day morning. The second week in the water case, which is being argued before Mr. Justice Duff, by which it is sought to re-strain the city from obtaining a record at Goldstream, was begun this morning. E. V. Bodwell, K. C., counsel for the city, resumed his address which was begun on Friday.

Before he entered upon his argument His Lordship said that it had occurred to him that there might be a point by which the power to supply water along the pipe line might be limited. Mr. Bodwell said he had not directed his attention to that phase of it. Proceeding, he said that the tramway company was not the occupiers of the land at the power house in the sense of being resident. The company was in reality in occupation of the land at the power house first in order to get a right to the water.

Appropriation having been made of water for a purpose a man was not entitled, he thought, to increase the appropriation beyond those needs.

Appropriation meant more than the diverting of water. It applied to that used for beneficial purposes. Cases were cited to show that the diverting of greater quantities than was needed of greater quantities than was needed rendered the excess liable to being appropriated for other purposes.

In the course of a discussion which followed, His Lordship said that while the Water Clauses Act, as originally introduced, did not say directly that rights was to be recognized as having been obtained before the passage of the act, yet it appeared to him that the framer of the act had in view making provision for some who were recognized as having acquired rights
