

The Charlottetown Herald.

NEW SERIES

CHARLOTTETOWN, PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 23, 1905

Vol. XXXIV, No. 34

Flour Flour.

We carry a large stock of Flour, and can suit you in quality and price.

Groceries.

Our store has gained a reputation for reliable Groceries. Our trade during 1904 has been very satisfactory. We shall put forth every effort during the present year to give our customers the best possible service.

Eureka Tea.

If you have never tried our Eureka Tea it will pay you to do so. It is blended especially for our trade, and our sales on it show a continued increase. Price 25 cents per lb.

Preserves.—We manufacture all our own Preserves, and can guarantee them strictly pure Sold wholesale and retail.

R. F. Maddigan & Co.

Eureka Grocery.

QUEEN STREET, CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I.

Parlor Tables!

Our stock in this line is simply immense. If you are interested in Parlor Tables, this is your store.

Mark Wright Furnishing Co.
CARPETS AND FURNITURE.

Custom Tailoring!

Gent's Furnishings, Hats, Caps, etc., etc.

SIR,—We wish to direct your attention to our stock of

NEW CLOTHS

For Spring and Summer wear. Our Cloths are imported from the very best manufacturers in England, Scotland and Ireland, and include

Worsted, Fancy Suitings,
Vicunas, Serges,
Tweeds, Trowserings,
And Fancy Vest Cloths.

Overcoatings in Vicunas, Rainproof and Fancy Worsted.

We can guarantee satisfaction in the cutting, fitting and making up of our Clothing.

We invite you to call and examine the stock, and believe we will be able to suit you.

JOHN McLEOD & CO.

Queen Street, Charlottetown.

MENS' Midsummer Underwear.

Can you think of anything more annoying than ill-fitting, poorly-made Underwear this hot midsummer weather? You'll not find any of that sort in this store. We have Underwear to fit large men and small men—men of all sizes and shapes, made of the very best materials by the best Underwear manufacturers in the country. Go through the stocks yourself, feel the softness of the fabric, note the neatness of the making, then take it home and put it on, and you'll agree with us that our Men's Underwear is exactly right every way. Balbriggans, Gauzes, Lisle Threads and Cashmeres, plain and fancy, 75c., 85c., $1.00, $1.25 up to $3.00. See what we can do for you in Summer Underwear.

D. A. BRUCE,

The Popular Clothiers, Hatters and Haberdashers,
Morris Block, Victoria Row.

Furniture of Quality

We Keep Pounding Away on Quality.

We don't want you to forget it. It is more important than price in the Furniture business. The long-wearing qualities of Newson's Furniture are known all over P. E. Island. Added to this important quality is the extreme lowness of price which prevails at this store. This combination of high quality and low price is what has made this store what it is—the place where people of means are sure of GOOD things—where those of slender purse are sure of full value for their money. Come here for your next furniture purchase.

JOHN NEWSON.

HARDWARE!

Largest Assortment,
Lowest Prices.

WHOLESALE and RETAIL

Fennell & Chandler

ROBERT PALMER & CO.,

Charlottetown Sash and Door Factory,

Manufacturers of Doors & Frames, Sashes & Frames inerior and Exterior finish etc., etc.

Our Specialties

Gothic windows, stairs, stair rails, Balusters, New Posts, Cypress Gutter and Conductors. Kiln dried Spruce and Hardwood Flooring, Kiln dried clear spruce, sheathing and clapboards, Encourage home Industry.

ROBERT PALMER & CO.,

PEAKE'S No. 3 WHARF.

CHARLOTTETOWN.

In Education.

It Is The Correct Thing.

For parents to send their children to a Catholic school whenever it is possible.

To send their sons and daughters to Catholic colleges and academies where the mind and heart will be developed.

To remember that the chief object of education should be to make good Christians, good citizens, and good members of a family.

To know that the children belong to their parents and not to the State.

For parents to know that they are bound to give their children an education suitable to their station in life.

To know that any education which excludes religion is most dangerous to the spiritual welfare of the student.

To know that there are plenty of good Catholic colleges and academies where Catholics may receive an excellent education.

To know that Catholics are bound to support parish schools.

The archbishops and bishops of the United States assembled at the Second Plenary Council of Baltimore said "that religious teaching and religious training should form part of every system of school education. Every day's experience renders it evident that to develop the intellect and store it with knowledge while the heart and its affections are left without the control of religious principles, sustained by religious practices, is to mistake the nature and object of education; as well as to prepare for both parent and child the most bitter disappointment in the future, and for society the most disastrous results." These words of timely warning should be taken to heart by all Catholics, especially those parents who are thinking of sending their sons or daughters to a non-Catholic college or academy.

