

A BIG PLANT NEAR MONCTON

Reduction of Albert County
Oil Shales—A $12,000,000
Expenditure.

(Moncton Times)
Nestling among the contours of the Caledonian Hills in Albert County, sixteen miles, as the crow flies, from the City of Moncton, is what may with every likelihood prove to be the first phase in the establishment of a twelve million dollar plant and the embryo of a thriving city. Both the local and far-reaching effects of the completion of such a huge project could not fail to add greatly to the position and influence of the Dominion of Canada as a whole and of New Brunswick in particular, especially when one considers the reason for all this. The explanation may be summed up in one word—"OIL" in capital letters.

For years it has been known that New Brunswick and especially Albert County, is rich in oil-bearing shales, and for the past twenty years experiments and drillings have been more or less quietly prosecuted until the optimism of those interested culminated last winter in what may be termed the first step to establish a modern plant for the reduction of the shale to a commercial product.

The dream of a Moncton gentleman, dating back some twenty years, are very near realization. It would not be oversteating the fact to say that Mr. M.
