

for us, must from this day of Armageddon forward regard themselves as brothers, sealed in a pact of blood, who will not sell back again for gold that which their gallant sons have purchased with their lives.

