LOCAL NEWS.

Hand and races at the Queen's Rollway tonight. Those two fast boys, Finley and Gleason, will skate a half mile, and it should be a great race. There will also be a half mile boys race with a number of starters.

The liquor license commission met in Inspector Jones' office this afternoon to consider the applications for city licenses. No objections to the granting of the licenses had been made up to noon today. Representatives of the New Brunswick Temperance Federation will be present at the meeting but they will not outline their objection.

Alexander Worrel, of this city, has received word that his son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Martin, had a narrow escape in a shipwreck at Areobio Porto Rico, on March 27th. Capt. Martin was in command of the bark Julia, which sailed from Gulport for Areobio in March. The schooner arrived at her destination and had anchored two miles from shore when a terrific hurricane sprang up. The vessel was driven ashore and broke up. Those on board barely escaped with their lives. Capt. and Mrs. Martin lost everything in the wreck. The Julia was owned by S. P. Blackburn, of New York.

CONSTABLE LIKELY TO GET INTO TROUBLE

Was a Little Too Clever in Collecting an Account

A city constable has got himself in considerable trouble for going farther than the law allows the officials. Recently he arrested a Missisquoi boarding house proprietor for a bill owing to a Brussels street butcher. A citizen friend of the debtor went bondsman and the boarding house man was released. In the civic court when the case was called, the defendant was not in court and the constable was instructed that he must sue again, but instead of doing so he went to the defendant's bondsman and told him that the boarding house man had not shown up in court and he had better pay the bill. Being frightened, the bondsman flashed up, and the constable departed with the money and smilingly paid it over to the butcher. The bondsman has since learned that he was in a sense buncoed and is about to take proceedings against the city official for the return of his money.

SENDING THE STORY OF HIS MEETING TO THE KING

J. E. N. Holder a Contributor to the Book Which Will be Sent to King Edward.

Edward N. Holder was a caller at Mayor Sars' office this morning. He brought with him a photograph of himself and a sketch which is to be sent to an Ottawa historian, who is preparing a book, which is to be presented to King Edward. The book will contain portraits and sketches of the men who met His Majesty when he visited Canada. Mr. Holder, who is 77 years of age, was in the sketch that he was a member of the Guard of Honor which was chosen from the Queen's Own Rifles, which was present at the reception tendered to the Prince of Wales when he arrived here. Mr. Holder remembers the scene at Reed's Point when the Prince landed from the steamer, Prince William street was crowded, the whole population having turned out to see the Prince. The day after the arrival, Mr. Holder spoke with his majesty. Mr. Holder is today a very active man. He enjoys the best of health and beyond having poor eyesight, he feels as good a man, physically, as he did when England's present monarch landed at Reed's Point. While in the Mayor's office, Mr. Holder spoke at some length on old times in St. John and with the assistance of Clarence Ward, the Mayor's clerk, who is the local historian, many subjects which were of great interest, but which have been dead for years, were discussed and for about an hour the two veterans were telling of interesting incidents which occurred away back in the sixties.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Richard N. Dean took place at 2:30 this afternoon from her husband's residence, St. James street. Rev. W. W. McMaster officiated and interment was in Fernhill. The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary C. Wheatley took place from the Home for the Aged, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. D. Lang conducted the burial service and interment was in Fernhill.

SOME REAL SURPRISES MAY BE THE RESULT

North End People May Exercise Their New Strength.

Separate Ward System May be the Political Finish of Some of Its Lobbying Supporters--Surprises Looked For

LOCAL NEWS.

