EDUCATE THE PEOPLE.

The Hamilton Health Association should be able to contribute materially to the interest in the Tuberculosis Convention to be held here next week, and which Dr. Roberts, Medical Health Officer, is so strongly urging upon the attention of the public. The work is one of the greatest importance, and great good may result from the education furnished by such gatherings. The practical work done by the local Sanitarium is on record, and from it many valuable deductions are to be made. The reports by Dr. Holbrook, the physician in charge, contain much that encourages to continued effort and to cheerful optimism. The battle against the White Plague is not one of a day or a year; but each advance made is a gain to be held a vantage point from which to push on the work. Aside altogether from the demonstrated curability of the disease, when taken early, and the living evidences of the good derived from Sanitarium methods of treatment, the opportunity which each case deals with furnishes for educating the public in sane methods of living and for dispelling the despair which has been too much associated with the disease, is very valuable. The effect of such a campaign steadily continued cannot but be productive of good results which will show from year to year in the mortality returns. The convention should be made an occasion for public instruction and the awakening of interest in national sanitation. The war on tuberculosis is one in which all can help.

THE END AIMED AT.

The Toronto News does not think that the House of Lords will dare to make a stand for class interests by rejecting the new British budget. It thinks that such a budget, increasing taxes upon land, liquor and estates, "cannot be unpopular with the working masses of the country"; that the Lords perceive this and will hardly, therefore, play into the Liberals' hands by rejecting it. The News is inclined to think that the House of Lords will rather grin and bear the new taxation for the time, and work the harder for "fiscal reform," which, it says, "provides a new basis of taxation"—in other words, removes a large part of the taxes from the land-holding and moneyed classes, and shifts them to the shoulders of the toiling masses. This view of the matter shows that the Toronto News makes no mistake as to the effect of protective taxes, and that it naturally looks to the wealthy landed classes represented in the Lords to strive in their own personal interests to rid themselves of their share of the burden, and, by adopting "fiscal reform," a euphemism for protection, place it upon the consumers of the country. Perhaps the News did not intend to make such a frank admission as to the effect of protection, but as to the correctness of its reasoning there cannot be the slightest doubt. Protection will suit the purpose of the Lords. It will leave them free to cry for vaster expenditures, while it will relieve them of the duty of paying their share.

GOOD MORNING, MARS!

Prof. Todd, of Amherst College, wants to make an effort to communicate with Mars. He does not propose to conduct spiritualistic or telepathic experiments. A few years ago a local believer in spiritualistic phenomena informed us that he did not obtain his information of the "unknown" by human means, but took it "direct from the divine intelligences," and could "transport himself in the twinkling of an eye to the farthest spheres." Prof. Todd is the fortunate possessor of no such supernatural powers, and the proposition which he makes and which is said to be approved by M. Flammarion, the eminent French astronomer, contemplates an ascent by balloon, well supplied with oxygen, to a considerable altitude, there to try to catch the electrical or other signals which it is thought the Martians may have been making in the hope of attracting our notice.

The subject is probably more interesting than practical. Passing over the many "ifs" and "howevers" of such a speculation, there remain the questions of how to know whence any signal might come, and how to interpret it. Prof. Flammarion is of opinion that the Martians are of a higher order than Earth denizens, and probably much further advanced in intellect. He suggests that they have doubtless long ago anticipated us in wireless electrical communication, and may have been for ages sending us messages, which we have been unable to receive.

Mars has for many years been a subject of great interest to astronomers and scientists generally. It presents in our telescopes an appearance such as the Earth must present to the inhabitants of Venus. Its seasons are nearly of the same intensity as our own, but about twice as long, its annual voyage around the sun occupying 1 year 10 months and 21 days. Its poles are marked by ice caps, which partially melt in the spring of each hemisphere, to form again in the autumn. The red shade of the planet is probably due to its soil, its water, or to gaseous emanations. It is at a mean distance of about 139,000,000 miles from the sun and encircles the Earth's orbit. Sometimes, therefore, the two planets are less than 48,000,000 miles apart.

