The old man placed his hand on her head,
With a tear on his wrinkled face,
He thought how often her mother dead
Had sat in the same, same place.
As the tear stole down from his half-shut eye,
"Don't smoke," said the child, "how it makes you cry!"

The house dog stretched out on the floor,
Where the sun, after noon, used to steal.
The busy old wife, by the open door,
Was turning the spunning wheel—
And the old brass clock on the mantletree,
Had plodded along to almost three;—

Still the farmer sat in his easy chair,
While close to his heaving breast,
The moistened brow and the hair so fair,
Of his sweet grand-child were prest;
His head, bent down, on her soft hair layFast asleep were they both on that summer

The Ruff in Queen Elizabeth's Time. It is stated in a modern popular work, that the most distinguishing characteristic of the costume, in Queen Elizabeth's day was the ruff. It was worn of such enormous size that a lady in full dress was obliged to feed herself with a spoon two feet long! These ruffs increased at such an alarming rate that in 1580, sumptuary laws became necessary to reduce them to reasonable dimensions. When these ruffs where first introduced they were of fine Holland; but early in Elizabeth's reign, they were made of lawn and cambric manufactured on the continent, and imported in very small quantities, and sold at an extravagant price. A writer of that day, describing this laws, says, "so strange and wonderful was this stuff that thereupon arose a general scoff or byeword, that shortly they would wear ruffs of a spider's web." Arthore against Marriage.—Joy says that if a man feels very much like getting married, yet imagines he ought not to, the best remedy he knows of is to help one of his neighbours more a house full of furniture—borrow about nine of his children for three days, and hear them cry. If that fail, build up a fire of damp wood, and when the smoke in the room is thickest, hire a woman to scold him about four hours. If he can stand all these, he had better get married the next day—give his wife the pants, and be the "silent partner" in the great firm of marrimony. We think the remedy is severe, but as every man is liable to those things after he yokes himself, it would do no harm to try it before.

What an uncomfortable situation! A seat on a sofa between two beautiful girls, one with black eyes, it niglets and snowy need—the other with soft biseeye, sunny ringletes, red _cheeks and lips, but had been to those things after he yokes himself, it would do no harm to try it before.

Moffat's Vegetable Life Medicines have been thoroughly tested, and pronounced a sovereign remedy for Dyspepsia, Platuleney, Palpiation of the Heart, Loss of Appetite, Heartburn and Headache, Restlessneas, Ill-temper, Anxiety, Langour and Melancholy; Costiveness, Diarrhea, Cholera, Fevers of all kinds Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsies of all kinds, Gravel, Worms, Asthma and Consumption, Scurvy, Ulcres, Inveterate Sores, Scorbutic Euptions and Bad Complexions, Eruptive complaints, Sallow, Cloudy, and other disagreeable Complexions, Salt Rheum, Eryspelas, common Colds and Influenza, and various other complaints which afflict the human frame. In Fryth and Agur, particularly, the Life Medicines have been most eminently successful; so much so that in the Fever and Ague districts, Physicians almost universally prescribe them.

All that Mr. Moffat requires of his patients is to be particular in taking the Life Medicines strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their tavor, that he hopes to gain credit. It is alone by the results of a fair trial.

Moffat's Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health.—This little pamphlet, edited by W. B. Moffat's theory of diseases, and will be found highly interesting to persons seeking health. It treats upon prevalent diseases, and the causes thereof. Price, 25 cents—for sale by Mr. Moffat's agents generally.

To avet all these unpleasant circumstances, OLDRIDGE BALM OF COLUMBIA stops the hair from falling off on the first application, and a few bottles restores it again. Celebrated Worm Tea and Salve. Celebrated Worm Tea and Salve.

THE proprietor in recommending this long tried and celebrated medicine to the public, is supported by the infallible test of experience which it has stood for a great number of years with unexampled success, as well as by the testimony of most respectable citizens, who have used it in their families.

The action of the medicine is not only to expol worms, but by its Tonic powers to prevent a return of them, by removing the weak state of the digestive organs, on which their production mainly depends.

The Blind Piles, said to be incurable by external applications. Solomon Hays warrants the contrary. His Liniment will cure Blind Piles. Facts are more stubborn than theories. He solicits all respectable physicians to try it on their patients. It will do them no harm, and it is known that every physician who has had the honesty to make the trial, has candidily admitted that it has succeeded in every case they have known. Then why not use it? It is the recipe of one of their most respectable members, now deceased. Why refuse to try it? Because it is sold as a proprietary medicine? Is this a sufficient excuse for suffering their honest patients to linger in distress? We think not. Physicians shall be convinced that there is no humbug or quackery about this article. Why then not alleviate human suffering? If they wont try it before, let them after all other prescriptions fail. Physicians are respectfully requested to do themselves and patients the justice to use this article. It shall be taken from the bottles, and done up as their prescription, if they desire.
