Predicts Utter Breakdown of Government's Measure for Ireland.

Dublin, April 5. — Complete break-down thrucut Ireland of the Lioyd George home rune pin, which has passed second reading in the house of commons, was forecast yesterday by Sir Horace Plunkett, president of the Dominion Home Rule League.

TUESDAY MORNING APRIL 6 1920

"If this bill becomes an act, as ems possible, it will tail in Ireland, mply because it will be to the Irish simply because it will be to the Irish people what its predecessors have been for the British government—a scrap of paper," Plunkett declared in an interview with a United News correspondent.

"Lloyd George describes his bill as generous than the act of 1914, but, politically, it is the least generous of any measure yet proposed. Its purpose is not home rule for Ireland, but, as the prime minister has declared, it is a bestowal of states rights, similar to the American plan for state legislature, and this upon a people who have already acquired that right under their own congress.
"Under the existing act, which the proposed bill will repeal, the Irish Nationalists had won their national congress. Now they are offered two state legislatures. The proposed joint council is in no sense a national parliament, and its power to create

"Anglo-Irish conflicts have been prolonged by the retention of Irish representatives at Westminster. The internal Irish problem of agreement between the Protestants and Catholics will be aggravated and perpetuated by the deliberate creation of two states, with areas so defined as to reduce the chance of union to a minimum.

One Ray of Hope.

"Ulster has concentrated the forces of six of its nine counties, and this gerrymandering, which perpetuates the partition of Ireland, is the work of Ulster and British Unionist politiclans, who are determined to main-tain the present disunion in Ireland. One ray of hope in the tragic gloom of the recent debate on the bill was shed by representatives of British Labor and Independent Liberalism. who supported substantially the same policy as the Irish Dominion League. They thereby established a policy which will be the practical alternative when the present government policy breaks down in Ireland and England.

The Dominion Home Rule League plan is steadily gaining ground in the British dominions, and for obvious reason it will be generally supported. During my recent visit to the United States, the league plan had only to be explained to be approved. Among other evidences of this trend of opinion, I have just received a copy of a resolution passed unanimously by the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick of Orange, New Jersey, endorsing Dominion League's demands."
