

ENTERTAINMENT AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

MAGAZINE PRESENTED IN A NOVEL MANNER

Prizes Given to Pupils - Superintendent Eaton on Increased Interest in Work.

At the High school on Thursday there was a novel entertainment given by the pupils. It was the publication of the High School Magazine, in which the literary work of the pupils was presented to the audience in a form not usually adopted by publishers. Instead of the printed columns the various pages were presented by the pupils themselves on the platform. Even the advertisements and the illustrated covers were given in this unique manner.

The effort on the part of the pupils called forth unstinted praise by the large gathering which crowded the assembly room of the school.

The magazine cover was represented by pupils with Minerva standing in the centre, holding streamers leading to the classics, mathematics, literature and the platform. Even the advertisements and the illustrated covers were given in this unique manner.

FIFTH REGIMENT BALL

A Successful Dance Given in Assembly Hall Last Evening.

The Fifth Regiment ball given last evening in Assembly hall was in every respect a successful function. The arrangements had been carried out with energy by the various committees. These were as follows: Decorations, Lieut. Harris, Corp. Spurrer, Corp. Boorman, Dr. Hasket, G. W. Wain, McKay, Fooks, Thraw, Hughes and Wales; supper, Capt. Langley, G. S. Duncan, Porter and Doyle; reception, Lieut. Paton, C. S. M. Lindsay, Sergt. Hayward, Bandmaster Finn and Gr. Laurie.

The decorations were essentially military. Drapings of red white and blue, with flags and military pictures, assisted in accomplishing this end.

Round the walls were arranged in suitable lists different commanding officers of the district, and also those of the different militia organizations, which had their headquarters in this city. These were as follows:

Deputy adjutant-generals and D. O. commanding: Lieut.-Col. Houghton, D. A. G., succeeded by Col. Laurie, Lieut.-Col. Holmes, Lieut.-Col. Peters, Lieut.-Col. Benson and Lieut.-Col. Holmes.

Officers commanding companies and regiments:

Captain commanding No. 1 Company, Victoria Rifles, on formation: F. J. Roscoe, succeeded by Capt. R. Wolfenden.

Captain commanding No. 2 Company, Victoria Rifles, on formation: C. E. Pooley, succeeded by Capt. J. G. Vinter, E. M. Fletcher and P. Wolcott.

Captain commanding Victoria Company of Artillery, on formation: C. T. Dupont.

Major commanding Provisional Regiment of Garrison Artillery: C. T. Dupont.

Lieutenant-colonel commanding British Columbia Brigade Garrison Artillery (now Fifth Regiment): R. Wolfenden, succeeded by E. G. Prior, F. B. Gregory, R. Monro and A. H. Hedges.

The dancing, for which G. Colley, of No. 5 Co., acted as floor manager, was much enjoyed. The orchestra of the Fifth Regiment furnished excellent music.

The room was crowded, an additional splendor being given to this ball over others by the presence of so many men in gorgeous uniform.

The supper tables were made brilliant by the addition of the mess plate of the regiment and the many trophies won by the members of the Fifth. The supper served was in every way keeping with the other arrangements, and was well received by all present. The dance given last evening.

A GREAT BOON TO NORTHERN TRAVEL

ADVANTAGES OF THE GOVERNMENT TRAIL

Mayor Macaulay of Dawson Will Not Seek Re-Election - Damage From Floods in Eldorado.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Shaw, Mr. Newland, C. McDonald, clerk of the court, Mr. Newell, of Newell Brothers, and Mr. Burdett, all of Dawson, were among the arrivals on the steamer Cottage City from the north Friday. They have just come over the White Horse and Dawson trail, and report it in fairly good condition. The weather was cold, but no interruptions have in consequence occurred to the stage service.

The new trail, said Mr. Shaw, after arriving on Friday, has been a great boon to the northern country. In some places on the hillside the road is a little narrow for the stages to pass, but the houses are very comfortable. They will soon be all completed, giving an excellent service. A stage leaves Dawson about every day. That in which Mr. and Mrs. Shaw travelled left on the 21st inst. for Dawson, and the road was taken up. On the day of leaving the thermometer registered 55 below zero. On the way no one entertained fears of obstruction from the Indians. The natives are troubling no one so far as they heard. When the cold weather set in meat became scarce, and the Indians set out with guns to procure game.

Travel on the trail, Mr. Shaw says, is not very brisk, as yet. After the Christmas holidays freight, he thought, would start to move, and for a short time business would be lively.

Dawson is just now well supplied, he added, and prices have kept moderate with no tendency to reach the mark they did last year. Perishables, of course, advanced with the advent of the winter, but are not unreasonably high. Illustrations of the trail, Dawson and the houses are very comfortable. He held the responsible position of honorary treasurer from the 24th day of June, 1880, until his resignation owing to failing health, and strength on the 10th July, 1897, and during the whole time in connection with the hospital discharged his duties in a most satisfactory and faithful manner. His death has been a severe blow to this resolution be forwarded to his widow and son.

In this connection Joshua Davies observed that although the hospital owed its origin to a suggestion by Dr. Davie, it was due to the late Mr. Chudley that the institution was erected at the time of the late Queen's Jubilee of 1887, hence its name.

The house committee reported that: A misunderstanding having arisen in regard to the charges for extra nursing, we have authorized the board to order the charge for a special nurse be at the rate of $15 per week, and for periods of four or less than four weeks, at the rate of $10 per week. In the event of a nurse not being on the hospital staff, the charge will be $15 per week for the nurse's meals at the rate of 25 cents each, as heretofore.

We have authorized the installation of a modern stove in the female ward, and instructed that the results be recorded for comparison, the cost being $20.

Adopted.

The building and grounds committee in their report recommended that the area in front of the hospital, near the bay wharf, be divided into 510 shares.
