FIREMEN EXCHANGED HAPPY NEW YEAR'S GREETINGS

Drizzling Rain Did Not Dampen Spirits of Citizens Who Wished to Celebrate Holiday—Y. M. C. A. Reception and Treat for Boys in St. Patrick's Industrial Home—Odd- fellows and Master Painters At Home.

Tuesday, Jan. 4.—The drizzling rain which fell nearly all day yesterday was not allowed to interfere in any degree with the New Year's celebration. Following their annual custom, the firemen of the different stations called on each other and had a general good time. Receptions were numerous and a feeling of kindly brotherhood was manifested at all of them. It was a little unfortunate for the lovers of ice sports that the warm, moist air made skating in the rinks impossible. A fine bill of these sports—hockey, curling, etc.—has been scheduled to take place and were unavoidably postponed. All the amusement houses were packed, however, both afternoon and evening, the various bowling alleys having a generous patronage, so that altogether the day was a busy and a pleasant one for the general public.

Following an annual custom, the Y. M. C. A. building was thrown open for the reception of visitors all day. An efficient committee was on hand to show people over the building. All expressed great pleasure at the arrangements. In the afternoon there was a fine gymnastic display by the boys' classes. A feature of this which was never before seen here was the Japanese pyramids with ladders. In the evening there was a brief programme and a game of basketball between teams from the U. N. B. and the local Y. M. C. A. The score was 26-21, in favor of St. John. Ladies' auxiliary of the association served refreshments both afternoon and evening.

The master painters kept open house for all comers in their rooms in the Market building. An interesting event took place in the evening, when Joseph B. O'Hara, played several selections, and solos were sung by Master Moore and McGarrigle and Frank J. Hazel, J. B. Dever and L. A. Conlon gave readings, the latter giving selections from "Dr. Drummund." Addresses were given by acknowledging the kindness of Mr. Wilson. The evening was a brief programme and a game of basketball between teams from the U. N. B. and the local Y. M. C. A. The score was 26-21, in favor of St. John. Ladies' auxiliary of the association served refreshments both afternoon and evening.

Most of the time yesterday was spent by the firemen driving round the city in backboards visiting the various stations. They report having had a very good time everywhere. All the city firemen seemed to make it a point to go over to Carleton where they held a reception. The Y. M. C. A. and the new station, No. 7, an interesting event took place at No. 6, when the men of No. 7 presented to Frank Belyea a handsome gift in recognition of his efforts at the opening of their station. Chief Kerr also took advantage of the occasion to present to Mr. Belyea a box of fine cigars.

BELIEVE BOLD ROBBERY WAS WORK OF NEW YEAR'S ROTERS

Daring Break Into Store of T. Collins & Co., North Market Street, and Valuable Goods Stolen—Skylight Smashed— Police Working on Case.

What is believed to have been a robbery by some of those who were engaged in the New Year's Eve riots was brought to light yesterday, when it was discovered that the store of T. Collins & Co., wholesale grocers, in North Market street, had been broken into and large quantities of tobacco and groceries taken away. The thieves ransacked the cash drawers but secured very little money.

An entrance was effected by breaking the glass in one of the skylights. Once inside, the thieves took full possession. In the upper part of the store, empty tin cans were found, and it is believed that whoever did the breaking, enjoyed a luncheon before taking their departure.

TWO BOYS SHOT MURDER THROUGH CARELESS HANDLING OF FIREARMS

The careless handling of firearms in the hands of boys came within an acre of costing two boys the oldest seventeen, their lives yesterday. In one case it was the old story "did not know the weapon was loaded," while in the other it was merely a matter of careless handling.

The first accident occurred at Randolph early yesterday morning. Charles Noel, the young son of Joseph Noel, of that place, was sitting in the house cleaning a 32 calibre revolver which he did not think was loaded. He happened to have his right hand over the muzzle of the weapon when it was discharged. One of his fingers was almost completely severed from his hand. He was brought over to the general Public Hospital, and it is thought that the finger will have to be amputated. Luckily, no one was in the room with the lad at the time, otherwise the result might have been worse.

CHARLES COLLINS DROWNED AT HAMPTON THURSDAY

St. John Man Met Death in Mysterious Manner—Many Believe it is a Case of Suicide—Left Home in City Early in the Morning.

Friday, Jan. 6.—Charles Collins, aged twenty-nine, a resident of Erin street, was drowned at Hampton yesterday afternoon. The news of the drowning, which is believed to be a case of suicide, reached this city about 6 o'clock last evening. It came as a great shock to his relatives, and especially to his widowed mother with whom he lived.

According to the story told by his relatives, Collins was the victim of hallucinations, and it is believed that it was while laboring under one of these delusions that he met his death. About 4 o'clock yesterday morning he left the home of his brother-in-law, M. E. Lane, in Brussels street, and this was the last seen of him by his relatives. He left the house under very strange circumstances, and it is believed that following this he walked all the way to Hampton, a distance of twenty-two miles. About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon he conversed with Harvey Brown, a Hampton man, at Hampton Station. An hour later a man named Hedley Titus, while driving past about a quarter of a mile east of Hampton Station, saw his lifeless body floating in the comparatively shallow water of Scott's Brook. In his coat pocket was found a letter on which was written his name and address, and a cotton mill brass ticket indicating that he was in the employ of the York Cotton Mill.

