TWO SOLDIERS,

—BY—

CAPTAIN CHARLES KING,

UNITED STATES ARMY

Author of Dunraven Ranch, The Colonel's Daughter, From the Ranks, the Deserter, An Army Portia, etc., etc.

SYNOPSIS.

Captain Fred Lane, in charge of the recruiting office, is just appointed to troop D, 11th Cavalry. He has a good record and in society meets and loves Mabel Vincent. Her father consents and Lane wins her promise to be his wife. Financial ruin to Mr. Vincent is averted by Lane's prompt disposal of certain properties. Gordon Noel, a handsome entertaining young man, succeeds Lane at the recruiting office. He is a social favorite and vaunting his bravery in past Indian battles, is almost a lion. Lane knows him and meets him at dinner, where clever Miss Marshall seems to see right through him. The fact is Noel has not yet been under fire, but Lane conceals it. Noel while professing regard for Lane really hates him. He wins Mabel away from Lane and marries her.

Lane is stricken with mountain fever and on his convalescense is ordered East on three months sick leave. Arriving East he again meets Miss Marshall and after conversation with her calls on Mrs. Vincent, who has been much pained by her daughter's deception. At this time a clerk, who deserted with recruiting office funds while Lane was in charge, is arrested by detectives and fully identified by Lane, although Noel had told the detective they were mistaken. Another Indian outbreak is announced and Lane is off for service in six hours, having had only a month's leave. Captain Rawlins has been killed and Noel is appointed to the vacancy and ordered to the front immediately. In the past his application for furlough, because of illness, have succeeded but though his friends intercede again he is not relieved for a day. He is met at the military station near the post by a messenger who gives him peremptory orders to at once proceed to support Lane. His outfit and troop are brought to him there and the time of his departure recorded. He must go.

Lane, by dint of hard riding with his comrades, gets ahead of the Indians, and having despatched a messenger to K troop to hurry up, prepares to attack the Indians.

He strikes them, rescues their prisoners and retires behind a breastwork of rocks where the Indians approach in force. Captain Noel proceeds in Lane's direction very slowly notwithstanding the frequent suggestions of Lieut. Mason that that speed was ordered by the general. At daylight Sergeant Luce, from Lane's command is perceived riding towards them.

Captain Noel reads Lane's message and notwithstanding the urgings of Lieut. Mason only permits a slow trot. He dismounts his command one of whom is fatally wounded and the captain orders his men to retreat and sets them the example. Noel receives a scratch which Mason ridicules and is placed under arrest. The honors of relief are won by Captain Greene. Company K, commanded by Noel arrives when the work is done and three hours late.

Desperate had been the defence; sore had been their need; safe, thorougly safe, they would have been had Noel got there in time; but it was Greene's battalion that finally reached them only at the last moment. And yet this was the thrilling announcement that appeared in the Queen City Chronicle in its morning edition, two days afterwards:

"Gallant Noel! Rescue of the Indian Captives! Stirring Pursuit and Fierce Battle with the Apaches!

'A despatch received last night by the Hon. Amos Withers announces the return from the front of Captain Noel, who so recently left our midst, with a portion of his troop, bringing with him the women and children who had been rnu off by the Apaches on their raid among the ranches south of their reservation. The captain reports a severe fight, in which many of the regiment were killed and wounded, he himself, though making light of the matter, receiving a bullet through the left arm.

"While the rest of the command had gone on in pursuit of the Apaches, the captain was sent by the battalion commander to escort the captives back to the railway.

"This despatch, though of a private character, is fully substantiated by the official report of the general commanding the department to the Adjutant-General of the army. It reads as follows:

"'Captain Noel, of the Eleventh Cavalry, has just reached the railway, bringing with him all but one of the women and children whom the Apaches had carried off into captivity. The other was shot by a bullet in the desperate fight which occurred in San Simon Pass between the commands of Captains Lane and Noel and the Apaches, whose retreat they were endeavoring to head off. Greene's battalion of the Eleventh arrived in time to take part; but on their appearance the Apaches fled through the mountains in the wildest confusion, leaving much of their plunder behind them.

" 'It is impossible as yet to give accurate accounts of the killed and wounded, but our losses are reported to have been heavy.'

"How thoroughly have the predictions of the Chronicle with regard to this gallant officer been fulfilled! To his relatives and his many friends in our midst the Chronicle extends its most hearty congratulations. We predict that the welcome which Captain Noel will receive will be all that his fondest dreams could possibly have cherished."