There may be some startling surprises next Tuesday night when the ballots are all in an alloted, surprises that will send remorseful shudders through some of the aldermen who so enthusiastically and doggedly supported the ward system bill at Fredericton in the face of the wishes of the people. From the present outlook it very much appears as if the North End wards will hand out some very hot porridge to their present representatives and the one-man-one-ward scheme is likely to be the political death of some of its hearty supporters. All eyes seem to be turned on the contest in Little Stanley ward, where Ald. John McGoldrick has been a landmark for years. A new champion of the people has risen from this district in the person of George Green, well-known lime burner, and captain of that industry in the Millidgeville locality. Mr. Green is a man of sound business judgment who has made a pronounced success of his own enterprise, and is resident in the ward. His many friends are sufficient recommendation for his candidature to fill the seat representing Stanley, and no doubt the newcomer will poll strongly. On the other hand Ald. McGoldrick has many Stanley ward friends who will vote for him and thus the genial John is not a resident of that section he will doubtless spend a good deal of his spare time among his constituents between now and Tuesday. When Ald. McGoldrick entered Stanley ward the conditions were altogether different from those of today; the Connors interests were large and important and the residential phases were not like they now are, so one of the liveliest fights in civic history may be looked for next week to get that little bunch of ballots roped in on the Millidgeville Road. The acrimonious dispute over the technicality in Mr. Green's nomination papers has only added fuel to the fire. Coming in to Lansdowne ward there will be another hot contest, Ald. Alex. Rowan is preparing for a sharp struggle, but E. M. Sprague, the Adelaidite, is working systematically and surely. He has able support from various sources, and does not go to the polls without a corps of old-time campaigners, men who know who the qualified voters are, and where they can be found. Last year Ald. Rowan secured considerable outside support, and doubtless this year it will be forthcoming again. The advent of Dr. James A. McIntyre has been a shock to the usually unruffled mind of Ald. Isiah W. Holder, who has been enjoying a rest from civic life after several strenuous struggles with John McTulkin, of Indiantown, now factory inspector. Dr. McIntyre is a physician, whose large practice makes it appear strange why he should offer for aldermanic honors. However, he is a man of much public spirit, is young and vigorous, a property owner and particularly well-acquainted with the needs of the people of Lower ward. Ald. Holder as well is fully cognizant of the demands of his ward, and being a man of leisure has considerable time to devote to them, but he is unfortunate in having a council record of some years confronting him. It would not be a bit surprising if Michael T. Coholan, the Mill street tailor, would give Ald. John Willett the hustle of his life, if not altogether outstripping him. Mr. Coholan is a young man full of energy and progressive ideas, consistent and business-like. He has the respect and patronage of people in all walks of life and of all denominations many of whom will doubtless lend him their ballots Tuesday. Mr. Coholan's candidature is not a "spam," but a sincere offering; not that he is ambitious, like Caesar, but knows that under the ward system he could be of as much service to his fellow citizens as anybody else. Ald. Willett being a lawyer and man of wide acquaintance is confident of winning, and is already canvassing vigorously. Charles T. Jones, who opposes Ald. Jos. E. Hamm, is one of the best-informed young men in town on civic matters. He is a forcible talker, and has been prominently identified of late with the People's Mission work on Waterloo street. He is an enthusiastic Knight of Pythias, and brother of J. E. Jones, liquor inspector. Therefore Ald. Hamm in order to offset the vigour of a young man's campaign, will have to act quickly and surely. Altogether it looks now as if the balloting next Tuesday will be much more interesting than most people suppose. Even the A. Large contests and Caleton, Wellington and Victoria fights will be overshadowed by the above mentioned affairs.

FORMER ST. JOHN MAN IS MAYOR OF MISSOULA

J. M. Keith, at One Time Merchant Hero, Was the Successful Candidate.

The regular city elections of Missoula, Montana, were held on April 1st, and a former St. John man was elected mayor. The new chief magistrate of Missoula is no other than J. M. Keith, who, some years ago, conducted business in the country market. This is another instance of how a former St. John man has made his way to success. Mr. Keith is now president of National Bank of Missoula, and is a highly esteemed citizen. The Anaconda, Mon., Standard in a recent issue says of the election: "The election resulted in a victory for the complete citizens' ticket. The ballots cast for mayor were: J. M. Keith, citizens' ticket, 182, and A. F. Chun-ning, socialist, 10."
