Hasten Slowly.

The Board of Trade at its annual meeting yesterday acted wisely in walking warily in the matter of Customs bonds. Instead of passing the resolution which was embodied in the report, they decided to instruct the Council to go over the matter again carefully, and consider it in all its bearings. There are undoubtedly abuses to be remedied, but it is unwise to create a greater evil in the course of remedying an existing one. This action of the Board was brought about largely by the testimony of Mr. E. M. Jackman, who gave the members the result of what he had experienced and learned as Minister of Finance and Customs of the Colony during some nine years. Most of those most anxious in moving for the original resolution, after they had heard his speech, were desirous to re-commit the resolution to the new Council to consider the whole case again.

Board of Trade Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trade took place at the Rooms, Water Street, last evening. There was a large attendance. Hon. W. C. Job, the President, having taken the chair, Mr. G. C. Fearn, the Hon. Secretary, was called on to read the Report for the year just closed. The report will be found in another column of this issue.

It is an interesting and cleverly compiled document and well worth perusal. The accounts for the year also laid on the table showed an expenditure of $3,880. There was a small balance to credit after all bills had been paid.

Mr. W. C. Job, the President, then arose and made a graceful speech in which he praised the Secretary warmly for the splendid service he had done the Board of Trade the past year in giving his time and talents for nothing. Mr. Fearn would not even accept an address from the members of the Council. Mr. Job then proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Fearn. This was seconded by Mr. W. G. Gosling and carried by acclamation.

Mr. A. F. Goodridge endorsed what Mr. Gosling had said in praise of Mr. Fearn and his work and moved that the Report be adopted. Mr. Fred Moore had seconded the motion when Mayor Ellis arose and made a strong protest against the passing of that section in the Report referring to the City Council. It was, he said, misleading and intended to convey the idea that the laws were not carried out. He concluded his remarks by asking that his name be taken from the sub-committee.

Mr. W. G. Gosling, Chairman of the Committee, said that he himself was responsible for the Report, and now wished to assure Mayor Ellis that no reflection on the City Council was intended.

Hon. John Harvey expressed the opinion that the section under discussion was unfortunate, to say the least, and he suggested that it be passed over without further discussion. All recognized the difficulties that the Councilors had to contend with. He did not believe that any reflection was intended.

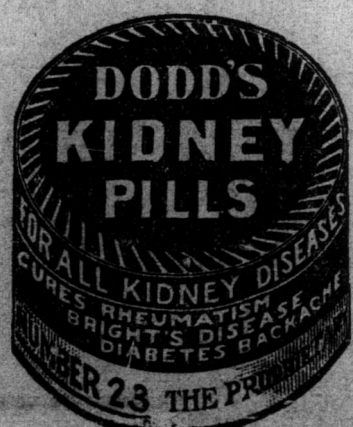

The clause in the Report referring to the abolition of the system of passing duties by Bonds was attacked valiantly by Mr. E. M. Jackman. He said that the Council had no right to make such a recommendation which aimed at destroying the rights of membership. It was also a move against the general public welfare, and a very large sum in interest would be lost to the Colony. Having had nine years experience of the Customs House as Finance Minister he was in a position to say that while during all that time several millions had been collected under Bonds system not a dollar had been lost. A public instrument of credit that facilitated and increased the trade of the Colony was now to be destroyed at one blow.

The election of officers followed Mr. Jackman's speech. Hon. R. Watson and Mr. A. Pindlater acting as Secretaries.

The officers for 1912 are:—President, W. G. Gosling, Esq.; Vice-President, M. G. Winters; Asst. Vice-President, G. C. Fearn. The Council was made up by the election of Hon. W. C. Job, A. F. Goodridge, E. M. Jackman, Hon. John Anderson, R. G. Rendell and G. J. Carter.

After the election the debate on Mr. Jackman's protest against the abolition of the Bond system. Mr. Fearn and Mr. J. Browning spoke in favor of the abolition which they contended put the Government in the position of a lender which was properly the province of the Banks or of individuals. Admitting that these refused to lend money had the Government any justification in doing so? Besides it put the Government into a position where they could not possibly help discriminating.

Messrs. Jackman, Harvey and Anderson put up strong arguments on the other side and showed that the Bond system was as much in the interest of the Government and the general trade of the country as it was for the individual. The debate grew very ardent and was brought to a close by Hon. J. Harvey proposing and Hon. John Anderson seconding a resolution that the new Council be instructed to consider the paragraph relating to Bonds. This was carried and the meeting closed.

