GOOD THINGS COMING TO THEATRES OF ST. JOHN

CHAPLIN
MIX UP
SECOND
PICTURE

The famous Chaplin feet nearly disorganize the unit of the expeditionary forces in his second million-dollar comedy, "Shoulder Arms," to be shown at the Imperial Theatre on Wednesday next.

A command from his sergeant to "take those feet in" confuses Charlie in his effort to learn what place his superior refers to as "in." On a practice hike they again cause trouble by revelling blantly into the path of his soldier companions on either side in the line, making blockades as effectual as rocks. Later, in the trenches, they prove their worth as factors in teaching Hun the latest American war time steps. When Charlie receives a gift of linburger cheese and biscuits from "somebody back home," he decides that it is a much more appropriate thing for the enemy than for a soldier hungering for cake and apple pie, with the result that it successfully performs the work of an artillery barrage in discouraging a pending Hun assault on the Allied trenches.

WOMAN WITH NOTABLE WAR RECORD HERE

Mrs. Yemans, Assistant Commandant of Women's Legion—Does Noble Work on Shipboard on Mission to Canada

An interesting visitor in the city is Mrs. Frances R. Yemans, assistant commandant of the Women's Legion, who wears the ribbons of the order of the Royal Red Cross, the Most Star and the Order of the British Empire on her military uniform, in recognition of her services since the outbreak of the war.

Mrs. Yemans was one of the first party of 108 British nurses who crossed to France in Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht in August, 1914, at the outbreak of hostilities. She saw continuous service at the front until she was wounded in 1915.

When she recovered, she was assigned to administrative work, and later to the command of a hospital ship, where she was more responsible tasks being entrusted to her in her capacity as assistant commandant of the women's legion, she has been responsible for the training of 1914-1915.

Her visit to Canada is made at the request of the Dominion government and on her arrival in Ottawa she will confer with the immigration and other government authorities on a plan to bring to Canada large numbers of trained women and girls for domestic work in this country.

Mrs. Yemans arrived on the Scandinavian and took up her quarters at the hotel. She had performed in aiding in the care of wounded soldiers and children, and she had little to say of her own efforts, preferring to talk of the unselfishness of the ship's officers and others who gave up their cabins for the use of sick women and children and of their efforts to alleviate the distress among the passengers. In reply to a question, Mrs. Yemans said that she felt that more nurses should be provided to care for the women and children.

Others who came out on the same steamer speak with the greatest enthusiasm of the self-sacrificing work of Mrs. Yemans during the trip and of the way in which she devoted herself, day and night to the sick and suffering, even giving up her own cabin for the use of some of the soldiers' wives and sleeping on the floor or wherever she could find a place.

When asked about this feature of her work, Mrs. Yemans had little to say, but she did say that while she had been entrusted with some work that had been regarded as important since the war began, she knew of no work which she would prefer to undertake than traveling on the steamers with the soldiers' families and aiding in their care.

PRICES OF McLAUGHLIN CARS TO REMAIN STEADY, SAYS LOCAL MANAGER

An interview with W. J. McAlary, local McLaughlin manager, makes certain that the purchaser of a McLaughlin car between now and the end of the 1919 season is not running any chance that the price will be subject to further change during that period.

There has been considerable speculation as to what the McLaughlin Carriage Company was going to do about the prices of their cars, as the close of the war left things in such an uncertain condition regarding the price and quantity of new material available that a good many people felt it would be impossible for the really big manufacturers to find their bearings for some time to come.

"This prompt action on the part of the company shows that they have been able to clear the situation up sooner than anybody expected, and for one an endless lot of new material is available at the price of the season."

"Their war orders which have been demanding the major part of their engine have been completed and the announcement of the present prices is evidence that they shall be able to take care of the greater part of them within a few days. We shall continue to follow our old policy of filling orders and will make every effort to see that the McLaughlin cars this year and for the Christmas holidays left for New York on Thursday to resume her regular studies at St. Luke's Hospital in that city."
