A Fairy Without Syes.
Front the London Live Stock Journal.
On May I, at Mr. Pallin's paddocks at the Curragh, the thoroughted mars Goneset, the property of Mr. Pratt of Gaweworth, county Cork, fosted a bay filly without eyes. This filly is by Kinggraft is of fall size, with good bone, and a perfect in every other way. The orbits and cooks to 6 the eyes are perfect, but no eyes balls are there. The mare is well, and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of milk and foaled easy, has a great show of the fail will have a should be easy to make the foaled will have a foaled to be determined to the season of tooch, of smell, and of hearing improve and thus companiate for the went of eye. The first race eleveluous that Mr. Pratt hes promised to try and solve by rearing the filly if he case. Lase year at the Mariden Deer Park stude foal will have been eye absent, but this appears to be the first case recorded of a foal being born with both eyes absent, but this appears to be the first case recorded of a foal being born with both eyes absent, but this appears to be the first case recorded of a foal being born with both eyes absent, but this appears to be the extraordinary productions? This is question that it would be at owise instructive and interesting to consider and to determine upon, and one that ought profitably; to continue the thoroughbred horse in write the follows of the boak, and the thoroughbred h

"I a wasfilicted with rheumatism, and had given ap all hopes of a cure. By chance I am a liberty of shipping goods without ever receiving an order for them mended. I immediately sent (fifty miles) and purchased four bottles, and with only two applications I was able to get around, and although I have not used one bottle. I gave around to my neighbors, and I have last used one bottles. I gave around to my neighbors, and I have bad so many calls for more, that I feel bound to relieve the afflicted by writing to you for a supply."

Bue on the Framewiner.*

From the Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer.

A great many drummers, when trade is dull, take the liberty of shipping goods without ever receiving an order for them. One of these liberty-taking drummers shipped a firm in Atlanta ten boxes of to-bacco a few days ago, and wrote the firm that he took the liberty. The merchant wrote to the drummer that they took the liberty of Jeaving the tobacco at the station, subject to his order.

"I recall the insult perfectly. Mr. Seper; but this time I wast to pay cash," He got his goods, and was walking toward the door with them, when the grocer said: "Here you Slugg, I thought you wanted to pay cash?" "So I do," rejoined the other, "but, unfortunately, I can't."

"Keep on your hats! shouted Patton then, as we struck a straight five-mile stretch, 'Now hold on to your teeth.'

"I don't exactly know what the next sensation was, but I tried to peep out from the rim of my hat, and my soul, it was all a blut—trees, rocks, landscapes, were all sniagled in an indistinguishable mass. It was at if one was blown through the air from a catapult.

"Well, from the time we weighed mashor up at Lake Tahoe until Pattos put on his brakes just outside the lumber field at Carson City it seemed like a minute or two. We all looked at our watches. We had made just made sixteen miles in eight minutes and forty seconds. I never in all my life had such an illustration of the force of water."
