It is expected that several of the students will take up residence in the dormitories of the college. Rev. C. Cameron Waller, M.A., D.D., principal, said today that, owing to the pressure of work at the present time, he was unable to give the exact figures, but the above figures indicated the approximate increase.

The great enemy of teeth

PRESS OPERATORS RETURN TO WORK

Telegraphers On Strike Agree To Arbitration With C. P. Company.

FAIL IN OBJECT

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Sept. 22.—A new turn was given to the dispute between the Canadian Press and its former telegraphers, now on strike, by the decision of the latter today to accept the offer of the minister of labor at Ottawa of a board of conciliation. The minister granted this board at request of the Canadian Press, the latter nominating its president E. Norman Smith, of the Ottawa Journal, as its representative. The men refused to appoint a representative and went on strike at twenty-four hours' notice a week ago last Thursday. Apparently now realizing that their strike is a fiasco, they have notified the minister of labor they will accept the board of conciliation, which was appointed J. G. O'Donoghue, K.C., of Toronto, their representative.

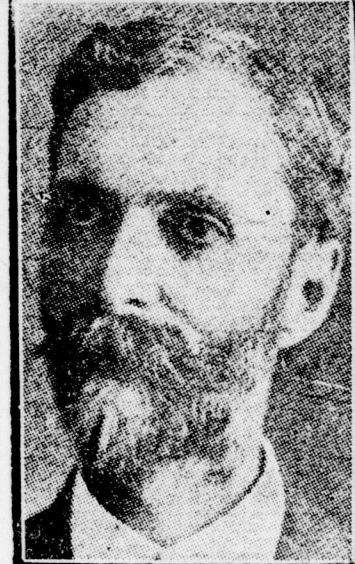

The Situation.
"The company has always offered to arbitrate," said General Manager J. P. B. Livesay today, "and so far as we are concerned this dispute has never been a question of wages. The men made exorbitant demands of a wage increase, to which we replied by a notice of a small reduction, which we think fair seeing that since the agreement was made two years ago the cost of living has tumbled. We offered to arbitrate the question of increase or decrease under the arbitration clause which was inserted in the agreement for that very purpose. Or we would first of all arbitrate the interpretation of that clause. The men refused to arbitrate past they always have had a fair deal from the Canadian Press, some of our former telegraphers have indeed, to arbitrate only the existing wage or an increase, which from the company's angle was absurd. Being then threatened with a strike, we supplied as a public utility to the minister of labor for a board of conciliation, which was then granted. The men struck in spite of this and in doing so placed themselves on very insecure ground."

It is necessary to bring this out," Mr. Livesay continued, "because the men have put it into the newspaper to avert a decreased wage on which the company insisted. Nothing could be further from the fact. In taking the strike vote they used very misleading words: 'Your committee strongly recommends immediate and drastic action to enforce our demands for an increase.'"

Service Maintained.
"They thought they could tie up the news service completely and beat us in 24 hours. But what is the present situation? Not a single newspaper in Canada has missed receiving a news service by telegraph, telephone or radio since the strike started. Some what reluctantly, because that means the permanent replacement of a large number of Morse men, the company has set about the task of installing automatic printers. Our first printer circuit, connecting Montreal, Toronto and Toronto with New York and each other, is already working. Other circuit equipment has been ordered from the Marconi company of Long Beach, Cal., and it is the very last word in automatic printer service. Realizing that they were misled by their union officials, and recognizing that in the permanent replacement of work and are voluntarily returned to work and are now being employed. It is regrettable indeed that we cannot find positions for all of the 77 men that went out, but blame for that must rest elsewhere."

"I today received a letter from the strikers' general chairman," went on Mr. Livesay, "when I notified them that they were appointing their member to the board of conciliation. Mr. Clark went on as follows: 'This will be a notification to you that all telegraphers in your employ are being instructed to return to work, effective with all night shifts, Monday, September 22.'"

