SYSTEM FOR SAFE-GUARDING OF LIFE IS RECOMMENDED

The jury which last night heard the evidence at the inquest into the death of Charles Godfrey, who was killed this week at Sand Point, returned the following verdict:

"We, your jury, empanelled to inquire into the death of the late Charles Godfrey, do find that the same Charles Godfrey came to his death at the General Public Hospital, on Tuesday, Jan. 6, 1915, at or about 12:30 p. m., as a result of injuries received on the steamship Montreal on Monday, Jan. 4, lying at No. 3 berth, West St. John. While on a ladder in No. 8 hatch, in connection with his work, he was struck by a sling of shoos being lowered down into the said hatch, knocking him off the ladder into the hold below, a distance of about twenty-two feet.

"We further find that due protection was not given by the employer to guard the life of the deceased.

"We recommend as the result of our finding, that all steamship companies and employers of labor in and about such vessels do install some system which will provide protection for or the safe-guarding of their employees to prevent such occurrences in the future."

Witnesses at the inquest, held in the city police court by Coroner Roberts included R. H. Blennerhassett, superintendent of the docks for the C. P. R.; Louis Dragon, foreman of the carpenters, and the employer of the victim;

William J. Wilson, Fred J. Jones, Alphonse Fraser, James A. Beers, Dr. P. L. Kenney and Dr. Fred T. Dunlop.

A well-known author has adopted the rule that all applicants for his autograph must first furnish satisfactory proof that they have read his books. A young girl recently wrote to the novelist for his autograph. By return of post came a single typewritten line:

"Have you read my last book?" "I sincerely hope not."

The autograph came promptly.

"FORGET YOURSELF WHEN POSING BEFORE CAMERA"

LESSONS FROM IRENE HOUGH'S BEAUTY
The Most Beautiful Telephone Girl in America

Don't Be Self-conscious Before the Camera
(By Ida McGilone Gibson.)
"The amateur said Mr. Totten, director of 'The Way of the Woman,' gets stage fright when she faces a camera."

Usually when one goes to have one's picture taken the first mistake one makes is by dressing in some strange manner which Miss Hough has posted to illustrate this series of hints that she also can do things.

Here is an important little hint to the beauty seeker.
While you remain self-conscious and self-centered you will never look well in a picture—nor anywhere else.

How quickly the years have rolled away! How we long at times each other to see,

At whose knee we so often knelt.

Where brothers and sisters dwell,
With all such a fervent love for her

For those of the home freeride.
No matter what ties we have formed

We are brothers and sisters yet;
The old love reigns just as strong and true,

And naught could make us forget.
To have a lost brother or sister near,

And talk of the things we have planned.
To talk of the mother whose image is

Is forcibly engraved on each heart,
But oh, how we long all to meet once

again.
And to know that we never need part

MAY E. WALDEN.

Chicago to Petrograd is the latest excursion trip arranged in the world-wide ramifications of the C. P. R. and at present regular runs between the western metropolises of the United States and the capital of all the Russias are being conducted. For $34.25 any Russian in Chicago can now get to Petrograd, if he also pays the railway fare to St. John or Halifax to catch the boat. Passengers by this route will take a decidedly interesting journey. They will leave Chicago for Montreal, thence by rail to St. John or Halifax. Then they will take the C. P. R. boat to Liverpool. From Liverpool they will sail to ports in Sweden or Finland, and from there make the final run to Petrograd, in the meantime avoiding mines and German war vessels. It is not likely that the history of rail and steamship travel has ever shown a single advertised trip with so many countries and so many possibilities for so small a price.

This service has been put on by the C. P. R. owing to the large number of Russians desiring to return to their native land since the war started. In present conditions, the Russians have a predilection for traveling by British routes, feeling safer under the Union Jack. Hitherto Russians coming to Canada generally journeyed via New York, but now conditions have been reversed, and on their return journey they are taking the Canadian line.

While the trip is easy for the ordinary Russian who wants to get back to a land of cheap living until present troubles are over, it is not the same with Russian reservists. Russian reservists cannot take the C. P. R. from Montreal to St. John, owing to the fact that the line runs through a section of Maine. They will therefore be transferred at Montreal to the Intercolonial and go through to Halifax by that road, thus avoiding American territory. They will not in any event travel as reservists, but simply as ordinary passengers, with the privilege of becoming soldiers when they reach the Czar's domains. Ordinary passengers will be able to continue by the C. P. R. to St. John.

Prepare for War Hazards
War time hazards are strongly reflected in the Chicago advertisements of this service. It is provided that "Passengers should have sufficient funds for maintenance in case of delay caused by international hostilities, and must have passports issued by the Russian consul."

It is said that a large number of Russians who have been in Chicago and the western states are taking advantage of this service. One party will come through Montreal and sail for Petrograd from St. John this month, another later.

Pacific Service Resumes
Another evidence of the effect of battle on maritime commerce is shown by the fact that as a direct result of the defeat of the German fleet off the Falkland Islands, at the extreme southern point of South America, the Canadian Pacific has been able to resume its trans-Pacific passenger and freight service. Only one boat will go into commission at present, but it will be followed later on by others.

The British Admiralty has notified the C. P. R. that they have released their steamship "Monteagle" which since the opening of the war had been taken over for Admiralty purposes. The Monteagle will, as soon as she is put into shape, return to her regular run between Hong Kong and Vancouver. The other C. P. R. Pacific Empresses are still engaged in the Admiralty business.

MOTHER'S BIRTHDAY

Today is our loved one's birthday,
I like to remember it so,
I like to go back in memories sweet
To the dear days of long ago.
I like to recall that little home
Where brothers and sisters dwell,
With all such a fervent love for her
At whose knee we so often knelt.

We are scattered far and wide;
Yet in each heart dwells the same old love.
For those of the home freeride.
No matter what ties we have formed
We are brothers and sisters yet;
The old love reigns just as strong and true,
And naught could make us forget.

And to clasp a loved one's hand,
To have a lost brother or sister near,
And talk of the things we have planned.
To talk of the mother whose image is
Is forcibly engraved on each heart,
But oh, how we long all to meet once
again.
And to know that we never need part

How quickly the years have rolled away! How we long at times each other to see,
