

ENEMY SUFFERS VERY HEAVY LOSSES IN NEW DRIVE

GERMANS DISAPPOINTED IN FIRST DAY'S ACHIEVEMENTS

Gains Between Montdidier and Noyon Not So Great As Rupprecht Anticipated --- German Battalions Being Depleted By Murderous Fire of the French-British Line Improved.

French Headquarters, June 10.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—The German battalions are being depleted in the constant fighting from Noyon to Chateau Thierry and from Veruillet to Rheims. His reserves of manhood are declining. Out of 300 prisoners taken in the first days of June, over one fourth belonged to the 1918 class, and the class of 1920 made their appearance on the battle field among the prisoners captured at Bligny by the British, a considerable proportion being late of this class.

Summary of Situation

Paris, June 10.—Summarizing the morning newspaper comment on the new German drive, the Havas Agency notes that the commentators are unanimous in pointing out that the first day of the new attack was far from securing for the enemy the gains which he sought. They emphasize the fact that, contrary to what occurred in the two previous German strokes in the south, the enemy this time suffered severe losses, on the first day, by which it is shown that the effort to surprise the Allies completely failed.

Heavy Fighting

Paris, June 10.—The new German attack on the front between Montdidier and Noyon, continued last night with undiminished violence, the war office reports that on the French left wing furious German attacks made time after time were broken down by the French fire.

Improvement in Line

With the British Army in France, June 10.—(By The Associated Press)—A considerable local improvement of the British line just to the south of the Somme was effected last night through a slight advance carried out in the neighborhood of Bouzencourt. Otherwise the night was generally quiet and the situation unchanged. Raids and outpost actions comprised the remainder of the infantry activity. The enemy shelling which was so heavy on the British right wing on Saturday night and Sunday morning, preceding the attack against the French has again dropped to normal.

Wounded, Lies Five Weeks Behind German Trench

British Soldier With Shattered Thigh Finally Crawls Back To Friends — One of Most Astonishing Stories of the War Told By Private Taylor.

What is regarded as one of the most astounding stories of the war is told by Private J. Taylor, of the London regiment, who has received a Distinguished Conduct Medal. Private Taylor's own story, as told in the London Express, is as follows:

"It was during one of the attacks on part of the Hindenburg line on June 13, last year. We had gone over the top two companies together, following up a successful attack made in the same direction on the previous day. This time we were met by a terrific enemy fire, and our fellows were dropping like nincompoas. I was a stretcher bearer and I was trying to patch up one of our men who was down, when I was knocked out myself by the bullet which fractured my thigh.

"After that I remembered nothing for some hours. It may have been a day or it may have been two when I recovered consciousness, with a parched throat and a great sense of weariness and pain.

"I discovered afterward that we must have passed beyond our objective, and we were therefore behind the enemy's trench and support trench at this point. His front trench had been taken on the previous day, and these he now occupied were not backed up by others but had open country behind them. I did not know at the time, however, that I was behind the enemy's line at all. I managed to crawl into a large shell hole near at hand, and lay there another day and night.

"Then a comrade, a man named Peters, joined me. He also had been wounded, but could move rather more freely. He had found shelter in another hole near by.

HIS "WEEKLY WAGE" WAS $3,880

Harold Judd of New Britain, Conn., Wants To Forget He's a Millionaire and Is Going Through As a Private — "Just a Regular Good Fellow," Says His Sergeant.

"Put me down as a capitalist." The draftsman was standing in line at the recruit receiving office of the Depot Brigade, along with hundreds of others who came into the army this week. Each had to give his "occupation," before he had scarcely set foot in camp.

And this one was up against it. Others in line with him could explain easily, "Brick mason," "Cobbler." That is just as they happened to run in the group registered with Harold L. Judd of New Britain. Then the noncom clerk asked Judd, and all he could think of to say was:

"Put me down as a capitalist." He's in the army now, in a 7th Battalion company, enjoying the novelty of being a millionaire somebody who has found a place where he can be a rookie nobody.

And once again Camp Devens realizes the democracy of this business up here. A draftsman with a "weekly wage" of $3880 bunks alongside $18 a week man.

And now they're all getting $30 a month. They don't like to figure it by the week.

Recruit Judd wants them to forget he's a millionaire. He knows it won't make any difference with the officers. And he's going through.

Son of a wealthy factory owner in New Britain, he was left the business. He went to school for a while, did the usual stunt for sons of factory owners — "worked his way up"—and then he retired.

He's 31 years old now and has been retired for eight years. A few years ago he married Mrs. John W. Gates, Jr., widow of the great financier's son, and he had two children.

The patch was red and irritated causing me to keep awake at night. "Seeing Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised I sent for a free sample. After using I noticed quite a change so I bought a box of Cuticura Ointment and two cakes of Cuticura Soap, and I did not finish the whole box of Cuticura Ointment when I was healed permanently."
