Stanley Mills & Co., Limited BEWARE OF THE MAN WHO TELLS.

(By Bert Kennedy in Chicago Tribune.) If you have a brick handy, present it without ceremony to the man who is al-ways telling you what other people say about you. You will injure him with the brick, and you will doubtless be locked up for assault; but you will an in the end. For you will have rid yourself of a friend who is more dangerous than the most dangerous foe.

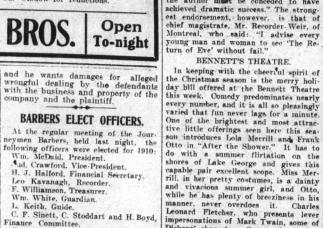

a friend who is more dangerous than the most dangerous foe. I am a man who adores peace with the heartiest adoration—I revel in it— but when I meet the man who tells me in confidence of the ruffianly thing that some one has said of me, I feel like thing in var. I feel like letting him have one of the best under the chin. Know, my dear reader, that every body talks about you when you are not tresent in quite a different way from yreat friend knows that you have iit face with them. It is human nature. We are all crities of one another. Even your dearest friend knows that you have iit dearest friend knows that you have lit-tle faults. And when the occasion comes he speaks to others of these little faults. He does this even though he is your best and most reliable friend. And you do the same by him. We all speak of one another's little faults. We can't help it. We weer born that way. We don't really mean anything by it. But we do it. And there's an end of it.

there's an end of it. It is alleged, to be sure, that there are some perfect persons who never say be-hind a man's back what they wouldn't say before his face. I say alleged, be-cause I must confess that, in a some-what wide experience of life, I have nev-er had the fortune to meet these per-sons. And I am driven to the conclusion that, if they exist at all, they are as ing and proving and challenging, you ar fitting the cap to your head. I don deny that there are times when it seem I don't necessary to meet certain things that are said about you. But even then it is well t hesitate—to hesitate long indeed well thesitate-to hesitate long indeed. Indeed, in my judgment, it is well to keep on hesitating and hesitating-till the thing blows over. For everything blows over in time! That is, if you let it alone. The Irish peasants have a wise saying that fits in here. This is it: "Never bid the divil good morrow till you meet him." It is the one who tells who really causes the trouble. This dealer in the truth that is necessarily in part a He causes more mischief than any other kind of criminal. I say eriminal advis-ig the heat of telling people what oth-ers say about them creates far more and the fortune to meet these persons. And I am driven to the conclusion that, if they exist at all, they are as respectively. For the man or the woman who is in the habit of telling people what others are among us as white blackbirds.

My experience of life has shown me that human beings find it the finest and most stimulating fun going to laugh at the failings and oddities of others be hind their backs. In fact, I would go so far as to assert that this trait in our common humanity is the root and foundation of our social life. In the good old prehistoric days men laid down their fint clubs and indulged in humorous comment concerning the way some as quaintances escaped from, or was guiped up by, the sporty animals with the loug names. And they found this comment upon the fortunes or misfortunes of the fortunes of who it now. The one who tells is a spoil sport and

KING OF CADONIA." Seats will go on sale to-morrow morn-ing for the "King of Cadonia," the English musical comedy, to be offered at the Grand next Monday night. In Toronto, where it is being presented this week, it is said to be one of the most gorgeous productions seen here in some time, and everybody likes it. The company is a particularly strong one. It includes such artists as Marguerite Clark, who was last seen here in "The Wishing Bing," William Norris, the comedian, who will be remembered in "The Cingalee," and Tom Jones; Mel-ville Stewart, who was also here in the "Cingalee," and The Country Girl," Clara Palmer, Zelda Sears, Bobert Dempster, and William Danforth. There are many other well known people and, altogether, the organization numbers about seventy. Hamilton is the only town in Canada outside of Toronto, where this great musical play will be seen, as it goes from here to New York, where the following Monday at Daly's Theatre."

"THE LOST TRAIL."

"THE LOST TRAIL." To those who enjoy a play of un-flagging interest, color and movement, a strong p.ot, well-seen contrasts, "The Lost Trail." which comes to the Grand next Tuesday, will appeal. It tells a love story that enwraps the heart. It is said to be startlingly real in the dra-matic sceues it presents in the lives of the people of the west. There is com-edy of the choicest kind, and its char-acter studies are noted for their sim-plicity and truth.

"Clothes make a great difference in people," said the thoughtful woman. "Yes," answered Mrs. Flimbilt. "I have known one of my new gowns to change my husband into a perfect bear."—Washington Star. Be sure you are right and then keep averlastingly at it.—Chicago News.

THE ARTLESS ANSWER. On one night of his return Mr. Wilson was stealing carefully up the front stairs, so that his wife would not be awakened, when he heard her voice, high and strained. THE SAFE COURSE.

Mrs. Wilson's husband was often obliged to travel on business, and fre-quently did not reach home till atter nuidnight. His wile had been in the habit of sleeping peacefully at these times, says a writer in the Spokesman-Raview, but a number of burglaries in the neighborhood during one of Mr. Wil-son's trips had disturbed her caim. "I don't know whether you are my husband or a burglar," came the excited tones, "but I am going to be on the safe side and shoot, so if you are Henry you'd better get out of the way!"

The one who tells is a spoil sport and a traitor. And, what is more, he is that worst lize of all-the liar in whose lie there is part truth. For the fact that he tells you of is divorced from its con-text. If you yourself had been there and heard what was said before and af-tor it row would have pleaded outle a and heard what was said before and af-ter it, you would have placed quite a different construction upon it. You would see that the thing that he tells you of, and that sounds so malicious in the telling, was said in joke, that there was meant to be behind it, and that there was meant to be behind it. Oh nothing it would have felt a bit sheepish, per-haps; but it would not have feit as you feel now—that you have lost a friend. The one who tells is a spoil sport, in the sense that he spoils the fun of gos-sip. He likely enough laughed as heart:

Poor Deer Season in Wisconsin.

Poor Deer Season in Wisconsin. Deputy Game Warden Jasob De Long has checked up a little over four hundred deer received, transferred or paesing through here to other points. This is the smallest number ever reported at this point. Usually 2.000 or more have been checked here by game wardens. Bad hunting conditions, a growing searcity of deer and a limit of one to each hunter are reasons assigned by the warden for the small number.—Chippews Tails in Milwaukee Sentine.
