WOULD KILL SOME ONE"

May Have Been a Hunger-Maddened Tramp Seeking Shelter.

As a result of the investigation made yesterday by interpreter Michael Basso among the Italians who are at work on the government farm near Whitby, some new evidence has come to light that would go to strengthen the theory that a tramp was responsible for the shooting of William Stone, the G.T.R. operator, last Thursday might.

might.

Mr. Basso arrived at Whitby on Monday night, and after a consultation with Inspector Greef, postponed his investigations until Tuesday morning, when he visited the two camps where the Italian laborers are housed. Going quietly among the men who were known to be about on the night of the murder he talked with them in their own language in the hope of picking up some clue that might lead in the right direction.

Little success attended his earlier efforts, as the Italians, who regard Little success attended his earlier efforts, as the Italians, who regard murder as the logical outcome of a triangular love affair, simply dismissed the matter with a shrug and the remark: "A woman." The authorities, however, have probed the "woman in the case" theory to the bottom, and have dismissed it as without any foundation.