Not All Reinstated.
"This strikes the management as a little naive. They went out on strike, and by that act ceased to be employees of the company. It is an unfortunate fact that we cannot take them all back even if we so desired. I am replying to Mr. Clark," said Mr. Livesay, "by sending him a memorandum of the conditions under which alone we can take back to work such of our former employees as we can find positions for. They must agree to these conditions, and they must come back individually. This memorandum is as follows: 'Before taking any former employees back to work the management of the Canadian Press must have the following clearly understood: (1) The management has stated publicly that because the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America broke its agreement with the Canadian Press by refusing to arbitrate, and by then calling a strike in face of the appointment of a board of conciliation by the minister of labor at Ottawa, the company cannot further recognize this union. Modification of that decision and future recognition of the union must depend absolutely on whether the company can secure adequate protection against similar attempted paralysis of its functions. (2) Owing to the strike, which was aimed to entirely tie up the news services of the Canadian Press, the company has found it necessary to start the reorganization of its primary news circuits on an automatic printer basis, thus dispensing with the need of a considerable number of Morse telegraphers. It is impossible at the present time for the company to say how many men will be thus displaced. Any men taken into the service now must necessarily be on a temporary basis. (3) The Commercial Telegraphers Union of America, having by its breach of agreement cancelled its contract with the Canadian Press, the company cannot recognize any clause of that agreement, but the management undertakes to give the men equally as good treatment as they could receive under that agreement. (4) The seniority list being thus automatically cancelled, the company proposes to use its own discretion in the selection of such men for whom it can find positions. Those men who have already returned to work will head the new seniority list. (5) The company will pay the old scale of wages on the understanding that any changes in such scale arising by future negotiation shall be retroactive to the date of re-employment. (6) Accepting these conditions, such men as desire re-employment must file individual applications by who gained world-wide fame through the development, by selection of Marquis wheat, has returned to Canada from Europe, where he spent the last two years. Dr. Saunders was formerly a resident of London.

person or by wire with the chief traffic managers at Toronto and Winnipeg respectively.

(7) Procedure with board of conciliation rests upon whether these preliminary conditions are accepted. (8) Only Morse telegraphers will be included by the company in any new agreement, and any such agreement must contain a comprehensive clause providing for arbitration before strikes of any kind for any cause at any time and on renewals or modifications.

(Signed) "J. P. B. LIVESAY," General Manager.

WEDDINGS

MARSHALL—HUNTER.

A pretty wedding took place today at 1 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents in Dundas street, when Agnes Nita Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hunter, was married to Philip Harvey Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey Marshall. Rev. John Hosie performed the ceremony.

The house was decorated with quantities of pink cosmos, asters and roses, making an effective setting for the bride, who wore a pearly gown of ivory georgette and lace, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom wore a tuxedo and carried a sword. The bride's hair was styled in a French hat, and she carried a shower of Sweetheart roses. She was given in marriage by her father, and as she entered the drawing room, Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus was played by her sister, Miss Jeanette Hunter.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held and a buffet luncheon was served later. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall left later by motor for their home in Grosvenor Park, Mich. The bride travelled in a smart tailored navy blue suit with French hat, and brown fox fur, and gloves and shoes to match.

HAZELDEN—PARKS.

A pretty wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. Burgess of Egerton Street Baptist Church, Saturday, September 20 at 3 p.m. when Elsie, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Parks, of Ontario, was married to George Hazelden, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hazelden of Bearstead, Kent, England. The bride was attired in a gray georgette gown, beaded and a wreath of orange blossoms adorned her hair, (the same blossoms having been used at her mother's wedding some years ago). Her corsage was of Ophelia roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Doris Parks, who wore a gown of sapphire blue canton crepe and a black velvet hat with a corsage of pink roses. Mr. Joseph Oultram acted as best man. The bridesmaid wore an onyx ring set with a diamond, the gift of the bridegroom and the best man was the recipient of a green and gold pocket knife. A dainty supper was served later at the home of the bride's parents. The decorations were carried out in mauve and white. Mr. and Mrs. Hazelden will reside in London.

STONE—WOODMAN.

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stone, Grosvenor street, yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, when Frank Reginald Stone was united in marriage to Gwendolyn A. Woodman, both of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Bruce Hunter, pastor of First Methodist Church.