But that is a long distance gap across which to signal. Here are electric signals to be sent through the ether? Has

Prof. Todd considered that? Does he think that a system may be discovered which will benefit by the absence of atmosphere? And, if so, who is to ascend beyond our atmosphere and operate it? To think about it, is to confront new difficulties. If the Martians have turned their planet into a vast network of canals which seem to change under our telescopes, they may have made advances far beyond ours in other directions, and may be able to reach more than half way in their efforts to communicate with us. But, my, how their patience must have been tested while trying for thousands—or millions?—of years to get us to acknowledge their greetings! And even if Prof. Todd could perch aloft 1-50,000,000 of the distance as the two orbs rush by, and discharge a marconigram at our Martian fellows, how shall we ever be assured that they have the cypher key—that he is not saying something that sounds like "gesundheit!" in the Kaiser's realm, when the grave professor is merely making a courtly reference to the character of the Martian weather in May?

THE BUSINESS MAN'S VIEW.

At the banquet given to Hon. P. C. Knox in Washington on May 6th, Henry C. New York, delivered an address on "Peace, Through Arbitration," from a business man's point of view. Mr. C. New York asserted that neither national pride or commercial supremacy can atone for the bloodshed, or the lives of brave men slain. Honors heaped upon dead heroes do not feed orphans or make lighter the burden of widows. He argued that many wars might be avoided if the parties to the quarrel would leave the questions involved to arbitration. The business community of the United States would discountenance international struggles, and the financiers of the country would refuse the sinews of war for unjust purposes. Mr. C. New York took occasion to remark that "nations are now more acute in anticipating the money cost of war than they were a few years ago. England had her eyes opened in the Boer war. In fact, the money panic of 1907 was primarily due to this so-called little war." In speaking about the causes which militate against the progress of the peace spirit in the world, he said: "One thing to contend against, and that will make our work hard, is the fact that the young men and boys, since man first began to struggle, have admired and idealized the warrior, and victorious generals have vied with kings and rulers for the love and respect of the masses. I think that all of us are hero-worshippers, and we will have to begin our work with ourselves. Then we will be better fitted to teach others that the victories of peace are far greater, far nobler, and far more beneficial and lasting than the victories won in war with all its attendant horrors." There is no doubt that Mr. C. New York touches a matter worthy of consideration. Military glory strongly attracts the young. A defence force is necessary to every country; and perhaps the best defence force that a free people can have is one composed of volunteer citizens. It comports with the genius of liberty. The spirit which leads the young men of the country to attach themselves to its volunteer forces, and to obtain the training and discipline which the service affords, is a healthy and laudable one. But let us beware of the worship of professional militarism—a very different thing from a national system of defence. War is not the life business of a free people. Well-disposed nations, like well-disposed citizens, cultivate neighborliness and extend the offices of friendship.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The New York Board of Customs Appraisers has decided that cradles are not "furniture." The operation of a New York customs appraiser's brain is hard to follow.

From the West comes the good news that the seeding is almost completed, and that the weather being favorable, a feeling of hopefulness for the success of the crop prevails.

Toronto's civil expenditure is $4.20 per capita greater than Detroit's. Toronto's debt is $32,000,000; Detroit's, $6,332,752. Marked difference in the sort of management displayed in the two cities.

The report comes from Ottawa that the Opposition is signing a petition in favor of the construction of the Georgian Bay Canal by private capitalists. What will Mr. Borden think of that?

There have been 38 executions in Constantinople since the "revolution" of April 13. These "takings off" were doubtless according to law, but as to their justice—well, perhaps it would be hard to form a judgment as to that.

But if this Hydro transmission line is the acme of perfection—"the best in the world," as Toronto touts of the scheme away—why waste large sums of money in sending its magnificently paid engineers abroad at the public expense to pick up ideas to improve it?

It will be good news to the postal employees who, in 1902, elected to be governed by the old system and to be graded in Class B, that they are likely to share in the advance in salary granted to the more recent letter carriers. This advance will amount to $150 a year.

It is somewhat discouraging, after all the fine talk of the Opposition about conserving the resources of Canada, to find leading members of it, like Monk and Lennox, fighting against a small appropriation to organize for the work. Most of the Opposition's great ideas end in talk. It is ever ready to place obstacles in the way of any measure of progress put forward by the Liberals.

Whitney has evidently almost persuaded himself that while he is to fore any other legislative authority in Canada is very much in the nature of a supererogation, and with a few hints from him it might be dispensed with. He has wired Sir Wilfrid objecting to Parliament adopting the waterways treaty. Is there not a little danger of Sir James becoming over-puffed up, like the frog in the fable?

