RIVERDALE BUSINESS MEN WON'T HAVESE PTIC

Oppose-Leslie; Favor Cherry St. Site—Say It Would Injure Eastern Interests.

The Riverdale Business Men's Association met last night in the R. C. B. C. rooms on Broadway-avenue, for the purpose of discussing the proposed site for the new Eastern Express building.

This resolution, moved by J. H. Hilton, and seconded by E. O. Weston, was unanimously adopted:

"That we believe septic tanks connected with trunk sewer system should be placed where the least harm can be done; therefore we are of the opinion that it should not be placed on the Leslie site, which we look upon as too valuable a site for such a purpose, and where it would have a detrimental effect upon the future development of the shipping and manufacturing interests of Toronto, in view of the above facts, we place ourselves on record as favoring the Cherry-street site."

Thomas Conlan, Dr. Sneath, W. H. Allison, A. E. Walton, Zeb E. Hilton, and Mr. Barker spoke to the motion.

A Riverdale branch of the technical school and a branch east of the G. T. R. tracks were discussed and strongly favored.

The board of control have twice thrown down a proposition to build a concrete sidewalk from Gerrard-street to the north limits of the park grounds on the west side of Broadway, but the association plainly intimated last night that nothing else would satisfy them.

BEFORE THE PRESBYTERY.

Poor Patients to Be Assisted on Leaving the Hospital.

The Toronto Presbytery yesterday approved the proposal of the committee of systematic giving that the hospital be appropriated for missions. This will be allocated to the different congregations at once on the basis of 25 cents from each family per week.

After hearing Rev. Dr. Ballantyne's report on hospital visitation it was decided that some assistance be given patients when leaving hospital.

A. N. Dallas, a Knox graduate of this year, was licensed and will leave for Rooty this week.

The committee appointed to consider the question of changing the site of St. Mark's Church asked the board to defer a report until November.

The call of Cooke's Church to Rev. Dr. Taylor of Philadelphia will be immediately forwarded, and it is probable that he will accept.

At the induction the moderator will preside. Rev. Benney E. Black will preach. Rev. Dr. Kipp will address the minister, and Rev. Dr. McTavish will address the congregation.

The board and synod of Knox College asked Presbytery to release Dr. Gander from the pastorate of St. James' Square Presbyterian Church to assume the pastorate of Knox College. At the November meeting representatives of the church will be present.

John A. Paterson, K.C., and Thomas Findlay addressed the Presbytery on the laymen's missionary movement. A conference will be held in Toronto Nov. 2 and 3, when J. C. White of New York will be present, and give an address. Reports will be received from every congregation in the Presbytery, and each will be asked to send a representative to the conference.

Joseph Devlin, M.P. for West Belfast, Ireland, will visit Toronto shortly.

THE WEATHER

Yesterday morning sent its gloominess over the entire city, into palaces and cottages alike. A heavy dew lay upon everything when the early bird started out to hunt up his breakfast, and if there wasn't enough dew on the ground and pavements the air was full of it. The sun withdrew his presence, and he was crowded out, anyway, he didn't bid anybody a cheerful "Good morning," as he's the habit of doing. People went to work thru the thickest kind of mist, and you could count all the chert and counterpane you saw on the fingers of one hand.

Toward noon the sun worked his way thru all the gloom and heavy atmosphere and cleared the tracks for brightness. The mists rolled away and everything was like a day in June, except the sky, which was a sickly, bluish, misty, rather looking blue. Then, of course, the atmosphere was not altogether June-like, because—well, because it's October, and that means just a few steps from icebergs and snowdrifts. There was a breeze from the east and southeast, but nobody needed wraps in the afternoon unless they were driving or motoring. It was really glorious afternoon, and then I've said all there is to say about this.

What surprised me was the way that dear old sun pierced the mists, which would be so thick that you'd think an ax would be needed to tell a man from his shadow so brightly, while all around him hung a heavy pall of gloom. That was a tell a man what he can do in adversity; just bound to show him that your light is the sun half a day yesterday—but he said.

The weather man says there might be a shower or two to-day.

THE FRUITS OF THE EARTH

Seem To Be Nature's Provision For Keeping Man Healthy and Warding Off Disease.

Cereals, vegetables and meat supply the elements needed for man's nourishment. Yet fruit—though it has very little food value—has proved to be absolutely necessary for perfect health.

Careful investigation has shown that all common ailments—Malaria, Kidney, Bowels and Skin. These are the organs that rid the body of dead tissue and waste products, and the fruit juices stir them up, break down the moral fibre of citizens, and to classify people in whom there should be no difference before the law.

The long continued effort to tax everything in the same way has drawn with ever increasing sharpness a well-defined line between the owners of visible property and those whose holdings consist in representative, or secondary property. In this unfortunate and unjust classification of property, the public opinion of the world is as his investment is almost entirely in things visible, and can not escape, to which opinion condones the perjury of the people in their own minds, to which to withhold their property from double taxation at a rate that is a confiscatory of the entire income.

