

A Sunday School Library

SHOULD have the best books procurable. Our stock is very large, and well assorted. Our prices are very low, and the quality of the books first-class. Whether your order is given in our store or per mail, it will receive our prompt and careful attention.

A GOOD OFFER

If you are wishing new books, and cannot get to our showrooms, we will be pleased to send double the quantity for your inspection, returning what you do not require, we paying freight one way.

We are sure that it will be to your advantage to look over our stock. Our books are carefully selected for Library purposes, and in sending out books, we are careful to send nothing but what may be placed before Sunday School readers, both old and young.

Keep your library up-to-date, and you will find that many more books will be read than if a library is allowed to get old and stale. Freshen it up with the new works, and the scholars will appreciate the effort. We are here to help you. Here is a new book that should be in the Library as soon as possible:

Dwellers in Gotham

A Vivid Story of New York's Social, Commercial and Religious Life

BY ANNAN DALE.

CLOTH, POSTPAID, $1.25.

Rev. J. E. Lancelley writes—"I read this book; I read it all. That means something; for I soon tire of a shallow story. It is a living picture of the dwellers in a large city. It turns the tenement and the mansion both inside out, and deals free-handed with the great problems at which too many look askance. Society in all its branches is portrayed by a mind evidently not untutored in its wise and foolish thought and deed. The story will interest all classes because it deals with all classes—mother, father, master, servant, wealth, poverty, self and myself, all have a faithful incarnation in the characters portrayed."

Prof. C. T. Winchester, of the Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., writes—"I have read the book. When I once struck into it I didn't quit till I had finished it. And I didn't want to. I assure you I did most heartily enjoy it. It is racy, sparkling, suggestive, from cover to cover."