—The Correct Thing for Catholics.

The New Play at Oberammergau.

(By Thomas Walsh in Ave Maris.)

As the Bavarian Highlands are to be throughout this summer the resort of many American tourists, perhaps some of these and their friends at home may be interested in the particulars of the Kreuzshule, or "The School of the Cross," which is the production in the great Passion Play Theatre at Oberammergau. There are to be altogether eighteen performances of the sacred drama, the first having taken place on June 4, the last being announced for September 17.

The Kreuzshule, or "David and Christ," was first acted in the year 1825, and once again in 1875, when it was witnessed by the German Emperor Friedrich Wilhelm. This year, however, the drama will be presented in a new version, which has been published by the villagers of Oberammergau, and will shortly appear in an English translation. It is the work of the gifted poet, Canon Joseph Hecker, Presbyter of the Court of Manich, and has proved to be a production of high artistic merit. The music accompanying the drama—the choruses in Greek style, the psalms and commentaries—has been composed by Professor Wilhelm Muller of Manich, and is said to be of extreme beauty. The play itself consists of seven acts, dealing with the triumphs and sorrows of David the King. After the grand overture the leader of the chorus—one of the most impressive personages of the Oberammergau stage—delivers the prologue. Attired in white and gold, he represents a high-priest of the divine revelation during the interval between the first promise of Christ's act of redemption and its fulfilment on Mount Calvary. The prologue traces the growth and waning light of prophecy, and indicates the fashion in which David foreshadowed the life of Christ. After this the curtain of the middle stage opens upon the first tableau, which represents the birth of Christ. There are nine of these tableaux, with hymns and commentaries; and in them will be used the same costumes and scenic effects as in the last Passion Play.

The seven acts of the Kreuzshule deal with the early life of David; his anointing by the Prophet Samuel; the war with the Philistines and his combat and triumph over Goliath; the persecutions of the jealous King Saul; the defeat of the Israelites at Gilboa; the tragic deaths of Saul and Jonathan; and David's march upon Jerusalem; the rebellion of Absalom; David's flight from Jerusalem, and his triumphant return.

The nine tableaux represent respectively: the birth of Christ, His baptism, His victory over the temptation of the devil, His escape from stoning by the Jews, His entry into Jerusalem, the Last Supper, the Carrying of the Cross, and the Crucifixion.

From this scenario it will be seen that this season's visitors to Oberammergau will witness in the Kreuzshule all the principal and salient features of the Passion Play: the same tableaux, the same actors and chorists, amid the same impressive surroundings of the beautiful Bavarian mountains.

Mr Guernsey, the Boston Herald's special correspondent in Mexico, who has created so much confusion in the ranks of the maligners of Mexico by writing truthfully of that country and its Catholic people paints another charming picture of Mexican life in a recent letter. He is describing the town of Morelia in the State of Michoacan, and instead of bewailing the benighted condition of the place and its people, as some narrow-minded non-Catholic would do, he says:

"The people are primitive, good-humored, and all unconscious of the crazy ways of our civilization, so-called. There is no fashionable society, no signs of an addition to culture, no clubs and no bores. Life merely flows along; and to the people of this place the City of Mexico seems as remote as Paris or London."

"Morelia is the capital of Michoacan and the grand metropolis of all this region. There appears always to be trade here, and the little shops or tiendas are busy. People ride into town, if they are plain Indians. All business is carried on in leisurely fashion, and the shopkeepers are most obliging."

"One finds the people devout Catholics, and on Sunday the congregation overflows into the churchyard, the people kneeling under the trees their earnest eyes fixed on priest and altar within the sacred edifice. It is the faith of the Middle Ages still burning bright and the faces of the women reveal their inner quietude. Nor are men lacking in these crowded congregations."

"As in all strongly Catholic towns in Mexico, there is general courtesy. One notices this fact also in Morelia, a considerable city, where much deference is paid the clergy. A very 'archaic' of courtesy is Morelia."

"Politeness, consideration for one's fellows, results, one must think, from leisure, from a habit of reverence, and in so-called clerical towns how well bred are the people, and how kindly their ways with the stranger within their gates. We may bring here new creeds, new formulas, but we shall never be able to improve on the fine old manners inherited from generations of devout people trained to obedience and reverence."