Disorderly Conduct.

Last night from 7 till past 10 o'clock a dense crowd of people stood around a hotel off George's Street. The basement is the resort of disorderly males and females, and last night the owner, an old woman, lay drunk on the door, while the miserable surroundings were a wreck, the windows being broken and the door torn down and general havoc wrought. A free fight had occurred amongst the habitués of the place, and the same occurred Saturday night. There were several police present, and the woman alluded to was taken to the station when she had recovered from her stupor.

Doing Well.

Charles Lench, son of Rev. Mr. Lench, of Freshwater, who is in Toronto learning architecture at a Toronto College, is also doing well in the musical line. He has given naturally a fine voice he took lessons in singing and recently sang at a concert at Massey Hall before an audience of 4,000 people with great acceptance. All were well pleased.

S. MILLEY

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

When I fell sick in China, they called the doctor in; he pounded on a tom-tom, and raised a frightful din. He said: "The evil spirits must first be chased away, and then I'll change the treatment, and make a tea of hay; I'll give you shredded roadstools, and ink and powdered snakes, and burn some yellow feathers, and thus cure you your aches. This house can know no healing till ghosts are chased therefrom; so watch me play the cowbell, and swat the Thomas-ton." When I fell sick in Kansas, the stern physician came, and spent the morning working the diagnosis game; he pinched me in the larynx, he poked me in the lung, he hit me with a hammer, he quipped at my tongue. And then he groaned with pity, and scratched his whiskered jaw, and said: "It's buntonitis—worst case I ever saw! Just bring an ax and bucksaw, and water in a keg, and sit upon his forehead—I must hew off his leg." When next disease has got me, and I am sore afraid, I'll hustle back to China, where doctors know their trade.

Board of fo

At the third annual meeting of the Board of Trade, the Secretary, Mr. Fearn, the report for 1911, the features which we have summarised. The report opens with congratulatory notices to the Coronation and the bar, and proceeds to give a review of the Festival of Empire held last year in London, and of the Newfoundland exhibits at the Crystal Palace.

As to trade conditions, the Secretary, Mr. Fearn, said that the unrest in Spain and Portugal had been disquieting to shippers, but happily it had now abated. "So serious was the position in Spain that the Trade Committee for Newfoundland, then residing in Alicante, wrote saying that which had been sent to his former address at Malaga had been delayed transmission to him three or four days, or longer, because the war had been cut, and in the whole of there was not one spot quiet except Alicante."

"The cholera in Italy at one threatened to assume very grave proportions, and this was another for anxiety to our merchants, above all these, was the misunderstanding between Germany on one side, and France and Britain on the other, which threatened to break out in a war of proportions at any moment."

Fortunately these perils, which would have meant more or less to the Colony, have passed, and perils prevail in the Colony.

With these conditions, the catch in Nova Scotia "brought" boisterous weather and large amount of dog fish, the failure of our aquid school to realize even a nary voyage, and the purchase of green fish by Gloucester firms, as the short supplies of fresh fish, have all contributed to the demand for Newfoundland fish, which was much in excess of the supply, resulting in a rapid and almost of advance in prices; the consequence of which was a brisk and satisfactory trade and the payment of accounts to a previously extent."

Owing to the defeat of Russia in Canada, that issue is no longer a live question.

The French Catch and Labry

"The failure of the French fisher the fish contracted for owing to shortage of catch the export of St. Pierre from the 1st January 31st October, 1911, being less than that of the same period of 1910, about 20,000 quintals of dry and 135,000 quintals green, as well as inferior quality of their last make, enabled the shippers to realize their cargoes at a loss, and although the market had on several occasions to be pleased to know that although profits realized from shipments of grade of fish have been small, actual losses have occurred."

With a small outfit, the catch was 150,000 quintals, more than last year, while the price advanced from 50c. to 70c. per quintal.

The Shore and Bank fishery expected to yield 40,000 to 50,000 quintals more than last season.

Brazil.

"The exports to Brazil up to the end of November was 41,815 quintals, excess of last year, and to the 548 quintals in excess, while all other countries have more fish at higher prices than last year. The prices which have reached this article have been unprecedentedly high, and have reached such a figure, freight and the import duties, by foreign countries are added make the price almost prohibitive."
