DEAD NEAR LAMBTEN

Trainmen Make Gruesome Discovery-County Council Meets on Tuesday-Suburban Notes.

WEST TORONTO, Jan. 19 .- (Special .. -Lying in a crouched position against he C.P.R. fence near the Jane-street crossing of that railway, the dead oody of Daniel Harrington, a switchman employed with the company, was found this morning shortly after 2 o'clock by the crew of an incoming train. The men were attracted by the train. The men were attracted by the light of a lantern, and, going over, found the switchman dead, but his lantern burning brightly. The friends of the deceased were ext once notified, and later Mr. Speets, the undertaker, was acuainted with the facts and the body removed to his undertaking parlois, where it is at present.

The circumstances surrounding the death of Mr. Harrington were peculiarly, sad, and have aroused the greatest regret around town, where he has resided for the last 30 years, and where he is well and favorably known.

Anout two weeks ago the unfortunate man was taken ill with pneumonia. Dr. Alex Mavety was in charge, and the members of the family had been unremitting in their attentions to the sick man. Last night while the wateness had apparently, wearled with their vigils, dozed off for a brief spell. Mr. Harrington in his delirium rose and, partially dressing, went out the back door without awakening the other nembers. He lit his railway lantern and walked across Jane-street over to the C.P.R. property, in the direction of the Lambton station. The distance from the house to the point where he was found was probably less than 200 yards, but the effort was too much, and death had apparently supervened at once.

of Mimico is one. Reeve Pugsley of Richmond Hill, the dean of the council, will exercise a tatherly eye as of yore over the rank and hie.

The real fight will come when the race for the wardenship gets fairly under way, the here, as everywhere else, it is the unexpected that often happens, and sometimes the keenest contest in prospective does not materialize. In the southern portion of the county they do say that Bob Bull, the genial chief magistrate of the embryo City of Weston is right in the line of succession and bids fair to land the honor. Farther north, Reeve Coulson of Stouffville has a big following, and may come in a winner. Each has had a creditable municipal experience, and either of the gentlemen named would do infinite credit. Then again Reeve John Gardhouse of Etobicoke Township is known to have aspirations for the wardless chart, and John Gardhouse of Etobicoke Township is known to have aspirations for the wandlest chair, and to be let the solution of his friends. Reeve Annis of Scarboro, too, the would make a good executive head. There may be, and probably are, other dark horses, so to speak, who will come out in the limelight, but time alone can tell. Tuesday afternoon will definitely dispose of the question.

The members beside this will be called upon to deal with the good roads question, and this may cause a good deal of discussion, for while the principle is fairly well endoused among the members the details have yet to be adjusted to cause the least friction. As stated before, the northern part of the country north of the boundary line between Markham and Whitchurch, being outside the zone, are not interested in a financial sense in the movement. A good many routine matters will in the natural order of things come up, and altogether the session promises to be a fairly busy one.

In the age of witchcraft and superstition it was believed that the fairies built the old kirks in Glasgow, and that they had a right to them, so said Mr. W. B. Paterson, lecturing before the Old Glasgow Club. The accommodation afforded the parishioners was very different from the present luxurfous age. There were no pews in Soottish kirks before the reign of Charles I. The people had to bring their stools with them, and those that did not do this simply sat down on the floor. For the evening service parishioners likewise brought candlesticks and candles. On the question of the separation of the seven.