"In all this State of Michoacan the Catholic Church is very powerful; the rich hacendados are strong churchmen, and the churches are often noble and stately edifices. The great and potent figure in these parts is the Archbishop of Michoacan, Dr. Silva, who resides in Morelia, a great-hearted prelate, with a truly apostolic love of the poor and humble. Of this good man many pleasant stories are told. He is learned, charitable and practical. His life is a shining example to all his clergy."

"The people here are given to an outdoor life. They lounge about under the arcades, they sit under the shade trees in the plazas, and stand in shop doors to take the air. The poorer people breakfast and take supper in the open. Children flourish greatly, and families are of the Roosevelt size, for race suicide is a thing unknown. One sees among the poor some pallid, anemic people; but they are from the unhealthy rice fields down in the hotter country. Coming up here they gain strength.—Sacred Heart Review."

Under the high-sounding cognomen of Prince Khilkoff, which is his title by right of heritage, and "Imperial Minister of Railways and Transportation," one would hardly recognize the whilom "John Mikale" who many years ago under this assumed name emigrated from Russia to the United States without a penny in the world and started earning his living in Philadelphia as attendant of a belt-making machine at a dollar a day. After a few years in the machine shop, where his remarkable talents soon attracted attention, and learning much of the practical side of engineering, a knowledge which was to stand him in such good stead later on, he worked his way up by dint of indomitable energy successively from brakeman on a freight train to the position of locomotive engineer on the Pennsylvania railway. Shortly afterwards a breakdown on the line gave him the opportunity of his life. His remarkable skill in averting what might have been a very serious accident attracted the attention of one of the passengers who happened to be no less a personage than the Minister of Railways of one of the South American Republics, the result being that the young engineer went off to South America as superintendent of a new railway in Venezuela, and ended eventually by becoming the manager of the line. This almost continuous run of luck would have probably turned the brain of many men, but John Mikale was not one of that sort. To return to his native land and make a position for himself amongst his own countrymen had always been his ambition, so he decided at last to throw up his position in South America and returned to Russia still under his assumed name—though by this time he was probably more American than Russian. By good fortune, as it again turned out, he managed to get an insignificant berth in a small country station, and here he might have vegetated indefinitely had not his wonderful luck again helped him. This unimportant little place on the line had always been the centre of a serious dislocation of the traffic—no one could exactly explain the cause or how it could be remedied. John Mikale, with his American experience and training, grasped the situation at once, asked for and obtained permission to try and remedy it, succeeded instantly, and from that moment became not only a marked but also a made man in Russia, where such initiative genius is rare. From this moment there was no looking back for John Mikale. Having once attracted the attention of his superiors, that of the Emperor followed as a matter of course; he was promoted to the headquarters at St. Petersburg, from thence to the staff. The general management of the line followed and was succeeded by honours and appointments sufficient to satisfy the most ambitious of men, not the least being the restoration to him by the Emperor of the title and estates which he had voluntarily renounced when as a mere youth he had emigrated to America. Julius M. Price, in Fortnightly Review.

Good Manners and Good Morals in Catholic Mexico.

Mr Guernsey, the Boston Herald's special correspondent in Mexico, who has created so much confusion in the ranks of the maligners of Mexico by writing truthfully of that country and its Catholic people paints another charming picture of Mexican life in a recent letter. He is describing the town of Morelia in the State of Michoacan, and instead of bewailing the benighted condition of the place and its people, as some narrow-minded non-Catholic would do, he says:

"The people are primitive, good-humored, and all unconscious of the crazy ways of our civilization, so-called. There is no fashionable society, no signs of an addition to culture, no clubs and no bores. Life merely flows along; and to the people of this place the City of Mexico seems as remote as Paris or London."

"Morelia is the capital of Michoacan and the grand metropolis of all this region. There appears always to be trade here, and the little shops or tiendas are busy. People ride into town, if they are plain Indians. All business is carried on in leisurely fashion, and the shopkeepers are most obliging."

"One finds the people devout Catholics, and on Sunday the congregation overflows into the churchyard, the people kneeling under the trees their earnest eyes fixed on priest and altar within the sacred edifice. It is the faith of the Middle Ages still burning bright and the faces of the women reveal their inner quietude. Nor are men lacking in these crowded congregations."

"As in all strongly Catholic towns in Mexico, there is general courtesy. One notices this fact also in Morelia, a considerable city, where much deference is paid the clergy. A very 'archaic' of courtesy is Morelia."

