Sighing Breezes.

Sighing breezes ever murmur Sadly o'er the graves we love: Like a gentle voice in pity, Praying for us from above; Bringing patience with our sorrow That will cheer us on the morrow.

Though the grave be green with myrtle, And the stone be damp and old, Showing many years have glided Since that myrtle-green was mold; For that head has long been sleeping Where the moss and grass are creeping!

And the winds of Heaven murmur Softly o'er that resting place,— Softly o'er that head once pillowed In a parent's fond embrace,— O'er that hand once pressed in gladness By the lips now dumb with sadness.

Sigh, oh, sigh! ye gentle breezes-Ye can never touch the cheek Of the one ye murmur over-Ye can never hear her speak; For the cheek to clay's returning And the heart has ceased its year

Sighing Breezes waft our sorrow To the God that gave us life,— Wait it to the throne of heaven, Where will end at last our strife: Where we'll hear our darling singing, To the God that we are clinging.

And, when we are lying with her, 'Neath another grass-grown mou! Will you murmur just as gently, Just as lonely o'er it sound? Yes, I know you will not falter; Nor that lonely tone you'll alter.

So then, Breezes, if we're grieving
O'er her little mound to-day,
We will soon be where she's lying—
Lying lonely 'neath the clay;
Then you'll soothe another's sleeping
Where the grave-yard myrtle's creeping.

IRELAND.

Mitchelltown, County Cork, May 28 .-A serious affray occurred here to-day in consequence of an attempt of the Sheriff of this County to evict five tenants on the estate of the Countess of Kingstown. The Sheriff was assisted by 250 police and military, including a troop of dragoons, but the resistance of the people was so determined that the work was only partly according to the property and the control of the people was so determined that the work was only partly according to the people was so determined that the work was only partly according to the people was so determined that the work was only partly according to the people was so determined that the work was only partly according to the people was so determined that the work was only partly according to the people was so determined to t mined that the work was only partly ac-complished. The chapel bell of Mitchell-town began ringing at 9 a. m., to warn the country people that evictions were about to begin. The news spread rapidly. The to begin. The news spread rapidly. The chapel bells for ten miles around took up the refrain, calling the population to assemble. The police attempted to stop the bells, but did not succeed. Ten thousand persons assembled in less than an hour.

A large number gathered around the police and militia. While the first eviction was proceeding eggs, stones and other mis-siles were thrown at the Sheriff and his assistants. Three evictions were carried out, but to execute the next two it was necessary to pass through the town. Three bands of music and organized bodies carrying banners had now arrived, and the strains encouraged the people to resistance. They obstructed the street and sent showers of stones into the constabulary. Then the cavalry charged and drove them back, but they only returned in greater force and with new daring. While passing a yard, behind which a large number of rioters were concealed, a heavy volley of force and with new daring. While passing a yard, behind which a large number of rioters were concealed, a heavy volley of stones was delivered. One of the cavalry horses was killed, and the police charged through the yard and dispersed the assailants at the point of the bayonet. Several through the yard and dispersed the assailants at the point of the bayonet Several were wounded. One man's jaw was cut open. Twelve soldiers were struck and many police were also injured. The Riot Act was read without effect, and in consequence of the resistance, it was decided not to proceed further with the evictions. The excitement lasted late into the night but there was no further disturbance. London, May 28 .- Accounts from Ireland indicate that notwithstanding strong forces at the disposal of the sheriffs, the service of writs and collection of rents has practically ended, owing to the deter-

London May 28.—The opinion is almost universal throughout the kingdom that the condition of affairs in Ireland was never worse than now. The delay in Par-liament on the Land Bill and the daily enforcement of evictions and arrests under the Coercion Act, have exasperated the people to an almost unprecedented extent. Incendiary fires are numerous. Conflict's with the authorities, frequently resulting in serious injuries and the lamentable destruction of property, are increasing. DIOCESE OF KINGSTON.

Presentation of an Address to Vicar-General Farrelly, late Administrator.

following, from the Kingston Whig, should have appeared in the Record a few weeks since. We regret that its publication, through an oversight, has so long been delayed.

In Thursday's number we referred to the fact that on three occasions Vicar-General Farrelly had acted as administratreneral rarrely had acted as administra-tor of the diocese of Kingston, rendering the church a service which merited special recognition, the according of which would surprise no one. The ac-knowledgment was made almost simultaneously with publication of the paragraph, the subjoined address being read to him in the presence of several Bishops and in "innumerable company" of priests, in the presence of the property of the prop in the palace, subsequent to the memorable services in the cathedral. The time and circumstances were most fitting. Having been summoned to assume heavy Having been summoned to assume heavy responsibilities consequent upon the lamentable demise of a beloved bishop, he gave himself diligently and thought/ully to the work of supervising the diocesan affairs. The address is very expressive in itself, and gives prominence to such events as are deemed most worthy of it. CLERICAL TESTIMONY.

ddress of the Reverand Clergy of the Dio-cese of Kingston to the Very Rev. Father Farrely, late Administrator of the Diocese of Kingston.

Very Rev. and Dear Sir.—Before the close of this day, pregnant with hope for the church in Ontario, and full of gladness for the diocese of Kingston, especially for the "laborers in the vine-yard," this day on which we welcome into our midst with pleasure and with pride a prince of the church who combines every quality of mind and of heart that ennobles man. Before the close of this day, very reverend and dear sir, we the clergy of this diocese, desire to give expression to the sentiments of respect, of esteem and of brotherly affection which we entertain for you.

