

Jurisprudence, Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia; Member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Philadelphia, etc.

"A Text-book of Modern Therapeutics." By A. A. Stevens, M.D., Lecturer on Physical Diagnosis, University of Pennsylvania; Professor of Pathology, Woman's Medical College, Philadelphia.

"Practical Points in Nursing," for Nurses in Private Practice. By the late Emily A. M. Stonev. Superintendent of the Training School for Nurses, Carney Hospital, South Boston, Mass.

"The Care of the Baby." By J. P. Crozer Griffith, M.D., Clinical Professor of Diseases of Children, University of Pennsylvania; Physician to the Children's Hospital, Philadelphia, etc.

"THE KEYS TO SUCCESS."

LIKE many aspiring youths, Edward W. Bok turned to one who had been brilliantly successful for the password which would open to him the golden gates. He asked Chauncey Depew what was the secret of success. "My boy," replied the genial diplomat, "there is no secret to it. It is just dig, dig, dig." That the hint was taken can be judged from the position Mr. Bok now holds. Being called upon to relate how he had succeeded so strikingly, Mr. Bok told the story. In the course of his lecture on "The Keys to Success" (which is given in extenso in "Modern Eloquence," from which we quote), he shows marked ability for crystallizing fact into epigram, as can be seen from the following examples:

Every young man who is striving to succeed must put success in its rightful, simple place.

To carry to a successful termination what one starts to do is what success really is and means.

The correct definition of success is accomplishment.

Hard work must become a habit before any degree of success whatever is attained. The success most highly regarded in the business world is that which is won on conservative lines.

Thoroughness is the surest key to success in business.

When a young man overlooks the small things, or thinks they are not important enough to do them well and thoroughly, he leaves out of his calculations one of the most important elements of success.

No town is too small for success.

A man's success never depends on the place in which he lives; it depends on the man.

Thoroughness is the earning power of success.

You cannot hurry success. It is like respect; you must earn it.