"Politeness, consideration for one's fellows, results, one must think, from leisure, from a habit of reverence, and in so-called clerical towns how well bred are the people, and how kindly their ways with the stranger within their gates. We may bring here new creeds, new formulas, but we shall never be able to improve on the fine old manners inherited from generations of devout people trained to obedience and reverence."

"In all this State of Michoacan the Catholic Church is very powerful; the rich hacendados are strong churchmen, and the churches are often noble and stately edifices. The great and potent figure in these parts is the Archbishop of Michoacan, Dr. Silva, who resides in Morelia, a great-hearted prelate, with a truly apostolic love of the poor and humble. Of this good man many pleasant stories are told. He is learned, charitable and practical. His life is a shining example to all his clergy."

"The people here are given to an outdoor life. They lounge about under the arcades, they sit under the shade trees in the plazas, and stand in shop doors to take the air. The poorer people breakfast and take supper in the open. Children flourish greatly, and families are of the Roosevelt size, for race suicide is a thing unknown. One sees among the poor some pallid, anemic people; but they are from the unhealthy rice fields down in the hotter country. Coming up here they gain strength.—Sacred Heart Review."

Under the high-sounding cognomen of Prince Khilkoff, which is his title by right of heritage, and "Imperial Minister of Railways and Transportation," one would hardly recognize the whilom "John Mikale" who many years ago under this assumed name emigrated from Russia to the United States without a penny in the world and started earning his living in Philadelphia as attendant of a belt-making machine at a dollar a day. After a few years in the machine shop, where his remarkable talents soon attracted attention, and learning much of the practical side of engineering, a knowledge which was to stand him in such good stead later on, he worked his way up by dint of indomitable energy successively from brakeman on a freight train to the position of locomotive engineer on the Pennsylvania railway. Shortly afterwards a breakdown on the line gave him the opportunity of his life. His remarkable skill in averting what might have been a very serious accident attracted the attention of one of the passengers who happened to be no less a personage than the Minister of Railways of one of the South American Republics, the result being that the young engineer went off to South America as superintendent of a new railway in Venezuela, and ended eventually by becoming the manager of the line. This almost continuous run of luck would have probably turned the brain of many men, but John Mikale was not one of that sort. To return to his native land and make a position for himself amongst his own countrymen had always been his ambition, so he decided at last to throw up his position in South America and returned to Russia still under his assumed name—though by this time he was probably more American than Russian. By good fortune, as it again turned out, he managed to get an insignificant berth in a small country station, and here he might have vegetated indefinitely had not his wonderful luck again helped him. This unimportant little place on the line had always been the centre of a serious dislocation of the traffic—no one could exactly explain the cause or how it could be remedied. John Mikale, with his American experience and training, grasped the situation at once, asked for and obtained permission to try and remedy it, succeeded instantly, and from that moment became not only a marked but also a made man in Russia, where such initiative genius is rare. From this moment there was no looking back for John Mikale. Having once attracted the attention of his superiors, that of the Emperor followed as a matter of course; he was promoted to the headquarters at St. Petersburg, from thence to the staff. The general management of the line followed and was succeeded by honours and appointments sufficient to satisfy the most ambitious of men, not the least being the restoration to him by the Emperor of the title and estates which he had voluntarily renounced when as a mere youth he had emigrated to America. Julius M. Price, in Fortnightly Review.

Very Rev. David Fleming, who was one of the assistants to the Father General of the Franciscans at Rome, has been elected provincial of the English province.

Ex-Bailie Keillor, who resigned his position as a councillor and magistrate of Perth, Scotland, some time ago, has been formally received into the Catholic Church by Very Rev. Dan Lavelle.

The Church in Mexico produces heroes also. The other day "El Pais," Mexico's Catholic daily chronicled the death of Right Rev. Eilemon Fierro, Bishop of Tamaulipas. His charity caused his sudden death. There have been for weeks many persons sick in his city, and he went among them as might a simple parish priest. He contracted sporadic cholera, and soon an end came to his earthly labors.

At a meeting of Catholic citizens of Hobart, Australia, it was decided to celebrate the diamond jubilee of the Most Rev. Archbishop Murphy next October by clearing off the debt of £1,200 on the college he is completing in Hobart and in commemoration of Dr. Murphy having attained his ninetieth birthday. This event was celebrated on Sunday, June 18, by special services at St. Mary's. Congratulations are flowing in to Dr. Murphy from all parts of the world.