The farmer sees the money on deposit in the banks and is irritated that he is not getting for his tax. It is not his money, never was, and never will be, under the uniform rate. With restrictions removed an assessor might, under a modern system visit a bank and children to move from their homes, to select a reasonable rate in its value, and employed. Both these innovations would prove generous revenue producers, and would not hurt the farmer, and leave no room for much more to the owners. It should be remembered that money in the vaults does not remain there, therefore it is loaned as soon as possible and begins its tireless round of building, buying, selling, equipping and leaving everywhere in its wake, property that is immediately taxed.

EXPERTS DISCUSS

by social agencies on grounds adjacent to those on which economists justify the special taxation of the economic rent of land.

Prof. Leos recorded in the tendency of the license system to concentrate business, an argument to extend it as offering a means of better supervision as applied to drugs, ice, groceries and even merchandise.

Administrative fees was the first source of state revenue. A moderate taxation of mortgages might be levied, as in New York, where the record. A large place should be given to corporation taxes. Mineral rights' taxation needs to be listed with the express understanding that it is available only in certain states.

Taxing Timber Lands.

Prof. Fred. R. Fairchild, Yale University, read a paper on the "Taxation of Timber Lands." He presented a summary of the results of preliminary study of the subject made for the National Conservation Commission.

Prof. Fairchild has recently been appointed an expert in the United States Forest Service.

The evils of the general property tax, he said, are coming to be well known. It is time to ask whether the administration of the general property tax, as applied to timber lands, should be amended, or whether timber lands should be placed under a special system of taxation.

Forests are taxed to-day under the general property tax in over half the territory of the United States, in most cases, exactly like other kinds of wealth. Thirty-two states and territories make no reference to forest lands in their tax laws. The other states have special laws in the interest of forests, providing for tax exemptions, rebates, bounties, prizes, etc. These laws, however, are not uniformly enforced, and have not materially altered the burden of the general property tax.

In spite of numerous individual efforts, the burden of the tax is still too heavy, and it is not felt that the tax is causing the cutting of forests. In certain parts of the country, however, taxation has had a serious effect in preventing reforestation, and the holding of cut-over land for another crop.

Forestry is very little practiced in America at present, and its general practice is not going to be brought about by any amendments to our tax laws. There are other influences in the problem of reforestation, and the matter of taxation. Nevertheless, forestry must come some time, and its early coming is a thing greatly to be desired. And whenever we are ready to seriously undertake it, we will find that our present methods of taxation are a very severe handicap. Strictly enforced, and preventing reforestation, on a lenient enforcement (forever), the annual tax on the full value of the land and standing timber might take the form of a tax on the yield of any land income, or even more. Forestry should not be subjected to such an unjust burden. Moreover the tendency of the present tax is to force premature cutting and prevent reforestation, though probably not very serious as yet, is bound to gain strength as time goes on, and by what they call a conspiracy, because England and the King, by a recent warm telegram, have been sponsor for the Young Turk movement, and the fact that the government has been duped by Austria and Germany.

HABITANTS IN PARADE

GIVE LAURIER WELCOME

Premier Met by Thousands in L'Islet and Addressed Large Open Air Gathering.

L'ISLET, Que., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—Nearly 4000 voters of this county welcomed Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his tour of this part of the province at an open air meeting this afternoon.

The meeting was held at the Inter-colonial Railway station, which was at two miles from the village, and the premier was met at the station by Mayor Cloutier of L'Islet and most of the male population of the village, headed by a brass band. Special trains were also run from Lévis and Rivière du Loup, bringing in nearly 2000.

The premier was escorted to a temporary platform erected in front of the two stores at the station, and after a selection from the band Mayor Cloutier, the chairman, introduced J. B. T. Caron of Ottawa, the Liberal candidate, who spoke on the general policy of the Liberal party since 1896.

Mayor Cloutier then read an address of welcome to the premier and a bouquet was handed to Sir Wilfrid by a red-shirted little girl.

When the premier turned to reply he gave a great reception. Sir Wilfrid spoke for over an hour, and a large proportion of his speech to the defence of the government's immigration policy, which had been attacked in the house last session by Dr. Paquet, the sitting Conservative member for L'Islet.

Sir Wilfrid said that the government had introduced over a million new citizens into the west, whose needs gave employment to the industries of the east.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux spoke for an hour with a sketch of the history of the Liberal party from the time of Sir John A. Macdonald, and said that at the close of the meeting the premier was escorted to the train by the band and given a cheer as the train pulled out for Quebec.

ROBINETTE TELLS WHY JEWS SHOULD HELP

Liberal Government Has Vastly Improved Their Position and He Himself Has Done Something.

A strong bid for the Jewish vote was made by T. C. Robinette, Liberal candidate for St. Lawrence, in St. George's Hall last night.

About 300 were present and he impressed upon them how much better off they would be under a Liberal government.

One thing that Mr. Robinette would endeavor to do if elected was to eradicate all restrictions that would be placed upon Jewish immigrants to this country.

He realized the number of Hebrews in the country, and he would be an ingrate did he not endeavor to serve their best interests.

Touching on the Crown's Nest Pass deal, he said the Conservatives forgot to say that a monthly pay roll of $200,000 had been created by the company and that it provided a market in the west for the products of the Jews of Toronto.

The Liberal government had done much for the Jews. It had given them a
