PARISH NOTES.

This year we had a white Christmas, and nothing could have been more seasonable than the weather. The Church was decorated as usual with evergreens on a white background, and the music prepared was of a specially beautiful character. Great was the disappointment on entering the Church to find no organ notes filling the air, but only the somewhat melancholy utterances of a small harmonium. However, from "Hark! the herald angels sing," to the final recessional, the choir adhered to the programme as arranged. It is somewhat difficult to write on anything so near home in an impartial manner, and, lest we should appear to be praising ourselves, we quote the following from the daily Globe :—

"ST. GEORGE'S ORGAN STRUCK.

"The musical services at St. George's were like a Christmas dinner with the turkey stolen.
 The choir had prepared a really fine programme for Christmas morning, but on Friday night the organ motor broke down, and, although an expert laboured at it all night, it still refused to act when the congregation assembled for service.
 Mr. Phillips, however, had confidence in his well-trained choir, and, with an harmonium about the size of a small choir boy, rendered the following on Christmas morning :—Morning service, Tours in F; communion service, Tours in F; anthem, 'How Beautiful are the Feet,' by W. A. Cruickshank; offertory, 'Nazareth,' by Gounod. Yesterday morning the service was repeated, but with Dr. Bridge's anthem, 'Break Forth into Joy.' Last evening chants were substituted for the regular service. The choir deserve great credit for their excellent work under trying circumstances. Their performance showed that there were no little crudities to be hidden by the full tones of the organ."
