Curlews won from the Divisional Ammunition baseball team at College field tonight by a score of 10 to 6. The soldier boys were leading until their battery was put out of business, Pitcher Russell developing a sore arm, which caused his retirement, and Catcher Lawson having his hand split by a foot tip. Kirkpatrick, who succeeded Russell, pitched well when he got warmed up. Even with these handicaps the Ammunition team were entitled to a tied score, as Edgecombe when coaching at third base rushed up in excitement and patted Dolan on the back when he landed safely at the bag. One close decision, and this runner should have been declared out. Art Finnamore, who was umpiring, claimed he didn't see the play. Garvill and Donovan were the battery for the "Pets" and the former was wild but was saved by the good fielding behind him.

Young Ladies Entertain.

The Young Ladies' Guild of Trinity Church entertained the young men's association last evening in their rooms to an enjoyable social. It was expected that the men of the Canadian Overseas Construction Corps would also be present, but at the last moment they were unable to attend. Several sets of badminton and ping pong were played by those present, and at the close of the evening refreshments were served.

Mr. Mullin stated that he would be out of the city for some days, and Mr. McInerney said that he did not wish to close the case until he got through with the cross-examination of Dr. McVey. It was decided by all concerned that the case

SUSPICIOUS PAPERS
FOUND IN MONASTERY,
FIVE MONKS ARRESTED

Flashing of Lights from Windows Overlooking the Adriatic Aroused Suspicion of Army Officers.

Barie, Italy, June 7.—Certain details of the recent arrest here of five Dominican monks, whose pastoral windows looked out over the Adriatic, has been made public. It seems that an army lieutenant, noticing the flashing rays of a strong light, traced them to the Monastery. He called two carabinieri, made his way to the Monastery door and installed upon entering. The monk in charge in reply to questions declared there were only three monks in the building. A second monk appeared, but the lieutenant could not locate the third. Finally he broke down the door of a cellar and found within a monk who had in his possession a war map, upon which were notations of military value. Three monks joined in saying that the upper story of the monastery was empty and not in use, but the lieutenant was not satisfied. He started an investigation which showed that on the upper floor there had been set up near a window a large reflector for signalling purposes. Here also two more monks were found, and all were at once taken in to custody.

The search of the lieutenant revealed a large number of documents and notes prepared by monks, together with letters from colleagues in Vienna. Under the laws of the land it is impossible for the Italians to search the premises of religious institutions unless they have direct evidence of acts believed to be against the interest of the state.
