CARDINAL WISEMAN From an Address on Shakespear

TATHEN the immortal Raphael for the last time laid down his palette, still moist with the brilliant colors which he had spread upon his unfinished masterpiece destined to be exposed to admiration above his bier, he left none behind him who could worthily depict and transmit his beautiful lineaments; so that posterity has had to seek in his own paintings, among the guards at a sepulchre or among the youthful disciples in an ancient school, some figure which may be considered as representing himself. When his mighty rival, Michaelangelo, cast down that massive chisel, which no one after him was worthy or able to wield, none survived him who could venture to repeat in marble the rugged grandeur of his countenance; but we imagine that we can trace in the head of some unfinished satyr, or in the sublime countenance of Moses, the natural or the idealized type, from which he drew his stern and noble

And, to turn to another great art, when Mozart closed his last uncompleted score, and laid him down to pass from the regions of earthly to those of heavenly music, which none had so closely approached as he, the science over which he ruled could find no strains in which worthily to mourn him except his own, and was compelled to sing for the first time his own marvelous requiem at his funeral. No less can it be said that when the pen dropped from Shakespere's hand, when his last mortal illness mastered the strength of even his genius, the world was left powerless to describe in writing his noble and unrivaled characteristics. Hence we turn back upon himself, and endeavor to draw from his own works the only true records of his genius and his mind.

Was he silent, thoughtful, while his fertile brain was seething heaving in the fermentation of his glorious conceptions; so that should have said "Hyph! Shelessons is at waste with some and heaving in the fermentation of his glorious conceptions; so that ben men should have said-"Hush! Shakespere is at work with some flag. new and mighty imaginings!" or wore he always that light and careless spirit which often belongs to the spontaneous facility of genius; so that his comrades may have wondered when, and where, and how his grave characters his solomy scenes his fewful cotten. and how his grave characters, his solemn scenes, his fearful catastrophes, and his sublime maxims of original wisdom were conceived, planned, matured, and finally written down, to rule forever the

This is probably the only occasion where a feeling of good 'riddance has been so genuinely expressed. If there was any doubt of alliance between the Tories and Nationalists after Mr. Borden had voted for Mr. Monk's naval amendment it was for ever dissipated by the action of Gilbert today.

Hon. Dr. Pugsley showed that every contract the Maritime Dredging Company got was in competition, or because it offered to do the work at the lowest prices.

In the evening Dr. Pugsley put through a resolution to provide $75,000 to pay the expenses of the international commission, which is to deal with boundary questions, and particularly those on the St. Lawrence, the lakes, at Niagara and at the Soo.
