

ARMY AND NAVY ARE A GREAT ECONOMY

Rev. T. Crawford Brown Tells 48th Highlanders That the Militia is a Force for Peace and Industrial Development, and an Inspiration for Virile Manhood.

"Peace and War" was the subject of Rev. T. Crawford Brown's sermon to the 48th Highlanders, who paraded 48 strong to St. Andrew's Church, West King street, Sunday morning, and occupied the whole floor of the auditorium. Seated in the chancel the regimental band played a stirring accompaniment to the singing.

The sermon of Rev. T. Crawford Brown, who is chaplain of the regiment, was virtually a reply to those who condemned the upkeep of a militia on the grounds that it weakened the productive capacity of a nation and resulted in burdensome taxation. The pastor, however, contended that an army and navy, by insuring a country against the aggressions of foreign powers, lent a stability to commerce and gave an impetus to the development of all natural resources.

To disband the standing army and thus leave the soldiers free to enter industrial pursuits and to divert to other channels the vast revenue which at present was being expended to provide for the national defence, he declared, only possible in an ideal world. If there was universal obedience to the principles of Christianity a world-wide peace would be assured, he said, but under the present conditions the best security of peace was the army and navy. Britain's national defence had, he declared, won for her the respect of all powers, and the value of her militia as a police force had prevented many wars.

Canada's Obligations.

The sense of being able to provide for its own security was a great asset to a nation, he declared. It gave virility to the manhood of a country and it produced a noble patriotism. Now that Canada was feeling the pulse of national power, she needed to realize her national obligations. It was not just nor moral, he declared, that we should enjoy British freedom and privileges unless we were prepared to assist in times of peril. If the Dominion were otherwise disposed it would be a reflection upon the manhood and dignity of Canadians.

Democracy, Mr. Brown declared, had its weaknesses as well as its strength. There was a tendency in England today to level down, to refuse to respect distinctions and achievements. This, he claimed, was a danger. There would be no effort if man was deprived of the incentive to work. In the militia however, this socialistic tendency could not generalize. Soldiers were taught absolute obedience, he said, and taught that distinction was the product of ambition. The pastor hoped that the time would come when everybody would be compelled to take a course in military training. There was no better school for the training of young men than the militia, which provided discipline and inspired patriotism, obedience and reverence for power. The militia had been often called a great waste, but it was in reality a great economy.

The Toronto World's Proverb Contest

Just Beginning!

Just Beginning!

—the most original and fascinating contest of "wit and brains" ever conducted in Canada. The object is to solve from a picture (see today's picture on this page) the proverb it represents. The first picture was published on Thursday, October 3rd. The last will be published on December 16th. If you missed the first four proverb pictures you can get them at the office of The World or by mail and enter the contest at once.

Here Are the Rules of the Contest

The Toronto World Proverb Contest is a test of skill and diligence, designed to encourage thought and research on the part of the young and provide a pleasant mental diversion for everyone.

Every day, for a period of seventy-five (75) days, there will appear in The Toronto Daily and Sunday World an illustration, cartoon or other representation of a commonly used and well-known English proverb.

The Toronto World will award PRIZES AGGREGATING OVER $5000 IN VALUE to readers of The Daily and Sunday World who send in the correct or nearest correct answers to the entire series of illustrations. The first proverb picture was published in The Daily World, Thursday, October 3rd.

The correct answers, to serve as a basis of awards, are being selected according to their common use by the Contest Manager, and three representatives of The Daily and Sunday World, and will shortly be placed under seal in a Safety Deposit Vault.

This list of correct answers will remain under seal until called for by the judges, whose names will be announced in due course, and who will have full control of the examination of the answers and the awarding of the prizes.

The correct answers are also included in The Toronto World's Book of English Proverbs, which is published as a guide and reference for contestants' use in the contest.

To compete for the prizes, contestants need only to supply the proverbs represented by the illustrations that will appear daily, and send in their answers, at the close of the contest, according to the rules. The person sending in the correct or nearest correct list of answers to the entire series of seventy-five (75) illustrations will be awarded the first prize. The person sending in the second nearest correct list of answers will receive the second prize, etc., etc. Entry may be made at any time before the contest is entirely closed. Rules follow:

1. The Toronto World's Proverb Contest is open to all readers of The Daily and Sunday World in Canada, except employees of The Daily and Sunday World and members of their families. Anyone not excepted as above mentioned may enter the contest by simply becoming a regular reader of The Toronto Daily and Sunday World.
2. Contestants must write the Proverbs represented by the illustrations upon the coupon provided therefor and which will appear on Page 2 of The Daily and Sunday World every day during the contest. Answers may be written with pen, pencil, or typewriter, and arranged in any manner to suit the contestant.
3. Each picture represents only one proverb. Where contestants are not certain as to the correct proverb represented, they will be permitted to send five (5) answers (not more) to each proverb illustration. If the correct answer is given, in correct answers will not count against a contestant.
4. Only one answer may be written upon a single coupon. Extra coupons must be used for additional answers, and all coupons of the same number must be kept together in making up the set.
5. Different members of a family may compete in the contest, but only one prize will be awarded to any one family or household, and only one set of answers will be accepted from any individual contestant.
6. Answers must not be sent in until the last proverb illustration has been printed. After the last picture has been printed, contestants must arrange their coupons in numerical order, fasten them securely together and deliver or mail them in a neat, flat package (not rolled or rolled, plainly addressed to the Contest Manager, The Toronto World, Toronto, Canada, within the time specified in the following rule.
7. The time of receiving answers will have no effect upon the awarding of the prizes with this exception: All answers must be delivered at the office of The Toronto World or bear postmark of mailing of not later than midnight, December 28, 1912, twelve days after the last or 75th picture is published.
8. The prizes will be awarded to Toronto Daily and Sunday World readers sending in the correct or nearest correct set of answers to the entire series of seventy-five (75) Proverb Illustrations.
9. In the event of a tie between two (2) or more persons, the contestant sending in the nearest correct list of answers with the least number of coupons will be declared the winner. Where two (2) or more contestants submit the same number of correct answers upon the same number of coupons the value of the prize or prizes thus tied for will be equally divided among those tying.
10. In making the awards, the judging committee, whose names will be announced in due course, will take into account the similarity and exact wording of the proverb answers as selected by the Contest Manager and three representatives of The Daily and Sunday World, and as contained in The Toronto World's Book of English Proverbs; spelling, wording, punctuation, and the correct construction of the proverbs are the essentials that will be graded.
11. Where a set of answers is securely fastened together the contestant will be permitted to stamp (with rubber stamp) or abbreviate his or her name on the space allotted for same, and omit the full address from the greater majority of the blanks. PROVIDED THAT SUCH FULL NAME AND FULL POST-OFFICE ADDRESS IS plainly and distinctly written upon the FIRST SIX AND LAST SIX BLANKS of the set.
12. In sending in the answers at the close of the contest it is important that contestants seal all packages containing answers, and, if mailed, contestants should exercise great care to see that postage is fully prepaid at the rate, one cent per ounce, or fraction thereof, in Toronto, and two (2) cents per ounce, or fraction thereof, outside of Toronto, as The Toronto World is not bound to pay postage due on any set of answers.

All communications or letters of enquiry concerning the Proverb Contest must be addressed to the Contest Manager, Toronto World, Toronto, Canada.