XVI

For a week the story of Gordon Noel's heroism was the talk of Queen City society. He had led the charge upon the Indians after a pursuit of over a hundred miles through the desert. He had fought his way to the cave in which those poor captive women were guarded, and had himself cut the thongs that bound them. He was painfully wounded, but never quit the fight till the last savage was driven from the field. For daring and brilliant conduct he was to be promoted over the heads of all the captains in his regiment. His name was already before the President for a vacancy in the Adjutant-General's Department, and the appointment would be announced at once. He was coming East just as soon as the surgeon said he was well enough to travel. Mrs. Noel wanted to join him, but he had telegraphed saying no, that he would soon be with her.

So rang the chorus for several days. At the club the men shook hands over the news, and sent telegrams of praise and congratulation to Noel, and drank his health in bumpers; and two or three "old sore-heads," who ventured to point out that the official reports were not yet in, were pooh-poohed and put down.

Amos Withers had left Washington on a midnight train immediately after furnishing the Chronicle with the contents of his dispatch, making no allusion to the part of it which said, "Now push for that vacancy. Not an instant must be lost." Nobody could say nay to the man who had subscribed the heaviest sum to the campaign fund in his own State, and therefore both its Senators and half its representatives in the House went with him to the President to urge the immediate nomination of Captain Noel to the majority in the Adjutant-General's Department made vacant by the promotion consequent upon the retirement of one of its oldest members. Already the War Department had furnished the Executive with the names and records of the four men which it considered most deserving, and Gordon Noel's name was not one of the four. But what was that in comparison with the eminent pecuniary and political services of Mr. Withers, when the nephew had just behaved so superbly in action?

Meantime the Apaches had scattered through the mountains and escaped across the border, the remnant of Lane's troop taking part in the pursuit, and they with their commander, only slowly returning to the railway. For three or four days Noel had the wires and the correspondents pretty much to himself; but then some of those enterprising news-gatherers had been getting particulars from the men, and there were two or three of K troop in the detachment who could not conceal their derision and contempt when the newspaper-men spoke of the bravery of their captain. This set the correspondents to ferreting, and then the despatches began to take a different color. The very day that Mabel received her first letter from her husband, and was reading extracts from it to envious friends who had come in to swell the chorus of jubilee and congratulation, an evening paper intimated that recent despatches received from the seat of war revealed a different state of affairs than was popularly supposed.

But by this time interest was waning. It is the first impression that is always the strongest, the first story that is longest remembered, and no man who has believed one version will accept the truth without vigorous resistance. In his letter to his wife, Noel had spoken modestly of himself and slightingly of his wounds. This only made her worship him—her hero, her gallant Gordon—the more insanely. He intimated that he had been compelled to place in arrest one of the prominent officers of the regiment for misconduct in the face of the enemy; and this and previous matters, he said, would surely make of this officer an unrelenting foe. She need not be surprised, therefore, if this gentleman should strive to do him grievous harm. Mabel blushed becomingly as she read these lines to some of her friends, and that night at the club it was hinted that Lane had been placed in close arrest for failing to support Noel in his desperate assault. Just at this time, too, Mr. Withers came back from Washington, looking mysterious.

The next published despatches were from the general himself. He was incensed over the escapeof the Apaches. Measures for the capture were complete, and it broadly hinted that acertainwas officer would be brought to trial forhis failureto carry out positive rders.

"It is believed," said the Chronicle, "that the fficer referred to is well known in the community, as he had oddly enough, been a predecessor in the recruiting-service of the actual hero of the campaign."

Two weeks went by. There was no announcement of Noel's name as promoted. Other matters occupied the attention of the club and the coteries, and no one knew just what it all meant when it was announced that Mrs Noel had suddenly left for the frontier to join her husband. Perhaps his wounds were more severe than at first reported. Then it was noticed that Mr. Withers was in a very nervous and irritable frame of mind, that constant despatches were passing between him and Captain Noel in the west, and that suddenly he departed again on some mysterious errand for Washington. And then it was announced that Captain Noel would not be able to visit the East as had been expected.

All the same it came as a shock which completely devastated the social city of the Queen City when it was announced in the New York and Chicago papers that a general court-martial had been ordered to assemble at Fort Gregg, New Mexico, for the trial of Captain Gordon Noel, Eleventh Cavalry, on charges of misbehavior in the face of the enemy, and conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.

The Chronicle made no allusion to the matter until after it was heralded over the city by the other journals. Then it was in possession of information showing conclusively that Captain Noel was the victim of the envy of certain officers in his regiment, and that the charges had been trumped up from the false and prejudiced statement of the man whom he had been compelled to place in arrest for misconduct in action. "Captain Noel had demanded a court-martial," said the Chronicle, "that he might be triumphantly vindicated, as he undoubtedly would be."