The living-room was prettily decorated with many flowers and the bride looked charming in a gown of white beaded georgette and carried a shower of Ophelia roses. Miss Norah Woodman, sister of the bride, who acted as bridesmaid, wore a pretty gown of pale blue crepe and carried a bouquet of Sunset roses. Mr. Bert L. Stone, brother of the groom, was best man.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome fox fur, to the bridesmaid a rope of pearls, and to the best man ebony brushes. During the ceremony the bride wore a hat of white and black, and the late William H. Swift, 71 St. Catharine street, St. Thomas, became the bride of William D. Van Edmond of London, Ont., son of Mrs. H. Thomas of London, Ontario.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Cecil Swift, was very attractive in a frock of cocoa brown georgette with bronze beads, small French hat in tones of brown with French flowers, bronze slippers and stockings. She carried a bouquet of Sunset roses showered with lilies-of-the-valley. Her sister, Miss Genevieve Swift, as bridesmaid, was charming in a gown of turquoise blue satin-faced Canton crepe. She wore a small black hat and her flowers were Ophelia roses arranged in a shower. The groom's mother, Mrs. H. Thomas, was richly gowned in steel gray with a purple hat and wore a corsage bouquet of Sunset roses. Mr. Kingsley Kent of Dundas, cousin of the groom, was best man. Mrs. William McCann officiated at the organ, playing the wedding march and during the ceremony Miss Gertrude King sang "Ave Verum" very sweetly.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home, when about twenty guests were present. The dining-room was attractively arranged with pink and white asters and white lilies. The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold wrist watch; to the bridesmaid, a silver purse, and to the best man, a tiepin. Mr. and Mrs. Van Edmond came later on a wedding trip to Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal, the bride travelling in a navy blue beaded georgette gown, small French hat, purple and gold and a gray coat trimmed with gray squirrel fur.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Van Edmond will reside at 69 Cathcart street, London, Ont. The out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. H. Thomas, London; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kent, Dundas; Miss Loretta Glavin, Hamilton, and Kingsley Kent of Dundas. The bride resided in London for two years when she was a member of the Molsons Bank staff, later being transferred to the St. Thomas branch of the bank.

SMITH—SMITH.

A pretty wedding took place this (Tuesday) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. E. Smith, 145 1/2 Wellington street, St. Thomas, when her only daughter, Cora Margaret Smith, R. N., was united in marriage to Mr. Bert John Smith, of Cheyenne, Wyoming, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, of Cheyenne. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert Hicks, B. D., of Central Methodist Church, and the bride was given in marriage by her elder brother, Mr. George P. Smith, of St. Thomas. She was attired in a gown of beaded white georgette and carried a bridal bouquet of Ophelia roses. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss George P. Smith, while little Miss Dallas Smith sang.

Following the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Smith left on a wedding trip to New York. They will return to St. Thomas for a short time before proceeding on to Cheyenne, Wyoming, where they will make their future home, and at which place the bride was a recent graduate of the Memorial Hospital.

Associated Press Despatch.
Genoa, Italy, Sept. 23.—Further slight earth shocks occurred here yesterday morning, following a number of quakes which spread alarm and anxiety among the holiday crowds on Sunday. It was also reported that neighboring villages had experienced shocks early yesterday, but it was said that no grave damage had been caused.

YOUTHFUL WANDERER IS ESCORTED TO HOME

Girl Tells Magistrate She Was Going on Visit to Relatives.

A 16-year-old girl, Lorien Biggs of Brantford, was arrested in the city yesterday on a charge of vagrancy, after her parents had notified the local police that the girl had run away from her home in Brantford.

She appeared in police court today and told Magistrate Graydon that she had intended going to Detroit. She was waiting in London for a train. She stated that she was going to visit relatives in the American city but had no papers to enter the United States.

"You would have been turned back at the border," Magistrate Graydon told the young girl. "It was foolish of you to leave home without your parents knowing where you had gone. You must realize that you cannot roam around the country without money."

A Brantford Salvation Army official arrived at the police station later in the morning to escort the girl safely back to her home.

PLEBISCITE VOTE CROWDS ELECTION

Civic Nomination Is Less Than Two Months Off Now.

APPEALS CONTINUE

Interest in and preparation for the provincial plebiscite are obscuring the proximity of the municipal elections, but election day in London is now scarcely two months distant. Voters' lists for the city elections will be posted on October 10. Nomination day is Monday, November 17, and election day is two weeks later, on December 1.

But the provincial vote now occupies the boards and seems capable of so doing until the "day," the 23rd of next month. Tonight voters' list appeals from ward one will close and no further appeals will be entertained from this section of the city when appeal court meets next Saturday. Voters in ward two have until Thursday evening to enter appeals.

City Clerk Sam Baker stated today that work had slightly diminished last evening, more people making use of telephone inquiries to outside information headquarters before seeking to have appeals entered at the clerk's office. Most of the people who came to the city hall last night entered appeals, and few were just merely curious to look over the lists.

Mr. Baker points out that the work in his office has been greatly multiplied by the provincial plebiscite lists being required so soon before the city lists. Just when the provincial lists have been completely revised work will commence on the city lists. It is impossible to use the provincial lists for the city elections, as only owners and tenants and income tax payers are eligible to vote in the municipal contests. It is a big job and means that Mr. Baker's staff faces plenty of overtime during the next month at least.

COURT MEETS.

In order to clear away the last assessment appeals of the year, the city revision court meets this afternoon in the council chamber. Hearing of Victor street appeals and those from the Canadian Pacific Railway Company comprises the agenda for this afternoon's session.
