

ing, at a single glance, a synopsis of every stipulation in regular succession.

In committing this work into the hands of an enlightened community, I have only to remark, that my main object will be accomplished, if I have succeeded in promoting public convenience, or in diminishing the labors of the diplomatist. In either case, I shall be gratified for the pains I have taken in preparing it for publication.

JONATHAN ELLIOT.

Washington, October 1, 1827.