At the club several men surrounded Lieutenant Bowen with eager inquiry as to the facts in the case. Bowen, who was now in charge of the rendezvous as Noel's successor, wos very reticent when interrogated. He said that while an officer might demand a court of inquiry, he could not demand a court-martial; they were entirely different things; and it was certainly the latter that had been ordered.

"Was there not some likelihood of malice and envy being at the bottom of the charges?" he was asked. "And was it not unfair to let him be tried by officers prejudiced against him?"

Bowen said he did not belong to the Eleventh, but he knew it well enough to say no to the first part of the question. As to the other, there were only two officers from that regiment on the court, and one was Noel's old friend and colonel,—Riggs.

It was in the midst of this talk that Mr. Amos Withers had suddenly appeared and begged a few words in private with Mr. Bowen.

Withers was in a state of nervous excitement, as any one could see. He talked eagerly, even pleadingly, with the silent lieutenant, and at last suddenly arose and, with the look of a defeated and discomfited man, left the club-house entered his carriage, and was driven rapidly away.

That night an officer from the War Department arrived in the Queen City, and was closeted for a while with Lieutenant Bowen, after which the two went to the Chief of Police, and, in company with him, visited the cell where Trainer, deserter and forger, was confined, took his statement and that of the Chief, and with these documents the officer went on to division headquarters.

Meantime, the campaign had come to an end. Captain Noel had reported, in arrest, to the commanding officer at Fort Gregg, and Mrs. Riggs had tearfully greeted him: "She would so love to have him under her roof, that she might show her sympathy and friendship; but so many officers of high rank were coming on the court that the colonel was compelled to give every bit of room he had to them." Noel thanked her nervously, and said he could be comfortable anywhere, but his wife was coming: she had telegraphed that she could not be separated from him when he was suffering wrong and outrage. Captain and Mrs. Lowndes, moved to instant sympathy, begged that he would make their quarters his home, and placed their best room at his disposal.

Two evenings afterwards he was permitted to go himself to the railway to meet Mabel, who threw herself into his arms and almost sobbed her heart out at sight of his now haggard and care-worn face. Mrs. Lowndes then came forward and strove to comford her, while Noel rushed off to send some telegrams. Then they drove out to the post, and Mabel's spirits partially revived when she found that it was not a prison she had come to share with her husband. Everybody was so gentle and kind to her, she began to believe there was nothing very serious in the matter after all.

It lacked yet five days to the meeting of the court, and in the intervening time there arrived at the post a prominent and distinguished lawyer from the East, sent to conduct the defence by Mr. Withers's orders; and many a long talk did he hold with his client and the officers who were gathering at Gregg.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold, a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by Parker Bros., Market Square, G. W. Hoben, North End, S. Watters, West End.

Possible Danger From Flood.

WASHINGTON, Col., March 30.—O. Hernst, superintendent of public buildings and grounds in this city and a member of the Mississppi river commission has just returned from a trip in the south. He says the river is very high and there is a good deal of danger from flood. He thinks, however, the chances are that the greatest danger has passed.

SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY.—A marvelous cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth, and Headache. With each bottle there is an ingenious nasal Injector for the more successful treatment of these complaints without extra charge. Price 50c. Sold by Parker Bros., Market Square, G. W. Hoben, North End, S. Waters, West End.

It is now rumored the declaration of a seige in Manicaland of the Portuguese was due to a fresh English invasion of that country.

No douche or instrument is required to apply Nasal Balm. It is easy to use, pleasant and agreeable in its effects. Use nothing else for catarrh and cold in the head.

A Philosophical Family.

Amelia has pimples, and sores in the head,
From humors internal her nose has grown red;
She's a boil on her neck that is high as a bell,
But in other respects she is doing quite well.

And pa had dyspepsia, malaria and gout,
His hands with salt-rhume are all broken out;
He is prone to rheumatics that make his legs swell,
But in other respects he is doing quite well.

And ma has night-sweats and a troublesome cough,
That all our doctors can't seem to drive off;
She wakes every night and coughs quite a spell,
But in other respects she is doing quite well.

There is nothing like philosophy to help one bear the ills of life, but in the case of this family what is most needed is a good supply of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It would cleanse Amelia's bad blood, cure pa's aliments, and check ma's cough. The "Golden Medical Discovery," by its action on the liver, cleanses the system of impurities. It cures humors ulcers, boils, scrofula, salt-rheum, erysipelas, and all kinds of sores and swellings, The only guaranteed blood-purifier.

The United States steamer Galena was floated off Gayhead at 10 a. m. yesterday by steam tugs and arrived at Vineyard Haven in tow at 2 p. m. There are no holes in the bottom.

