

Proceedings of the Committee on the Environment

The first meeting of the committee was held on the 12th of October 1969. The committee was set up to examine the Government's proposals for the control of the environment and to report on the findings of its inquiries. The committee has since held several public hearings and has received many suggestions from the public. It has also held several meetings with the Government to discuss its proposals. The committee has now completed its work and has submitted its report to the Government.

The committee's report is divided into two parts. The first part deals with the general principles of environmental control and the second part deals with specific proposals for the control of the environment. The committee has recommended that the Government should set up a new department for the environment and that it should be given a wide range of powers. It has also recommended that the Government should set up a new body to advise it on environmental matters. The committee has also recommended that the Government should set up a new body to monitor the environment and to report on its state to the public.

The committee has also recommended that the Government should set up a new body to monitor the environment and to report on its state to the public. It has also recommended that the Government should set up a new body to monitor the environment and to report on its state to the public.

The committee has also recommended that the Government should set up a new body to monitor the environment and to report on its state to the public.

The committee has also recommended that the Government should set up a new body to monitor the environment and to report on its state to the public. It has also recommended that the Government should set up a new body to monitor the environment and to report on its state to the public.

The committee has also recommended that the Government should set up a new body to monitor the environment and to report on its state to the public. It has also recommended that the Government should set up a new body to monitor the environment and to report on its state to the public.

The committee has also recommended that the Government should set up a new body to monitor the environment and to report on its state to the public.

The committee has also recommended that the Government should set up a new body to monitor the environment and to report on its state to the public.