

United States Army through his Yale connection.

Mr. Walker has had an extensive newspaper training as city editor, night city editor, special political and editorial writer on newspapers in St. Louis, Philadelphia and New York.

My cousin has also achieved a reputation on the other side as a lecturer on current events and too has been instrumental in reversing election laws. Due to his interest in public affairs, he was invited to become a member of The American Academy of Political and Social Science.

For the last nine months my cousin was in England studying world affairs and at the same time keeping in close touch with United States and Canadian politics.

His particular views regarding Canadian politics lean to the Conservative side and as he is most desirous of settling in Canada, particularly Ontario, I am wondering if the Conservative party could use his services in the capacity of campaign organizer? Also, he reads French with ease — an asset now when the French Canadian is becoming so powerful.

In any event, I would like
