States, and further it will tend toward cementing further the good feeling and peace between Greater Britain and our great neighbor to the South. There can be no doubt as to the result of the election. Sir Wilfrid will come back with a stronger folowing, and the only unsatisfactory feature in the whole matter is the unnecessary delay in grasping a golden opportunity for the advancement and prosperity of Canada.

The Evening Chit-Chat By RUTH CAMERON

How do you lie when you sleep? And can you lie in more than one position and be comfortable?

An impertinent question?
I'll admit it does sound so, but I'll tell you why I ask it.
I have just been forcibly impressed with the danger of forming too rigid a habit in this respect.

A friend of mine was operated upon for appendicitis. The operation was eminently successful, but my friend had a pretty serious time of it simply because he had to lie on his back on account of the incision, and having invariably slept on his side a'l his life he could not get to sleep in the new position.

A young business woman contributes a less serious but none the less unpleasant experience. She spramed her right shoulder and, having a rigid habit of always sleping on that side, lost several nights' sleep and was actually incapacitated for work because she had to lie on her back.

There has been much said in medical circles from time to time about the proper position in which to sleep.
Some doctors advocate sleeping on the back; others on the right side.

Some doctors advocate sleeping on the back; others of the right side.

A prominent physician says that the normal position in which to sleep is on the stomach and that you will notice that a healthy child invariably sleeps on his stomach.

The left side, I believe, has no advocates at all, as lying on that side brings too great a pressure on the heart.

Of course, I don't know anything about all this, but one thing I do know and want to impress upon you, and that is that if you will train yourself to be able to sleep in more than one position, and especially to be able to sleep on the back if necessary, you may be forestalling many sleepless and uncomfortable nights.

We have heard much talk lately about the danger of protruding hatpins.
So much, in fact, that I fancy we are rather wearied of the subject and inclined to think the danger is overrated.

But here is one more word on the matter which has galvanized my indifference, at least, into a new realization of the possible danger and a resolution not to be at fault in this respect.

"I would ask you," writes my correspondent, "to sound a note of warning to the woman wearing long hatpins in small hats. A most deplorable accident occurred to a young lady on the very eve of her graduation from Normal School, caused by the thoughtlessness of another of the graduates in wearing a long hatpin in a small hat with point protruding two or three inches.

"The young lady in question was struck in the eye and may probably lose her sight.

"Now, I think, if many women and girls knew of this accident they would surely be more careful to regulate the length of the pin to the size of the hat, or, if a pin of the required length were not at hand, they could at least see to it that the head and not the point protruded."

den, and retaining sufficient money to be able to purchase the adjoining Fountains Abbey estate.

There is nothing, worthy of particular attention at Studley Royal, save the shooting. But the Fountains Abbey ruins, now comprised in the property, are of wonderful interest. The Abbey owed its man, of-war, escorted by a cruiser and a gunboat, to visit those Danish possessions in the West Indies, the sale of which to the United States was at one time the subject of negotiations which came to nothing, owing to overwhelming popular and the information and the information of the considerable attention and the information of the subject of negotiations which came to nothing, owing to overwhelming popular and the information of the committee on the Mayor's inaugural address with regard to the proposed taxation reform was laid on the table to be taken up at a special meetion was made to add to the committee's duties an investigation of the advisability of selling the city's lands in Lancaster but action on this was deferred.

The city's property at Greenhead, which was first brought into the limelight as a desirable site for a cement manufacturing plant by David Craig, is now being anxiously sought by two companies. H. S. Keith, representing one company, has offered $800 for an option on the property and yesterday R. Max McCarty for another group of capitalists offered $1,200 for an option at the same price of $20,000. The whole matter was referred back to the safety board for further investigation as to the intentions of the companies.

It was stated at the meeting that the Ballast wharf property, transferred to F. C. Durant in exchange for city property granted to him for a sugar refinery site,

Candles Melt Down In Few Minutes with Indoor Temperature

Provinces of Saratoff and Samara, where in the open, 154 degrees, Fahr., were registered, appears to have passed down to the lower reaches of the river. At Astrakhan the other day the temperature in the shade was 116 degrees, and in the open 152 degrees Fahr. During the nights, with closed windows, the indoor temperature averages 98 degrees.

One curious effect of the intense heat, says the "Astrakhan Despatch," is that the commonly used stearine candles, already in partially melting state, when lighted completely burn down within a few minutes. A similarly extraordinary heat prevails on the Kirghese Steppe, where there have been many cases of plague.