"Light User."—The reduction to 75 cents as a minimum monthly charge for incandescent light and meter rent is a gain to many small users in the summer months; but you have been misinformed as to this "boon" having been secured by the present Council. It appears in the by-law passed by last year's Council and the company made 75 cents the minimum at the beginning of this year.

We do not hesitate to say that if this new contract had been made last summer, all the subsequent trouble and bitterness over the power question would have been avoided. We know at least that the Herald would not have put up the fight against the action of last year's Council which this journal waged for many months—a fight which has been fought to a successful issue.—Hamilton Herald.

It is to laugh! But if our contemporary thinks it "saves its face" by such flub-dub, let it pass.

The Hamilton Herald professes to regard the Cataract power contract now to be submitted to the ratepayers as vastly better than the one executed last year. And, oddly enough, it proceeds to add that it would prefer to see the city go into the Hydro scheme even if city and private users have to pay 10 per cent. more for their power and light. Could blind prejudice and hostility to the local industry go further? There's a "Hamilton first" friend!

It is now John Gordon Gibson, LL.D., an LL.D. to our distinguished townsman's name is exceedingly appropriate. Too often the grant of such honorary degrees has comparatively little meaning. In Mr. Gibson's case it stands for something tangible and well recognized by his fellow citizens of the Province and of the Dominion. Had McMaster sought our broad Dominion for the most fitting subject upon which to confer the honor, it could not have made a better selection.

It is almost amusing to find a Hamilton newspaper, pretending to wish to help along the Greater Hamilton boom, expressing itself as preferring to see Hamilton people take their customary award from a local industry, even if the service it gives was as good and as cheap as could be got elsewhere—not only that, but even if it were guaranteed by the home concern to be 10 per cent. cheaper than we would have to pay otherwise! That's its idea of encouraging home industries!

The effort of the French postal and telegraph employees to paralyze business and compel the Government to submit to their dictation, has thus far proven a failure. The trades unions of the country are exhibiting great good sense in not joining with them in their revolutionary course, and the Government is adhering firmly to its determination not to give way to what is practically a rebellion. Hundreds of the recalcitrants are being dismissed, and the Ministry is confident of its ability to deal with the situation.

The many friends in this city of Mr. Frank Sanderson, M. A., Joint General Manager and Actuary of the Canada Life Assurance Company, will be interested to learn that the degree of LL.D. was conferred on him last evening by McMaster University. Mr. Sanderson has been for several years a member of the Senate of McMaster, and has been closely identified with its educational work. His services to the University and the deep interest he has taken not only in its work but in behalf of the cause of education generally, both university and actuarial, make it eminently fitting that his successful efforts in behalf of the students should be thus recognized.

OUR EXCHANGES
NO BIBLE IN S. S.
(Toronto Star.)

The Bible is being driven out of the Sunday schools by the leaflets and lesson helps. In one Ontario Sunday school not a Bible could be found. Is not neglect more dangerous than criticism?

POOR SPELLERS.
(Toronto Telegram.)

Toronto Public schools can produce a large supply of boys to go to England and shoot with precision. But Toronto Public schools are not producing an over-abundance of graduates to stay at home and spell with accuracy.

POOR DOGGIE.
(Woodstock Sentinel-Review.)

With the opening of spring and the gardening season come complaints from various quarters against the vagrant cur. Woodstock suffers its full share from this familiar nuisance. A determined crusade might help to reduce the evil without harmful results to anyone.

HOW THEY HAPPENED.
(Brantford Expositor.)

According to the Dominion Railway Commissioners, seventy-two per cent. of the collisions and derailments which occurred on Canadian railways during the year covered by their latest report were due to failure on the part of the engineers to do their full duty to their employers, their fellow-employees and the public. These so-called accidents resulted in the death of 529 persons and injury to 1,309 others.

STREETS AS PLAYGROUNDS.
(Toronto News.)

New York aldermen propose to convert portions of certain streets into playgrounds for a part of each afternoon. The intention is to debar traffic from these thoroughfares during specified hours. That is what Toronto may come to some day, unless the present generation acts apart, sufficient number of recreation grounds.

THIS IS IN TORONTO.
(Rev. H. S. Magee in Christian Guardian.)

