the official statement issued today by the German army headquarters staff. The British advance was in the region between the Peronne-Gouzeaucourt road and the lowlands of the Omignon stream, in which the Towns of Jeancourt and Vermand are situated.

The statement reads: Western theatre: Between Lens and Arras advances of strong Enghish reconnoitring detachments launched on a broad front failed. "Attacks of several battalions against the Village of Henin-sur-

Cojeul, southeast of Arras, were repulsed by us. Between the road from Peronne to Gouzeaucourt and the lowland of Omignon Brook, the English, in engagements in which they suffered savy losses, advanced their lines for a distance of two to three kilometres.

"Along the road leading northeastward from Solssons our batteries and machine guns yesterday found advantageous targets, while French attacking troops ebbed back and forth without gaining success. Our own reconnoitring detachments north of Rheims brought in a mber of prisoners without losses to us. "Last night hostile detachments, southwest of Combres and east of St. Maurice and in the Parroy forest, tried to enter our trenches. They were immediately driven away everywhere."

"The night elsewhere on the front was calm.

"Despite the unfavorable weither which still prevails on this front our pilots were engaged in numerous aerial combats in the course of this week and destroyed seven German machines. Lieut. Dorme brought down his eighteenth German aeroplane and Capt. Doumer and Adjutant Casale each forced down his seventh enemy adversary. Capt. Matton brought down his fifth German machine."

The official communication issued by the war office last night reads: "North and south of the Oise there was slight artillery activity. North of Soissons the enemy directed two counter-attacks against the positions which we occupied northeast of Vregny, but both attempts were stopped short by our fire. On the left bank of the Meuse our artillery shelled the German organizations on Hill 304. The day was comparatively calm on the rest of the front.

"German aeroplanes last evening dropped bombs in the region of Dunkirk. Two civilians were killed and three wounded."

Belgian communication: "The Belgian artillery carried out effective PACIFISTS' RALLY against German organizations at Dixmude and Het Sas. There was fires against German organizations at Dixmude and Het Sas. There was flighting also with trench guns."

quent rolling up of the German armies. Having compelled this concentration, the allies are endeavoring by pressure against the two exposed sides of the triangle to create a breakdown of the enemy's transport. This consummation, however, if achieved, would bring the maximum of success, and if the enemy sees it coming he will try to make a further retrograde.

In their March operations the British captured 1239 Germans. This figure shows that the Germans did not lose many men as prisoners in their retreat. This was probably because their rear guards took no chances of capture by defending villages to the last minute, but rather fled when the British drew near. The correspondents at the front also describe the capture of posts where not a man of the garrison remained alive. The new chemical appliances and high explosive shells of the British probably work such great destruction to the defences of the enemy that few of the defenders survive in any case, another thing conducive to the taking of few prisoners.

Despatches from Denmark say that Von Hindenburg is mobilizing every available man in Germany for a supreme effort to win the war this year. He is draining German manhood to its dregs in order to raise his armies up to their maximum possible efficiency. His chief reservoir for recruits comprises men over 45, a class of small fighting value. Germany, however, has not yet called out men of 65, as Austria has done, and she has therefore not reached Austria's stage of exhaustion. Since Polish recruitment has failed the enemy, he has to plunge deeper into his own hitherto rejected human material. Germany is massing a large force for a future offensive; but owing to a stricter censorship, neutrals cannot learn where the great general staff intends to launch it.

The most serious fining about the German preparations is not the impressment of old men into the Germany army, but the expansion of the munitions industry. The enemy is building a third batch of factories to supply more shells to his guns. His munitions output can find a limit only in his iron and steel production and his production of fats and substitutes for cotton as a basis of propellent explosives. Shortage of labor gravely handicaps the enemy in speeding up his munitions output, for if he fully mans the factories he will have to neglect his agricultural and other life-sustaining industries. Since he has not finished his new shell factories, he may delay his big offensive for several weeks and rest on the defensive in the meantime.

On the Tigris front the British forces continue to spread out over stall one of same free in every dwelling the arrival of the Russians from Persia. Meanwhile the British are pushing forward up the Syrian coast, with Aleppo as their probable objective. To reach Aleppo they will have to march 400 miles in a half barren country.

ENDS IN CONFLICT

Patriotic Citizens Invade Baltimore Theatre-Police Use Batons Freely.

Baltimore, April 1 .-- A mass meeting held here tonight under the auspices of the American League Against Militarism ended in a riot. A counterdemonstration was organized on the evement of the Academy of Music, in which Dr. David Starr Jordan, the ardent pacifist, was speaking. Finally the crowd took the matter into its own hands, and led by some militiamen broke into the theatre and marched down the alsles waving an American flag. Men socially prom-inent led the throng of 4000 which broke into the theatre. College professors, students, bankers and lawyers were there. Carter G. Osborn, jr., a banker, was at the head waving a flag. A policeman clubbed him into unconsciousness, and the crowd which saw the flag disappear from his hand leaped forward, swept the police aside and got into the theatre. Twenty men were clubbed and four of them were taken to a hospital. A dozen others were arrested. The meeting was broken up just as Dr. Jordan was reaching an impassioned climax in his address.

BANNED AT PHILADELPHIA.

Philadelphia, April 1.-The police refused to allow the holding of a peace meeting under the auspices of the Emergency Peace Federation, which was advertised for a local theatre tonight.
In letter to the manager of the theatre, James Robinson, super-intendent of police, said: "I desire to notify you that we will not permit the proposed meeting to take place, and I have notified the police to see that this order is carried out."

Big Majorities Assured

There is little doubt that a war reso. lution will be passed by large major-ities in both houses. There are little groups of pacifists opposed to war except to resist invasion, who will vote and probably talk against any warlike move. There are other groups who have their own ideas about what the U.S. should do in the present situation, but none is strong enough to pre-vent action or to seriously impede its progress.

In the houses there probably will be no persistant opposition, unless it comes from members who favor more far-reaching action than the president recommends. The senate has its new cloture rule to limit debate if a small recommends. group there undertakes to delay ac
