All-British Music.

An Exhibition of the Best and the Noblest—Unknown Artists' Chance.

Of great help to the cause of British music should be the British Music Exhibition, which is to be held at Olympia in September. The exhibition is being promoted by the Piano Manufacturers' Association and the aims they have in view is the "bringing together of all that is best and noblest in musical art." A distinctive feature will be the series of vocal and instrumental competitions, in which none but British subjects may take part. Professional musicians or those holding recognized diplomas or degrees in music will not be eligible, and every chance of success will therefore be given to the unknown performer. Should he or she gain a prize, an immense advantage will accrue, apart from the intrinsic value of the award, and the benefit to the subsequent career of the prize-winner will obviously be considerable.

Musical Prizes.

Prizes will be given for solo singing, choral singing, in which church choirs can take part, pianoforte playing, and violin, violoncello, organ, and orchestral work. In most of the sections there are two divisions, one for competitors over eighteen, and another for those below that age, and since the exhibition is one of British music, it is only fitting that the best pieces selected should be works by British composers—Edward German, Sterndale Bennett, S. Wesley, J. Holbrooke, Montague Phillips, Goring Thomas, Purcell, Sir Herbert Parry, Sir Edward Elgar, Sullivan, Sir Alexander Mackenzie, and Sir Villiers Stanford.

There is a special competition for restaurant orchestras, of not more than twelve players.

The prizes are particularly valuable and include several grand and upright grand pianofortes, violins and violoncellos, silver and gold-mounted horns, brouse and silver shields, and gold and silver medals.

"All-British"

Successful competitors must be prepared to take part in the closing concert during which the prizes will be distributed. Chorus and orchestras will be invited to unite in a performance of Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," the soloists being selected from the prize-winners. Among those who have consented to act as vice-presidents of the exhibition are the Lord Mayor of London, the Earl of Shaftesbury, Sir Joseph Beecham, Dr. Charles Harris, Sir Villiers Stanford, Mr. S. Ernest Palmer and Mr. London-Romney.

There is no doubt that this exhibition is likely to rank as the most important event of its kind in the current musical year, and Mrs. Rogers, the organizer's manager, in a Daily Graphic representative yesterday afternoon, "Certainly nothing in any way similar has ever been held before. The great piano manufacturing firms, who are presenting many of the prizes, have wisely considered that it might be wise to furnish the double object of a trades exhibition and a unique form of encouraging the deserving cause of British music. Everything about the exhibition will be British, with the exception of the accompanying 'Hymn of Praise.' And even this was written originally for a British festival."

Sad Case.

Mr. Wilfred Pippy, who arrived from that section by to-day's train, says that a sad case occurred at Isle au Bois not long ago. Two men, brothers, whose names he could not get, were out in their dory when an iceberg rolled over on them. The dory was swamped and one of the men sank never to rise. The other was picked up in a very exhausted state. A Berlin schooner found a body some time after which it is thought was the man who was drowned. It was unrecognizable and was taken ashore and buried. Bergs around the coast are lately a menace to fishermen.

Prospero Sails.

The s.s. Prospero, Capt. A. Keane, sailed to-day for northern ports with the following passengers: Messrs. Burdett and party, Boone, Ridley, Fawcett, Blackwood, Smallwood, Dr. Reay, Bremner, Worrall, Vavasour, Saintsbury, Evans, Ryan, Whiteway, Rev. Wilson, Roberts, Marmel, Morgan, Goodyear, Const. March, Norris, Morris, Rev. Barnes, Roberts, Day, Panorani, Mesdames Milligan, Ryan, Haggard, Wiseman, O'Neill, Ash, Panorani, Misses Barnard, Cornish, Bremner (2), Pippy, Osmont, Worrall, Parker, Fawcett, Courage, McGrath (2), Jones, Galway, Maine (2), Spracklin, Coleridge (2), Irish, Morris, Wiseman, Penney, Colton, Ayre, Schultz, Roberts and 30 steerage.