WEDDING A SURPRISE

(The Times-Star).
A wedding which will be of interest to many people in the city and which is tinged with romance, was celebrated on the Methodist Episcopal church in Donchester, Mass., on December 31, when the well known young lady of North End, Miss Mary A. Clark, daughter of Alexander Clark, of Murray street, became the bride of William W. Wainwright, John W. Yarmouth, seaman for Messrs. Vassie & Co., St. John; Charles, a traveler in Manitoba, and Fred, a traveler in Quebec.

H. J. Smith.

H. J. Smith, who appeared for Chester Smith, said the law as cited by Mr. Mullin would apply to the city. The client was in a different position from some of the others, perhaps in view of the fact that evidence went to show that he interfered with the trolley rope. Had he done this act alone he would not have been guilty. There was no evidence to show that he committed any subsequent act and in view of this he asked for Smith's dismissal.

J. A. Barry.

J. A. Barry, who represented Wilson and Weldon, adopted the argument of Mr. Mullin, and said in addition that there was not a particle of evidence to show that either Wilson or Weldon had committed any illegal acts. He could not understand why these men should be kept in jail while others who admitted that they were present on that night were allowed their liberty. He considered it unfair discrimination to ask for their dismissal.

street did not hold them liable. Counsel referred to the fact that owing to the antagonism prevalent of late against the City of St. John, the City's national City Magistrate, William Wainwright, might have provoked some of the uprising. His clients, he said, had suffered indignantly and should never have been incarcerated. With regard to McCallum he said the police had done all they could do for something against him. Because McCallum had a few drinks was this any reason why Policeman Perry should lay out on him? It would have been better for Policeman Perry, Mr. Mullin said, had he been arrested on King Square attending to his duties. Policeman Writtain said that McCallum was walking around the streets with his hands in his pockets. In this country of boasted freedom it was not any disgrace for a man to be walking the streets with his hands in his pockets.

A. A. Willson.

A. A. Willson, K. C., submitted that defendant Hamilton should be dismissed on the ground that there was no evidence to show that Hamilton was a participant or committed any act in the celebration. To commit his clients Mr. Mullin said that Hamilton was no more guilty than those who were merely looking on. The lay did not interpret members of an unlawful assembly to be those who were merely assembled there but only those who took part.

H. J. Smith.

H. J. Smith, who appeared for Chester Smith, said the law as cited by Mr. Mullin would apply to the city. The client was in a different position from some of the others, perhaps in view of the fact that evidence went to show that he interfered with the trolley rope. Had he done this act alone he would not have been guilty. There was no evidence to show that he committed any subsequent act and in view of this he asked for Smith's dismissal.

Edmund Ritchie.

Edmund Ritchie, who appeared for Ryan, Brown and Foster, said that in the interests of his clients he felt that an injustice had been done them in depriving them of their liberty. They gathered in King Square merely to celebrate an event and not to commit any illegal acts. He referred to the fact that the indictment against the police was partly responsible for the trouble for which his clients were not liable. In respect to Ryan he said he could produce evidence to show that this client endeavored to prevent trouble. He asked for the dismissal of all three clients.

J. A. Barry.

J. A. Barry, who represented Wilson and Weldon, adopted the argument of Mr. Mullin, and said in addition that there was not a particle of evidence to show that either Wilson or Weldon had committed any illegal acts. He could not understand why these men should be kept in jail while others who admitted that they were present on that night were allowed their liberty. He considered it unfair discrimination to ask for their dismissal.

THE MAGISTRATE.

The magistrate here referred to the distinction between an affray, unlawful assembly, and riot. This is, he said, the most serious case the court has had to deal with in years. The case is important with regard to the duty which young men owe to the rights of others, to the police and to the city. Things have now reached that stage where something will have to be done to prevent the acts of lawlessness committed by our young men in the streets. Drunkenness is not a feature in our streets nowadays. Boys and girls are permitted to walk the streets at all hours of the night. "If you saw a man in the streets at night, you would not be surprised to see a man in the streets at night. The time of redemption seems to be at hand. It is another case of if you give certain persons an inch they will take an acre. The police would do well to nip in the bud any signs of disorder that they see in the streets. They are by-laws of the city are there. They even go so far as to tell how one should act when they come in contact with people in the streets."

The magistrate here referred to the distinction between an affray, unlawful assembly, and riot. This is, he said, the most serious case the court has had to deal with in years. The case is important with regard to the duty which young men owe to the rights of others, to the police and to the city. Things have now reached that stage where something will have to be done to prevent the acts of lawlessness committed by our young men in the streets. Drunkenness is not a feature in our streets nowadays. Boys and girls are permitted to walk the streets at all hours of the night. "If you saw a man in the streets at night, you would not be surprised to see a man in the streets at night. The time of redemption seems to be at hand. It is another case of if you give certain persons an inch they will take an acre. The police would do well to nip in the bud any signs of disorder that they see in the streets. They are by-laws of the city are there. They even go so far as to tell how one should act when they come in contact with people in the streets."
