

How About Your Motor?

Do you feed it any old kerosene, and then curse the carburetor for getting out of order?
Or are you sure to get

SKIPPER KEROSENE OIL

Every drop pure—every drop the same. It does away with carburetor trouble.
Clear-burning, non-carbonizing. Costs less by the mile and by the year.
Better than any other for the Newfoundland climate—ask any user.
Skipper Kerosene Oil has no equal for household uses.

LONDON GOSSIP.

AN ANSON'S ROMANTIC MARRIAGE.

The Hon. William Anson, who has married an American actress, is one of the thirteen children of the late Earl of Lichfield, and brother of the present peer. The youngest daughter died in 1895, and all the other twelve have now married. Members of the Lichfield family are noted for good looks. Lord Lichfield is called the "handsome Anson." They are rightly proud of their descent from the famous Round-the-World navigator, Admiral Anson, who was raised to the peerage in 1747. Another ancestor, Viscount Anson, of the eighteenth century, married a girl of sixteen, who had four children before she was twenty. At the wedding breakfast a relative offered her a guinea if she would run round the table—she looked such a child. The bride delightedly raced round the table and triumphantly claimed her reward.

EMIGRATION BEGINS.

Already the London offices of the Colonial Governments are busy dealing with intending emigrants. Many of them are men invalided out of the army, or rejected on examination. So many men are making arrangements to leave England for the colonies that the authorities are convinced that after the war there will be a big rush. Naturally the number who can be taken to the Dominions just now is restricted by the shortage of shipping, and many men are holding back for the present on account of the difficulty of getting passports for their women-folk. Much of the accommodation reserved for discharged colonial soldiers, and the officials here find their hands full in dealing with them. In one colonial Government ing brought to bear on the libraries to enlarge their lists of Italian books.

RUSSIAN RECONSTRUCTION.

I learn from an authoritative source that in spite of all its anxieties the Provisional Government of Russia is making rapid progress towards constitutional reconstruction and domestic reform. Under the presidency of a member of the Duma a Council of sixty-one members has been created to prepare for the elections to the Constituent Assembly. This body will not only draft Russia's permanent constitution, but solve certain immediate problems, the chief of which are the questions of nationalities and the conditions of the transfer of the lands of the nobles to the peasantry. In this preparatory council are sitting a group of constitutional specialists, with deputies from the army and all the political parties, representatives of Jews, Ukrainians, Poles and other races, and a representative of the women. To prevent dealings in land intended to evade its future settlement, the Provisional Government has declared invalid all land transfers of a later date than May 14. The Government has submitted to the Council the draft of a law concerning elections to the Constituent Assembly based on universal, equal, secret, and direct voting by both sexes; and it has issued a decree for the selection of judges of petty courts on American principles, including a provision that women may be voted for and may sit as magistrates.

A REPUBLICAN LEAGUE IN ENGLAND.

Arthur Lynch had intended to ask a question which would have puzzled many people. He wanted to know why the "New Republic" had been suppressed. The explanation of the mystery is that he was not referring to the famous American review of that name, but to the organ of the Republican League here. The Republican League is a new organization, devoted to republicanism as a political principle. Mr. Lynch is the president and amongst the vice presidents is H. G. Wells, the popular novelist. I understand that several other well-known writers are supporters of the League. The suppressed issue of the "New Republic" was only the second number published. I have not seen it, but I am told that it only discussed the abstract political advantages of the republican system of government. At all events, it has now got the priceless advertisement of being suppressed.

ROYALTY AND HERALDRY.

The evolution of the Royal House of Windsor will involve a reconstruction of the heraldic achievements of the King and his British relatives. All trace of the Saxe-Coburg arms will be eliminated, and this will extend to some of the knightly banners, as well as other objects of emblazonment, but the Royal Standard will be unaffected. All these matters are under the control of experts, who are working out the legal and heraldic details pertinent to the King's Proclamation. It is known to be His Majesty's intention, as it has long been his desire, to eliminate from the State and private apartments in Windsor Castle relics of the Teutonic influences on decoration and ornament remaining from the mid-Victorian regime. When the time comes for the public to revisit these apartments under normal conditions very striking changes will be observable in this direction.

COMMANDER ASQUITH'S DOUBLE D.S.O.

In any other campaign the feat for which the ex-Premier's sailor-soldier son, Commander Arthur Melland Asquith, received the bar to the D.S.O. in the list issued on July 18th of service honors would have brought him the V.C. In fact, a Yorkshire soldier home on leave recently who saw Commander Asquith's feat and had heard of his reward told a well-known journalist that there was not a man in the division "who doesn't want to know why he didn't get the V.C." Commander Asquith, who thus joins the group of about sixty officers who have twice won the D.S.O., gained his original decoration in an operation in which he need not have served. He was engaged on duties outside the danger zone, but hearing that a fight was imminent he obtained leave to go to the front. He was wounded, but despite this he returned to brigade headquarters and gave a clear account of the situation and the fighting which had been going on during the night.

Fads and Fashions.

Pleated skirts are in favor. Convertible collars are liked. Sashes are many and varied. Jade pendants are liked. Fall hats are made of panne velvet. Apricot is the newest shade for lingerie. Blossoms of citron are fashionable. Conservative styles are promised for fall.

Fishery News.

From A. J. Hoffe (Change Islands)

The catch is 10,200 with 700 for last week. All the traps have been taken up but 100 skiffs are fishing. There seems to be plenty fish on the grounds but it will not take bait. A good supply of squid and herring is available though the former is uncertain.

From W. Chambers (Hr. Buffett to Brine's Island)—Prospects are fair and squid is plentiful. Twenty-five dories and skiffs and 20 boats are fishing. The catch is 4,100 qts. and for last week 700.

W. J. White (Aquafora to Caplin Bay).—Fourteen traps, 46 dories and skiffs and 12 motor boats are fishing. Nearly all the traps have been taken up but those remaining in the water are doing fairly well the last few days. The few dories left out are doing a little with trawls. The catch is 3,600 qts. with 450 for last week.

From J. Bishop (Cape Fresco to Safe Hr.).—The catch for the week was only 150 qts. Prospects are poor and there is little bait. No traps are out but a few dories and skiffs and 50 boats are fishing.

From D. Duggan (Cape John to Brent's Hd.).—The trap fishing ended this week but hook and liners are still doing well with squid bait. The fish taken all through the season is of an exceptionally large run. Prospects are very good for the Fall catch and there has been a fair supply of squid the last few days. The catch is 8,500 qts. and for last week 400. Thirty dories and skiffs and 55 motor boats are fishing.

Your Boys and Girls.

Here is a simple menu for a child's birthday party: Cups of veal bouillion, educator crackers, creamed chicken, bread and butter, sandwiches, cutting sandwiches in fancy shapes roll some and tie with colored ribbons, junket in little fancy moulds, such as hearts, little clover and others have all sorts of fancy shaped small cookies, to attract the little tots.

A plain birthday cake with white frosting, tiny candles for each year placed on a platter, with the burning candles and surrounded with gay flowers will be a delight to the children. In the finger bowls for each child, a little magic Japanese flower may be placed just before serving, that the little ones may watch the flower open in the water.

This is the recipe for the birthday cake: One cup sugar, 5 egg yolks, one quarter teaspoon salt, three-quarters of a cup flour one half teaspoon cream tartar, six eggs whites, one and one-half tablespoons orange juice, beat yolks until lemon colored and thick, add sugar and flavoring and continue beating. Mix and sift flour and cream of tartar four times. Cut and fold in a stiffly beaten whites alternately with flour. Bake in an angel pan one hour in a moderate oven.