Sons of the Clergy in History

Speaking at the prize-day at St. Edmund's Clergy Orphan School, Canterbury, Dean Inge remarked that a large number of the most distinguished men in English history had been the sons of Church of England clergy.

There might be boys there who were destined to be as distinguished as three of the great men of history—Nelson, Tennyson, and Cecil Rhodes. The Dean of Canterbury said that, as in the case of Nelson, the sons of clergy had provided one of the best sources of supply for the soldiers and sailors of England.

The Crystal Palace Saved

The Crystal Palace and its beautiful grounds have been saved to the nation. Thanks to the enterprise of the Times, the £20,000 required to complete the purchase price—£200,000—has been subscribed. The fund was opened on June 30th and almost immediately "A Private Citizen" offered to subscribe £30,000 provided the remaining £60,000 was forthcoming by July 31st.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Richard Burbridge, the managing director of Harrods, Ltd., telephoned to the Times, and inquired what the amount then was. On being informed that £2,500 was still required to complete the £60,000, he asked that he should be put down for that sum. Another message was subsequently received from Mr. Burbridge, in which he said he desired to contribute the £2,500 "in remembrance of the happy and instructive day he spent at the Crystal Palace as an Oxford St. apprentice of fourteen on Good Friday, 1862—his first holiday in London—and as a mark of gratitude for a successful business career."

Among the other donors to the fund are the Bishops of St. Albans and Nyasaland, Earl Spencer, Lord Islington, the Dowager Marchioness of Bath, Sir Claude MacDonald, Sir Charles Seely, Sir Hugh Bell, Sir William Chance, Sir Frank Crisp, Sir Edgar Sebright, Mr. W. Burdett Coutts, M.P., Mr. Robert Verburgh, M.P., and the Hon. A. Herbert, M.P.

A Last Letter.

Written by Mr. Lyttell on Day of Illness—"Hauled Out to Cricklet."

Pathetic interest attaches to the following letter written by the late Mr. Alfred Lyttell, which appears in the current issue of the "Eton College Chronicle," for it was written on the day on which he was seized with the fatal illness, and is therefore one of the last—perhaps the last—that he penned.

The letter, which was sent in reply to an invitation to attend the Eton and Winchester cricket match, was as follows:

"My Dear A.—Alas! I am up to the eyes next Wednesday, but you may be sure that whatever happens I am not going to let summer half go without at any rate one night under my ever hospitable roof. Yesterday I was hauled out to play cricket! first time for ten years—poor wicket and professional bowling; saw it from first to last like a football and got 90. Think with sympathy of my condition to-day. "Yrs. aff., A. L."

The cricket match referred to was played at Victoria Park, the team in which Mr. Lyttell played being opposed by a team of Bethnal Green tradesmen.

Women Candidates in London Elections.

London, July 26.—The Women's Municipal Party, of which the Duchess of Marlborough has accepted the chairmanship, is a newly formed organization. Its object is to propose women candidates for the various London municipal bodies without regard to the party lines on which municipal elections have hitherto been fought.

The Women's Municipal Party claims to be non-partisan but it demands pledges from its candidates that they will carry out the views of that organization on questions directly affecting the welfare of women and children. The Women's Municipal Party includes all classes and persons of political opinions. The Duchess may, if she wishes, support a Socialist candidate.

In performing the operation, it was found necessary to remove several of the ribs, leaving the heart exposed.

The beats of the heart could be seen plainly through the thin tissue which covered that organ.

Lamp-post cab-telephones is the latest innovation in London, arrangements having now practically been completed for the provision of a number of cab-rangs where shelters are not provided, of telephone boxes for relieving calls. The instruments are enclosed in small iron cases fitted to the lamp-posts, and contain a very loud "buzzer." The box can only be opened when the "buzzer" is sounding, and it closes automatically.
