

Office. Canada is also a member of the Executive Committee which provides guidance to the High Commissioner in the fulfillment of his duties.

The main objective of the Office when it was established was to take care of the refugees in Europe. It is now hoped that the major aid programmes for European refugees will be completed in 1965. In the meantime, however, other refugee problems have arisen, especially in Africa, and over one million refugees receive assistance, in one form or another, from the Office.