The popularity which Hood's Sarsaparilla has gained as a spring medicine is wonderful. It possesses just those elements of health-giving, blood-purifying and appetite-restoring which everybody seems to need at this season. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A BAD NEIGHBOR.

The Ease with which Russia Can Stir up the Powers.

LONDON, Mar. 30.—Russia is at her old game of making her neighbors uneasy. As she can play it, at little cost and with no risk, and her self importance is gratified by the fear which she excites, she is always looking for a chance to show her teeth a little. A mere parting of the lips suffices.

The movement of a cavalry division toward the Galician frontier is magnified at Vienna into a concentration of troops with hostile intent. The gift of a decoration to President Carnot sets Berlin to thinking of a combined invasion of Germany. A hint to Turkey that the war indemnity must be arranged for throws the Porte into a nervous fit. It is also so easily done that Russia cannot deny herself the gratification of doing it.

Just now there is a revival of war talk. It is rumored that Russia and France are to form an offensive and defensive alliance against Germany and Austria, that Italy is to drop out of the "Dreibund," and that in the autumn the Russian troops will start on their westward march.

There is no necessity of borrowing trouble about these reports. When the autumn comes it will probably find the Russian troops going into their winter barracks, as usual. If an invasion of Posen, or Galicia, or Roumania were intended, the campaign would open in the spring, as soon as the roads were dry, not in the autumn, when the mud would hamper the march till the snows stopped it.

HEREDITARY ORGANIC QUALITY.

Hereditary organic quality is the first, the basis, the most important condition of all the power of function and all happiness. This is congenital, and comes with life and birth. It depends mainly on the parents, and their health, state of mind and body, and is of vast importance not only to the family, but to the community and nation as well.

Children of nervous, weak, braintired, sleepless and dyspeptic parents, will, to a great extent, show as they grow up many of the same conditions and troubles. How important then for parents to give this subject the consideration it so much deserves. It is the duty of every parent to consider carefully his or her condition, and to strengthen the weak points wherever found. Fathers and mothers are often nervous and weak; at times they experience a used-up feeling; they are listless, morose, and often morbid feelings prevail. All these unpleasant and dangerous symptoms can be eradicated by the use of that great health-giver, Paine's Celery Compound. It will give parents what they most delight to see in their children—a robust constitution, vigor, digestive power, brightness and energy. Secure these their characteristics and blessings, and your offspring will be blessed in the same way.

TELEPHONE.
To Subscribers of N. B. Telephone Co. L'td., St. John.
A COMPLETE list of our Subscribers will be issued at an early date giving the names of all parties having Telephones with their corresponding numbers, but before doing so we intend re-distributing our wires upon the switch boards in the exchange so that the busiest wires will be evenly distributed over the whole number of boards, and the work of attending calls will be more equally divided between the operators and upon the distribution of the new list. We would respectfully request subscribers to call by Numbers and discontinue calling by names. This change is necessary to ensure a prompt service as the numbers are plainly before the operators while the names have to be memorized or searched for in the list.

NOTICE.
WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.
Traders, Manufacturers and owners of Weights, Measures and Weighing Machines generally are specially requested to read carefully the following instructions and act accordingly:
1. The Weights and Measures Act provides for a regular biennial inspection of all Weights and Measures used for trade purposes, as well as for irregular inspections of the same, which may be made at any time when deemed necessary by the inspector, and it also imposes a heavy penalty on any trader or other person who wilfully obstructs or impedes an inspector or assistant inspector in the performance of his duty under said Act, or who refuses to produce the whole of his weights and measures for inspection when called upon to do so by an inspecting officer.
2. Every trader, manufacturer and owner of weights, measures, and weighing machines when paying moneys to Inspectors or Assistant Inspectors of Weights and Measures for verification fees, is entitled to, and is specially requested to demand from the officer who makes the inspection, an official certificate ("Form O, 6" with the words "Original for the Trader" printed at the head thereof) properly filled out and stamped, and also at the same time to carefully ascertain whether or not the stamps attached to such certificate represent exactly the value the amount of cash paid. Traders are requested to bear in mind that certificates of verification are of no value whatever unless stamps covering the full amount of fees charged are attached.
3. Owners and holders of these official certificates are specially requested to keep them carefully for two years, and in order to secure their safe keeping it would be advisable to placard them in their places of business in the manner in which ordinary license certificates are done, for it must be distinctly understood that all traders who are unable to produce their properly stamped certificates, when asked to do so by an inspector or assistant inspector, may, in all probability, have to pay over again their verification fees.

Commissioner.
