

here to advise and regulate the expenditure, and that with your death, except in unusual cases, the earning power stops. Your wife will heartily co-operate with you in making up the difference sufficient to leave your family well provided for and comfortable, rather than by neglect in doing so leave them to a life of pinching economy. While the difference in payments between a small and a liberal endowment policy is counted by hundreds, the difference in results is reckoned by thousands. It is very rare that we get too much of a good thing. Men are often heard to lament that they had not taken more insurance when the opportunity offered."

After perusing the above, the man who thinks enough of his family to provide for their present welfare should seriously consider the matter of life insurance, and act at once to make ample provision for their future welfare, by procuring a policy of life insurance in that strong and successful company, the North American Life.

The Company's Investment Policy issued by the North American is a very liberal contract and contains many desirable advantages.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S CORONATION ROLL.

In the June Century Florence Hayward describes the official record that is preserved on a parchment roll of Queen Victoria's coronation. Miss Hayward says: The "Coronation Roll" is wonderfully and curiously complete. It sets down every detail with minuteness and elaboration. The "Coronation Roll" of Queen Victoria is like the rolls of all her predecessors since the time of Richard II—a huge, bulky roll of parchment. It is what the lawyers would call a deed poll as distinguished from an indenture. It has its preambles and recitals and its obligation, all of which are quaintly set out in stilted phrases on a series of pieces of sheepskin, each fifteen inches wide, fastened together by loose stitches, until the whole attains the length of nearly one hundred lineal feet. It can be perused only by unrolling from one end or the other, and is so unwieldy that the seeker for any information of which the precise location is unknown must invoke the aid of no end of manual assistance to attain it. The script is in the highest style of the scribe's art, and is an excellent example of the engrossment that is still considered necessary in England for wills and deeds, which, as there is no general system of publicly recording such instruments, are kept in "strong boxes" under lock and key. Speaking generally, the result, as a whole, is over a hundred square feet of solid reading in one breath and in a language that is a mixture of legal, medieval, and court phrases, but each line gives one a glimpse not to be had otherwise of the intricacy, dignity, and significance of the coronation ceremony.

THE BEGGARS OF ITALY.

"Bicycling Through the Dolomites" in the May "Century" is an account of Col. George E. Waring's European trip of last summer. Concerning mendicancy in Italy. Col. Waring writes, Perhaps there is no better index to the good or bad condition of the working people of a country than is afforded by the number of beggars one meets on the roads. The poles set up at the border of Austria with their spiral stripes of yellow and black, do not mark the line between it and Italy much more clearly than does the advent of the beggar the moment the line is crossed. In Austrian Tyrol there are virtually no beggars. On the Italian side, even well-dressed people in the fields will leave their work to beg coppers from the passing traveler. One day, in the upper Innthal, a couple of bright looking, rosy-faced children ran after us, asking for kreutzers. "Mawknix" upbraided them for such a shameful act, and they slunk away. He spoke of this with much indignation to a neighbour, who said their whole family were away in the fields at work, or they would not have dared to beg, and that he would see that they were well spanked when their mother came home at night. Nuns and a few favoured cripples sometimes ask alms at the doors of the churches in the larger towns, and the "poor-box" is always found inside; but the peasantry and the churches take care of their own poor, so that the vice of beggary is unknown among them. In Italy, on the other hand, it is obvious that special conditions of deformity are artificially produced. Both legs broken and badly reset in childhood constitute a good source of income for life; and anything that appeals to sympathy is made the occasion for cultivating a very mistaken and mischievous charity.

Does any reader know, adds the St. Louis "Republic," whether it is a fact or not that left-handed persons who are lost make the circle in an opposite direction to that made by a right-handed person?

PUT TO THE TEST.

The Most Convincing and Absolute Proof Given.

That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cure When Other Medicines Fail—What they Have Done for Others They Will do for You.

No remedy of modern times has offered more, or stronger proof of its sterling merit than has Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The cures are not those of people in foreign lands, but from all parts of our own country, and the statements made are easily verified by everyone in the vicinity in which the cures reported occur. When such proof as this is offered doubt must cease, and the medicine must be awarded the palm of superiority over all others. Every mail brings letters from grateful people in all parts of Canada, who have been cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, sometimes after years of illness and after other medicines had failed, and it is the words of gratitude spoken by sufferers thus restored to health that has created the enormous demand this medicine has. The following letter is but a fair sample of hundreds constantly being received:—

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co.

DEAR SIRS, — I have great pleasure in bearing testimony to the medicinal value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as a blood purifier and health restorer. For ten years I was a victim to a complication of troubles, beginning with quinsy and followed by rheumatism and bronchitis. My physicians told me the trouble had become chronic, and that every winter I would either have to house myself up or go to a warmer climate. Two years ago I was confined to my bed and room from February until May, under the doctor's care. One day while reading of the cures wrought by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I determined to try them, and I found a cure at last in this splendid medicine. I used a dozen boxes of the pills and I have never been better in my life than I am now, and I have not been troubled in any way with my old complaints since I discontinued the use of Pink Pills. As I have already stated I was a sufferer for years, and during that period spent a small fortune in doctor's medicine and drugs, only to find in the end that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills accomplished what all other medicines failed to do. When my friends who know how often I was laid aside with illness ask me what cured me I am always happy to say Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Yours gratefully,
Mrs. J. A. McKim, Cataragui.

Mr. and Mrs. McKim are among the best known and most esteemed residents of Cataragui, Ont. Mr. McKim has been a travelling salesman for pianos and organs in the district in which he resides for upwards of twenty-five years.

What a stronger proof than the above can be had for the claim that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure when all other medicines fail? If you are ailing give this great medicine a fair trial and the result will not disappoint you. The public are cautioned against numerous pink colored imitations. Insist upon taking nothing but the packages which bear the full trade mark "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

Nothing to complain of —women who use Pearline.

Nothing in the washing and cleaning line, anyway. Certainly the proprietors of Pearline can't complain. If you knew how many women, every day, are making up their minds that the old, wearing, tearing, tiresome way of washing doesn't pay! It's growing bigger than ever—the success of Pearline—though it has to fight against all kinds of poor imitations and against a sort of superstition that anything which can save so much labor must be harmful in some way.

Millions use Pearline
