MEETING TO BE HELD IN DAL GYMNASIUM AT NOON THURSDAY

FIGURING ON GOING TO THE ENGINEERS' BOOSTER? Gay Esdale, pretty co-ed, calculates that the Boilermakers' Booster will be the great event of the week, so get your tickets now to a good dance and a great show.

"Hay Fever" is Success Financially; Support Not as Good as Expected

From the standpoint of finances, Hay Fever turned out to be a reasonable success but from another standpoint of student attendance there could have been much more support, Dalhousie Glee and Dramatic Society officials stated today in a summary of statistics. Approximately 1,500 paid admissions to the three nights the comedy was staged, giving a net profit of about $100. This, however, does not include the sale of season tickets which would probably add another $100 profit.

Attendance as a whole was well below that of last year's initial effort and only about one-third of the students bothering to see the play.

Critically, according to the Glee Club, the play was one of the most successful they have staged—with the majority of the public exceptionally pleased with the production.

This Friday, another casting rehearsal will be staged in an attempt to complete selection of actors and actresses for the next endeavour—Romeo and Juliet—which will be presented Nov. 25, 26, and 27. H. Leslie Pigot, who has helped make successful many of the glee club dramas, will also direct the next play. About 30 or more male parts have to be filled and anyone who wishes to try his drama is invited to try rehearsal.

MIAU Rule May Stymie Dal Team

With the approach of the intercollegiate hockey season, Dalhousie University hockey players and followers are becoming a little disturbed over an action taken at last spring's Maritime Intercollegiate Athletic Union conference.

According to information available to the Gazette, students who are registered at Dal but who are enrolled at Kings for a class or two are not eligible to compete in intercollegiate hockey.

Meeting at Acadia, the M.I.A.U. passed the amendment—if it was that—or interpreted the old ruling in a new way which would affect Dalhousie and Kings athletics. A few years ago the ruling was made which prevented a student registered at one university from playing for another and there was no complaints from that angle.

However, under the present constitution, there are least two players at Dal taking a course or two at Kings who will not be eligible for intercollegiate hockey competition. Until the college hockey season begins to roll there cannot be any protest from other universities.

Incidentally, the new set up was

IMPORTANT

Because the rink is short of help until things get organized, the students are asked to help in cleaning the rink when ever they are available and the rink needs cleaning. In this way there will be more ice available until such times as the situation improves.

Pep Rally Fails to Arouse Interest

The first pep rally of the year failed to arouse notable attention as the fires blazed on the Dalhousie campus last Friday night. The fire was a rally bonfire set to encourage non-player interest in the big day ahead. There were about 70 students present, less than 5% of the campus.

The pep rally was, however, successful from the point of view of those participating. The rally began with the lighting of the bonfire, followed by several cheers led by the cheer-leaders, Joan McCurdy, Joan Hills and Ethel Smith. Then the coaches Gabe Vitalone, and George Gray were introduced, who in turn introduced the players present (the players made up one third of those present). A few college songs followed, then a general sing song, and finally a small snake dance through Sherriff Hall, and down to Joe's.

Boilermakers to Hold Booster in Gym Friday

The Engineers will hold their annual Booster in the Dalhousie Gymnasium next Friday, November 17. The booster, famous already this year by means of an array of clever posters, promises to be one of the year's best gym showings.

There will be a stage show at half time and considering the talent locked in the Boilermakers campus, it promises to be quite entertaining.

made at the M.I.A.U. parley on the spur of the moment, apparently, since it did not appear on the agenda distributed to the various universities. It passed without protest from Dal because local representatives were in the midst of examinations and could not attend.

Trip to Acadia Is Great Affair

The A-Day invasion of Acadia took place on Saturday as about a hundred Dalhousians in bus and cars drove to Wolfville to support the Rugby team.

The Tigers were defeated by the Axemen 10-0, but there was plenty of stout-hearted cheering for the Dal men. Four cheer-leaders arrived for the game, and despite their numerical inferiority Dalhousie yells more than once overwhelmed Acadia's. One of the insulting sights of the afternoon was a model of Shirreff Hall made by Acadia and revengefully burned by Dal supporters before the end of the day.

A reception was held in the gym at eight o'clock that night. The Acadia orchestra supplied the music for dancing, and at intermission entertainment was provided by a trumpeter, a violinist, an octet, and a singer. All the friendly game-time heckling was forgotten.

Walkie-talkies were much in evidence during the game. It was reported that they had been very busy for several nights beforehand also, as the Acadian spy system went to work. Evidently the Acadians expected Dal to imitate their behaviour by painting the Wolfville campus in the same manner as they had Dal's.

Their vigilance was unnecessary.

Second in Public Speaking Series To Be Held Wednesday

The second in a series of talks on debating will be held Wednesday evening at 7.30 p.m. at the Law School Munroe Room, when the Rev. Norman M. Slaughter gives a talk on the preparation of material for a speech.

The first of this series was given two weeks ago when the Rev. A. E. Kerr gave a talk on presentation.

After the talk by the Rev. N. M. Slaughter there will be a debate as the Law 10 team meets the Law 4 team in an elimination series for the Bennet Shield. The topic for the debate will be resolved "That candidates for Law should have a degree before beginning their law course".

The chairman for this debate will be Ron Robertson, secretary of the Sodales debating society.

The meeting is open to all those interested, and a cordial invitation is given to outsiders who wish to come.

A Student Forum will be held in the Dalhousie Gymnasium Thursday at noon. All members of the Student Body are eligible to attend this meeting and express their views.

Student Forums have been held at Dalhousie for many years, and they are part of the democratic tradition at this University.

The Forum serves as a check upon the actions of the Students' Council and according to Article 9 of the Constitution of the Council of Students three such meetings must be held every year. At these meetings and member of the student body may bring up for discussion any matter concerning student government.

The Student Forum as a meeting of the Student Body, is competent to do anything that the Council has the power to do, and also many things that the Council is unable to do, such as approve an amendment of the Constitution.

One hundred students are necessary to constitute a quorum at a Student Forum, and, as matters of vital interest to the whole student body are always raised at such a meeting, the Gymnasium is often crowded by the time the meeting starts.

The President of the Student Council acts as Chairman of the Forum, but aside from this, the Council takes no part in the activities of the Forum, except to answer specific questions put to it by members of the student body.

Committees Report at Arts and Science Meet

"The Saturday night dances of the Arts and Science Society have been successful," reported Fred Laing, chairman of the Entertainment Committee, at a meeting of the Society held at Thursday noon. He went on to say that the dances to be held in the future are hoped to be even more successful. Joanne Murphy, Doug Brown and David Bryson were added to the Committee in charge of the Common Room Dances.

President Gibson Bauld informed the gathering that the Society had played two rugby games. The game against the Law Society was lost while the game played with the Commerce Boys proved successful. President Bauld expressed the wish that there be a large attendance at the next rugby game when the Arts and Science Society will take on the Engineers.
