

*There is thy God who never railed
On penitence and faith.*

Confide, my brother, in mankind
Midst passion, sorrow, gropings blind ;
All are like thee---no human mind
 But feels for human woe.
From self, look out into the sea
Of human action ; and be free
In sympathy with misery
 And soon thy cup will overflow.

THE END.