Mr. Harris has already given his opinion that the contractors will not finish before Christmas. If, however, the contractors are able to hurry on the work and complete it before Dec. 24 they will receive a large bonus from the city.

In order that the complaints of returned men and their dependents may receive full attention it was decided to enlarge the office of Sergt. Major Crighton and give him a larger staff to assist him in the work. Returned soldiers will likely be engaged. The action was taken at the meeting to expropriate the Metropoli-tan Railway within the city limits.

In the appeal of James Blakely against a tusiness assessment of $4700 on his premises at 715 East Queen street, formerly a liquor store, the court of revision adjourned the hearing in order to have a consultation with James Haverson, K.C., regarding an apparent oversight in the Ontario Temperance Act. The act specifically exempts standard hotels and brewers from business tax for 1916. There is no mention of shops in the exempting clause, and now all the liquor stores are out of business and many of the proprietors have left the city. If the assessment is upheld the city will be unable to collect the

There is a probability that the Bloor street viaduct will be completed and ready for traffic before the winter sets in this year. The board of control yesterday instructed Works Commissioner Harris to confer with the contractors with a view to obtaining consent to allow the city to proceed with the progress of construction.

The controllers were of the opinion that the viaduct should be opened by the fall.
