will be much improved, and many thanks are due to the man who is so kindly assisting in improving the road.

Mr. CHARLES McMULLEN, of St. Thomas, has a cow which has certainly proven a good investment. Five years ago she gave birth to twin calves which he sold at one year old for $40. Two years ago two more arrived, sold one year and nine months for $80, and on Sunday, Sept. 2nd, two more, which will no doubt bring a handsome price.

At the last annual meeting of the Ontario Municipal Association the constitution was amended to include townships from which there should be a large attendance this year. The formation of a section for the consideration of purely township and county questions might be considered. Many of the questions discussed at the last meeting of the Association have been included in legislation adopted at last session. Others were laid over and will be again submitted for approval.

It is not easy to learn to keep a household account book all at once. A young husband gave his wife a neat little account book prettily designed to be inviting in appearance. He also gave her fifty dollars, and said: "I want you to put down what I give you on this side, and on the other write down the way it goes, and in two weeks I will give you another supply." Two weeks later he asked for the book. "Oh, I have kept that account," said the young man; "here it is." And on one page was inscribed: "Received from Fred, fifty dollars," and on the opposite was this summary, "Spent it all."

"I do wish it would rain some," sighed Aunt Lucy. "We won't get rain till the Watford Fair starts. That there fair is booked pretty deep in the rainy season. I do sincerely hope that they will keep up that air fair, else we won't get no rain in the autumn months 'till all 'Stonishin' what luck some faira here. Some of um hit on mud an' wind every time, and the only thing you bring home with you is the memory of a miserable day and large quantities of real estate. Soon's you see the hills out for the Watford Fair, Lucy, you kin set out yer rain bar's. 'Till then we'll haul water from the creek."

Wounded Twice By Same Bullet.

Ions, Mich., Sept. 12.—Stanley Wiczorek stepped into his sister's, Mrs. Frank Katz's room at her home this afternoon, moved a chair and knocked over two guns standing in the corner. The rifle exploded and the ball shattered her right wrist bone and again entered the body at the front and lodged under the collar bone. She will live.

They All Failed.

Many have tried to devise a corn cure equal to Putnam's but after fifty years nothing has come upon the market that so painlessly cures corns and warts. Don't experiment, use the best, and that's Putnam's.

News for Sportsmen.

St. Thomas, Sept. 11.—A letter has been received from the provincial game warden directing the attention of the local sportsmen to the fact that the department will allow an open season for quail this year during the month of November also the denial and be satisfied with three or four brace per day, instead of destroying whole beves as in the past. Mr. Tinsley trusts that the lovers of sport will be guided by the admonition contained in his letter.

Is there anything more annoying than having your corns popped upon? Is there anything more delightful than getting rid of it? Holloway's Corn Cure will do it. Try it and be convinced.

Honey is Scarce.

"There is a great scarcity of honey, throughout Ontario," said William Mo-Evy, of Woodburn, provincial inspector. "The crop is a complete failure in nearly every part. The scarcity is due to the extreme cool and wet weather, which prevailed during June and July." Prices have gone so high that many people have refused to buy honey. The honey is selling as high as 25 cents per pound. Last season the same quality could be bought for 12 cents. Mr. Mo-Evy anticipates that prices will go still higher.

Divorced and Remarried.

Yesterday afternoon a happy event took place at the rectory of St. George's Church, when Rev. Canon Davis performed the ceremony that joined together John Masterson, aged 36, of Mount Clemens, Mich., and Mrs. Helen Masterson, aged 32, of Port Huron. A peculiar feature of the marriage was the fact that this is the second time that Mr. and Mrs. Masterson have been married to each other. They were divorced eight years ago and have lived apart during that time. Canon Davis evidently got busy again and the result was the wedding of yesterday. The bride and groom appeared as happy as two turtle doves and left for their home at Mount Clemens after receiving the congratulations of Rev. Canon Davis on the happy termination of their estrangement.

The Oven That Ends Guesswork

Before you put the roast in an Imperial Oxford oven, let the draft bring the heat to the right point. You'll know when it gets there if you'll look at the oven thermometer. After the roast goes in, you can know (not guess) it will be cooked right in a certain definite time. There's no up-and-downs to the oven-heat in a range built as this one is,—the diffusive oven-flue takes all the guess work out of cooking, all the drudgery out of oven-use.

That Rack That Ends Bother

When the roast needs basting, pull forth the Imperial Oxford draw-out oven rack, roast and all—slide it right out where you can get at it. Needn't reach in and scorch your fingers nor wear your wrists, baste it in comfort. That one thing alone—the draw-out rack—ought to make you like this range above all ranges. And that's only one of the twelve better things about this range. Come and look.