It is stated that during his recent visit to Bordeaux M. Loubet visited the establishment for deaf mute girls, which is in charge of the Sisters of Charity of Nereve, and gave the cross of the Legion of Honor to the superior, Sister Angeline Camaux, directress of the schools for forty-six years. "He knew," the President said, "all the good they were doing. His visit to that house, in which they devoted themselves to the disinherited of nature, would be one of the most precious memories of his trip to Bordeaux." A singular incident, if true.

It was the wedding day, and the unfortunate bridegroom was making his exit with the usual accompaniments of rich and old boots. He snatched his hat from a peg seized an umbrella from the hall stand, and was going out of the door, when the bride, father called after him:—"You've taken my umbrella, Henry. Bring it back at once. I've six daughters, but only one good umbrella."

British Tourist.—I say, what makes you Americans talk with your nose?

American.—I say, what makes you Brits talk with your don't-you-knows?

Headache Vanished.

Mrs. E. W. Le Gallais, St. Godroy, P. Q., says: I have used Milburn's Sterling Headache Powders for Sick Headache. After taking two powders I felt better and was able to get up and go on with my work.

Bald-headed Uncle.—Your hair is much too long, Tommy. You should go to the barber's.

Tommy.—Yes, uncle. I suppose you've just been!

Cough of Grippe.

In the spring when Grippe was raging I had a bad attack and the cough was so severe that I thought I would cough myself to death. I got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and it cured me in a surprisingly short time.

Mrs. J. H. Myers, Isaac's Harbor N. S.

Small shoes will hurt her feet, but still a girl will wear them. She cares more for her beau than for her feet.

Minard's Liniment Cures everything.

The stranger who gives you his confidence unasked is either a fool or he takes you for one.

Minard's Liniment cures Colds etc.

Pay as you go, and if you can't pay don't go.

Minard's Liniment cures Dandruff.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS FOR WEAK PEOPLE

These pills cure all diseases and disorders arising from weak heart, worn out nerves or watery blood, such as Palpitation, Ship Sickness, Throbbing, Smothering, Dizziness, Weak or Faint Spills, Anæmia, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Spasms, Pains, General Debility and Lack of Vitality. They are a true heart tonic, nerve food and blood antiseptic, building up and restoring all the worn out and wasted tissues of the body and restoring perfect health. Price 50c. a box, or $ for $1.25, at all druggists.

CURES
Dysentery, Diarrhoea, Cramps, Colic, Pains in the Stomach, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, Sea Sickness, Summer Complaint, and all Fluxes of the Bowels.
Has been in use for nearly 60 years and has never failed to give relief.

MISCELLANEOUS.

It was the wedding day, and the unfortunate bridegroom was making his exit with the usual accompaniments of rich and old boots. He snatched his hat from a peg seized an umbrella from the hall stand, and was going out of the door, when the bride, father called after him:—"You've taken my umbrella, Henry. Bring it back at once. I've six daughters, but only one good umbrella."

British Tourist.—I say, what makes you Americans talk with your nose?

American.—I say, what makes you Brits talk with your don't-you-knows?

Headache Vanished.

Mrs. E. W. Le Gallais, St. Godroy, P. Q., says: I have used Milburn's Sterling Headache Powders for Sick Headache. After taking two powders I felt better and was able to get up and go on with my work.

Bald-headed Uncle.—Your hair is much too long, Tommy. You should go to the barber's.

Tommy.—Yes, uncle. I suppose you've just been!

Cough of Grippe.

In the spring when Grippe was raging I had a bad attack and the cough was so severe that I thought I would cough myself to death. I got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and it cured me in a surprisingly short time.

Mrs. J. H. Myers, Isaac's Harbor N. S.

Small shoes will hurt her feet, but still a girl will wear them. She cares more for her beau than for her feet.

Minard's Liniment Cures everything.

The stranger who gives you his confidence unasked is either a fool or he takes you for one.

Minard's Liniment cures Colds etc.

Pay as you go, and if you can't pay don't go.

Minard's Liniment cures Dandruff.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS FOR WEAK PEOPLE

These pills cure all diseases and disorders arising from weak heart, worn out nerves or watery blood, such as Palpitation, Ship Sickness, Throbbing, Smothering, Dizziness, Weak or Faint Spills, Anæmia, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Spasms, Pains, General Debility and Lack of Vitality. They are a true heart tonic, nerve food and blood antiseptic, building up and restoring all the worn out and wasted tissues of the body and restoring perfect health. Price 50c. a box, or $ for $1.25, at all druggists.