YESTERDAY'S RACES.

A Number of Interesting Events Run Off-A Large Attendance.

Never, perhaps, in the history of the turf in this city was a larger crowd seen than was in attendance at the races held yesterday afternoon at the exhibi-tion grounds. The weather though threatening was mild and favored the sport. The arrangements made for spec-tators in the way of grand stand accommodations were all that could be desired. A new stand has been erected and room has been left between it and the track for a pavilion on which an acrobatic performance was provided during the in-tervals between the racing events. Unexpenses incurred in repairing fortunately, however, the performers did not appear very resourceful in their exhibitions. and resorted to old tricks with a frequency that was a little tiresome. were figured up with the money No provision, however, had been made ies were figured up with the money in it would be found that the two for the press, those expected to report the press, those expected to report the races being obliged to take any seat available in the grand stand. The races were called for 2 o'clock, but did not commence for a full hour later.

The third race was first called, the

there were only two contestants.

The third event was for a mile dash, King's Plate, open to British Columbia bred horses, for a purse of $250. The starters were P. T. Patton's Thunder, with Thad Williams in the saddle; Defamer, ridden by J. Millington; Hirelle and Reciprocity, owned by Mr. Bottger of Vancouver. For the first round Defamer made a spirited run, but finally had to give way to Thunder, which forged ahead on the last lab, coming home under the whip. He won out, with Defamer second and Hirelle third. The time was 1:53.

The fourth event on the programme, that of the five-eighths mile dash, for a No. 29. Pensi purse of $150, was next run off. The Kirkland, $25. ridden by L. Thomas, and Pettigrew, owned by Civington, of Lewiston, Idaho. and ridden by Ansel Cole. In this event however, Diringo, in the opinion of the judges, was doomed to winning first place. Judge Fullerton at the conclusion remarked that there appeared an evident intention on the part of the jockey that Diningo should not win, and he therefore disqualified him.

It having been decided that the purse for the 2:25 trot should be split, that event, the first mentioned on the programme, was next called. H. G. Wilgramme, was next called. H. G. Wilson's Holly Bird, driven by Macguire, and Steve White's E. Spot, driven by J. Millington, competed. Spot from the start was evidently the fastest horse, or perhaps not the prettiest trotter.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS R head, a clean, fine horn.

Coming to the neck the speaker said the difference between that of a dairy cow and a beefer was that the latter should be short and round and thick, but the neck of a good milch cow should be of medium length, with no beefiness whatsoever about it. The shoulders must come up more like the withers of a horse and there should be a good thickness vic arch. Coming to the underline he should be very prominent milch veins ending in wide, deep milch holes. The shape of the udder was the most important point in the selection of a dairy cow. The udder should be long-shaped and reaching forward. The teats should be straight and wide apart. The udder must not be fleshy, but when milked should almost empty. A good cow must have good digestive organs so as to asbefore them were typical of their breed,

After all the points had been mention ed the speaker said the only real true test of a good milch cow was the milk-pail and the Babcock tester. He strongly recommended farmers to keep the heifer calves from their best milch cows and ave them calving from 21/2 to 3 years old. If they gave satisfaction as milkers the first season, he cautioned them not to Lart with them, but if not, dry them off