Here is one instance: A dirty hovel, the floor of which is broken down toward the middle, so that it rests on the ground, and on the floor water stagnates for many months of the year. In it are three apartments bearing the semblance of rooms, and in these a family, consisting of father, mother, four children and a boarder manage to exist. The father has no work, and the mother, soon to bear again the responsibility of motherhood, goes out daily to earn a partial support for the family by doing janitor work. In another case, in surroundings almost similar, we find the father has been ill for months, and the mother looks so—the wonder is that it could be otherwise. The eldest son, a mere child, is a criminal, returning regularly to the hands of the police, and this is what we might expect. In neither house referred to are there any sanitary conveniences. These two typical places to which we have referred can be called neither homes nor houses.

LISTENING TO THE BAND.
(Montreal Witness.)

To hear band music out-of-doors, our people have to take the cars and go to one or two places in the east end, where the bands are playing. We ought to have bands municipally provided. We are big enough as a city, and our people are musically inclined. Music is inspiring. If it is music of the right kind, it is ameliorating and elevating. There is scarcely a city of any size in England or on the continent of Europe that does not have a band to play in the parks or squares. If public music is considered necessary there, can we afford to do without it? That music does elevate taste is not generally disputed, and this is specifically testified to by the Parks Committee of the London County Council, which has found that the standard of musical knowledge of the average park frequenter is higher than it has ever been. Even in the poorest districts in which the Council's open spaces are situated, there is an ever-growing appreciation of good music. So much is this the case, that before completing the musical arrangements for the coming season, members of the Parks Committee visited the various parks and made agreements with the band conductors to play in the parks, and the public places one-half the programme must be free from barn dances, cake walks, waltzes, hackneyed national fantasias, and similar pieces; and only one such piece is to be allowed in the other places where bands perform. Among the list of pieces not to be played at any of the performances given by the Council are such great favorites of the past as "Swanee River," "Way Down Tennessee," "Live on the Ocean," "Coon Band Contest," "In Old Kentucky," "Dusky Diah," and a score of others. Among other regulations, that compositions having a foreign title must have the title translated into English—another "education made easy idea"—and that no two pieces by the same composer, however popular, must have a place in the same programme. That London considers music to be a public place, and by the fact that the Council's conservative one—is spending about $65,000 on bands this summer, and that in many recreation grounds for which hitherto no music has been provided, bands will now play for the first time.

BOYS OF S. O. E.
Presentation of Prizes in the Juvenile Lodge.

Hamilton Juvenile Sons of England Lodge held a most successful anniversary entertainment on their last meeting night. There was a large turnout of parents and friends. The excellent programme consisted of: Piano solos by Misses Fanny Couts, Evelyn Goodenough and Mrs. Rowley Bowker; songs by Mr. T. Bowker, Bro. H. M. Poole, Bro. C. Kemp, Bro. F. Hayward, and banjo solos and songs, Mr. Preston, W.P.D.D. Bro. W. Buckingham was chairman. During the evening he called on P. Bro. Ald. T. W. Jutten to present the retiring Juvenile President, Bro. J. Pearce with a P. P. jewel and also presented a prize to two members bringing in most candidates. The first prize, a watch, went to Bro. Geo. F. Bailey; second, Boys' Own Annual, to Bro. C. Kemp; third, Boys' Own Annual, to Bro. H. Kempson. Credit was given to the members of the lodge which was composed solely of juveniles for their able manner in getting up such a good entertainment. It consisted of P. P. Bro. J. Pearce, W. P. Bro. F. Goodenough, V. P. Bro. J. Hunter, Chap. Bro. N. Hunter and Bros. C. J. and H. C. Smith, Roy Wheaton.

WHEAT ALL IN.
Seeding in the West is Almost Completed.

Winnipeg, May 12.—The C. P. R. crop bulletin was issued today, showing that seeding is practically completed in the country tributary to the system in the prairie provinces, and almost all the wheat will be in the ground by tomorrow night. Remarkable progress has been made with the work during the past few days. This is the most satisfactory news the business world which has been waiting for some time. The speed with which the work has been done seems almost astonishing, but the ground evidently was in good shape.

Calf With Five Legs.
Monck, May 12.—Mr. Wm. McLean of Monck, West Luther, can certainly boast of having a freak of nature in his herd of cattle this spring. On April 26 he had a cow give birth to a calf having five legs and a wing. It is living and can walk, using three of the legs to do so.

The preacher will be the largest face generally delivers the longest sermon.

DUNDAS NEWS.

Death of Charles Sturrock—Water Supply Good.

