Most dancing during the summer is just for fun, but a few classes teach those who can't wait for fall to add to their knowledge of square and round dancing. Lloyd and Vivian Priest of Scarborough are holding workshops Thursdays for dancers who want to advance to club level, or any who would like to brush up on current routines.

Round dance classes are popular in the summer: Carousel Club holds regular sessions in Islington Tuesdays with Ellen and Jim Wilson. Also in Islington, Chester and Marion Codner teach square dance rounds (and intermediate) Tuesdays starting July 2 and in Scarborough, Lew and Laura Wiffen are teaching round dance basics Tuesdays in July.

Summer institutes and camps, with square dancing as the main attraction, are always popular. One of these, held at Bangor Lodge, Muskoka, last weekend, is an annual event sponsored by "Beaux and Belles" club of Scarborough. Dub and Clara Perry of Flint, Mich., were featured teachers, with rounds capably handled by the Wiffens. They taught "Ric Rac," and the smooth waltz: "New Dawn," while Due workshopped "Change the Wave," various "all eights," and other interesting routines.

Most of the dancers took part in the entertainment after parties, and many guests found time for outdoor activities such as golfing and swimming. Marg & Jack Hough and Jean Freeman directed the program, assisted by club callers and leaders.

A square dancers' holiday and callers' school will be held at Bangor Aug. 25, with Bob Page, Earle Park, and the Wylies.

Beaux and Belles, having just celebrated its fourteenth birthday, is considered an old-timer among modern square dance clubs, but its leaders, Marg and Jack Hough and some members, were interested in square dancing long before the modern (or western) type became popular in Ontario.

This club stresses the social aspect of square dancing and encourages a variety of extra-curricular events: picnics, family nights, visits, entertaining shut-ins, plaza dances, etc., throughout the year. Members spend four years in beginner and intermediate groups before graduating in the club.
