

ments have been tried with the view of producing silk for commercial purposes from the cocoons. The silk is rather coarser than that of the common silk worm, Bombyx mori, has a continuous thread, and can be readily unwound. A measure of success has attended these efforts, but

Fig. 8.