Dundas, May 15.—Among recent visitors in town were Miss Teresa Sheehy, Guelph; Mrs. Pettit, New York; Mrs. McNeill, Toronto; Dr. Lawson, Beamsville; Mrs. (Rev.) Vollek, Bartonville; Rev. Dr. Wakefield, Toronto; Wm. Stamford, Toronto; Percy Stock, Galt; Mr. Middlemost, Seaforth.

At noon yesterday Mr. Charles Sturrock passed away. Deceased was born in the parish of Ayr, County of Perth, Scotland, eighty-two years ago. In 1854, the year of his marriage, he emigrated to Canada, and his fifty-four years in this country have practically all been spent in Dundas. He was a farmer by trade, but for the last twenty-five years he was engaged in the coal and wood business. His office was next to the Post Office, where his familiar figure was almost invariably seen at an evening. He was a member of Knox Church, and in politics a Liberal. He leaves, besides his widow, two sons and two daughters: James A. Sturrock, Dundas; John Sturrock, Hamilton; Mrs. W. E. Campbell, Hamilton; Mrs. John Shaw, Calgary. The funeral will likely take place on Sunday afternoon to Grove cemetery.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of Valley City O. L. No. 1248 was held in the lodge room on Tuesday evening last. The lodge was graced by the presence of Deputy County Master Wm. Hoey, County Secretary Jas. Mitchell, Past District Master Wm. Watson, and Bro. King of No. 286, Hamilton.

Among visitors recently out of town were: Mrs. T. K. Anderson, Toronto; C. Patterson, in Brantford; Chas. Pennington, in Burlington; Peter Brady, in Skaneateles, N. Y.; Miss Marion Gwyn, in Toronto.

James Knowles, of New York, is here on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Bertram.

Mrs. Joseph Revell has returned from Chicago, where she has been spending the winter.

Miss Mary Stamford, of the Lakeside Hospital, Cleveland, is home for three weeks' holidays.

Gilbert Clark, of Calgary, and Miss Margaret Clark, professional nurse, of New York, are home to attend a reunion of the family of James and Mrs. Clark of Bullock's Corners.

Fred Slade and family have returned from England, where he is living over Mr. Robt. Clark's grocery store. Mr. Slade is engaged in his former position as driver for Mr. Clark.

J. J. Steele sails on Friday by steamer Victorian, of the Allan line, for Europe, where he will join Mrs. Steele and Miss Mabel Steele in Paris, and accompany them home in July.

W. G. Mallett and W. H. Bates leave next Monday for their mining property in Tennessee. They will take a coach and Blacksmith Minchin with them. Mr. Bates will be away for a couple of weeks, but Mr. Mallett will remain for the summer, to personally watch development of the mine.

Thos. Cartner has been called to Peterboro on account of the sudden death of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Wm. Cartner. Mr. Wm. Cartner, formerly of Dundas, had been married only seven weeks, and his many friends in Dundas sympathize with him in his sudden and sad bereavement.

The annual meeting of the Mission Circle of the Methodist Church was held on Tuesday evening at the parsonage. The officers elected were the same as those of the past year. Reports from different departments showed very satisfactory progress for the year just closed, the first. It was decided that the closing meeting would be held in the form of a picnic, on Tuesday, June 8. After the business part of the meeting was concluded, Rev. Mr. Harvey was given charge of the programme, in which Miss Hattie Quackenbush, Mrs. W. R. Saunders, Miss Moore and Mrs. W. H. C. Fisher took part. Refreshments were served.

There died on Tuesday at the Guelph Hospital, where he had undergone an operation, a well-known man of East Flamboro, in the person of Edward Carroll, who resided near Carlisle. He was 70 years of age. Besides a widow, he leaves two sons, both grown to manhood, at home. The funeral will take place Friday morning to Freelon. Deceased was in years past a frequent visitor in Dundas, where he was well known.

J. W. Boyle, chairman of the Fire and Water Committee, drove his committee to the reservoir and Greenville on an inspection trip yesterday, and on their return to town turned in a fire alarm, the firemen making a very creditable trip to the Town Hall, turning on the water in less than four minutes. There is at present a plentiful supply of water in the town reservoir, without drawing on the Cockburn dam.

The Redeptionist Fathers will open a two-weeks' mission in St. Augustine's Church, on Sunday, May 23, the first week being for the ladies of the congregation, and the second for the men. Rev. A. O'Reilly and Doyle will be in charge.

The members of Dreadnought Lodge,
