

The late Francis Corner, for many years a teacher in Sabbath school and also a member of the official Board, is still held in remembrance by many of those whom he taught in the school.

The late Mr. Cooper, was a staunch supporter of the work carried on in this church in his day. He will be remembered by many of the older members as the man who always came to church—summer or winter—wearing a large straw hat. He loved fresh air to such an extent that he kept his bedroom window open at nights no matter how the mercury stood in the thermometer.

There are many other names we would like to comment upon—viz: the late Mr. John Weldon, father of Mr. W. Weldon, Manager of the Windsor Hotel, the late Messrs. G. Langtry, C. Perkins, Robert Corner, sr., and Fred Baker; also Mr. Silas Carpenter, who liberally supported the cause while connected with it, but our space forbid us.