For the last thirty years you have held aloft the banner of faith in this mother See of Ontario, laboring "in season and out of sea-on," for the cause of your Divine Master, and those best acquainted with you can bear testimony to your perof our holy mother, ever ready to lift up of our holy mother, ever ready to lift up the fallen, never weary in preserving in righteous paths the souls committed to your care; on all occasions, by your untiring energy and unflagging zeal, you have manifested in your life those noble virtues characteristic of the faithful pas-

Twelve years ago you became ex-officie he confidential adviser of the most Rev. Dr. Horan, clarum et venerabile Dr. Horan, clarum et venerabile nomen, and it is simple truth to tell, that, during that prelate's palmy years, and in his declining days, you were ever usque ad finem to your bishop, the faithful counsellor and sympathizing friend, and to your Alma Mater a loyal priest of undivided and unswerving allegiance. This last, we are specially proud in mentioning for the honor of our diocese; your own gratification, and the pleasure it may afford to the eminent prelate who now afford to the eminent prelate who now presides over us.

When for the fifth bishop of this See, the great Pius the Ninth sought the learned, the eloquent, the meek and the gentle John O'Brien, the honors that had been yours in the past were conferred anew. In St. Mary's Cathedral, in words more commendable than ours, the meed of praise due you was bestowed by that eloquent bishop for the able and judicious manner in which you had administered that portion of the diocese confided to your care.

ded to your care.

Twice within the last decade of years the sole administration of this splendid diocese was placed in your hands; twice within that period, in the vaults of St. Mary's Cathedral, it fell upon you to perform the last duties over the great ones that lie there are her lies to the state of the st that lie there, and as you gently removed from them the pastoral cross, ere the silence of the tomb closed forever over them, you carried away the consolation of the mens conscia recti, the secure know-ledge which their last words and their last acts gave, that "you had been weighed in the balance and not found wanting." Therefore, very rev. and dear sir, you shall ever be to us the golden link which binds the sweet memories of the great and glorious past with the glad and joyful present.

If this day is one of great gladness to the priests of this diocese, appreciating as we do, the great honor which has been people.

Dublin, May 30.—A Bailiff went to serve writs on the property of one Hutchins, near Mallow, County Cork, on Saturday, when some women seized him and destroyed the writs stripped him naked joy and an honest pride, in presenting to his lordship on this day, your brother priests, old and young, one and all, firm in the bonds of faith and of gentle charity, such as they came into your hands from the great lamented dead.

With this pleasing fact before you we may ask you to accept our most sincere congratulations, for in the preserving of this, you deserve no small share of just consideration; having, in all your dealings with us, helped to lighten the labors of our ministry, in the remembrance of the injunction of the apostle alter alterius onera portate et sic adimplebitis legim Christi.

If, in recalling the past on this day, you find much wherewith to be honored and to rejoice at, we, also, your confreres, may most aptly inscribe on the years of the administration the sentiments of the inspired quam bonum et quam jucundum, habitare fratres in unum.

And, very rev. and dear sir, may yours ever be the happy years ours have been under your wise, kind and courteous ad-

The Vicar-General replied in feeling and appropriate terms. The address to him was a glowing, fervent testimonial of their love and esteem, a tribute which he would appreciate and cherish. The length of the day's ceremonies made it advisable that he should reply but briefly. However, he made mention of the fidelity of those who had acted under him during those who had acted under him during the past nineteen months, his wishes having been in some cases anticipated and, when known, carried out in a manner which was exceedingly pleasing to him.

THIRTY YEARS' MINISTRY. Rev. Father Farrelly finished his thee logical studies at Regiopolis College, being a fellow student of the late Bishop O'Brien whom he admired and loved for his virtues as well as rare scholastic accomplishments. He was ordained by the late Bishop Phelan, and during the first two Bishop Phelan, and during the first two years of his priesthood was attached to the cathedral. Then he was appointed to the parish of Hastings and Aspnodel, where he remained and laboured for between four and five years. Next he was appointed to Lindsay, in which town he resided for eleven years. Upon the death of the late Father Dollord he was made Vicar General and parish priest of King. of the late Father Dollord he was made Vicar-General and parish priest of Kingston. Finally he replaced, some seven years ago, the late Father Brennan, at Belleville. While located in Kingston and during the absence of Bishop Horan, summoned to attend the Ecumenical Council in Rome he was first assigned the adcil in Rome, he was first assigned the administration of the diocese; a second time the direction of affairs devolved upon him during the illness and at the death of the same prelate, and lastly the un-fortunate demise of Dr. O'Brien forced upon him duties which he has satisfactorily discharged, and of which he has been relieved by the arrival and instal-

Grand Bazaar and Drawing of Prizes at Teeswater.

Extensive preparations are going on for the Bazaar in aid of the Teeswater Church, to be held in the Drill Shed, on the 28th, 29th, and 30th of June. The necessities of small congregations oblige those on whom the burden of Church debt usually fells to have recourse to such means of assistance. The energetic pastor, Father Corcoran, deserves the co-operation of every good Cath-olic and liberal Protestant. After his ap-pointment to the mission of Teeswater, he was obliged to hold service in the Town Hall. Seeing the absolute want of a becoming place of worship, he earnestly went to work, and within a short time had erected one of the handsomest Churches in the diocese. His people, a mere handful, contributed most generously, so much so that the greater portion of the cost of the Church, amounting to $5000 has been already defrayed without collecting a cent from outsiders. It is from the pen of the Sage of Chelsea, and reads: "We strolled pleasantly in loose group, Irving the centre of it, over the fields. I re-member an excellent little portraiture of Methodism from him on a green knell Methodism from him, on a green knoll where we had loosely sat down. 'Not a good religion, sir,' said he, confidently shaking his head in answer to my ques-tion; far too little of spiritual conscience, far too much temporal appetite; goes hunting and watching after its own emohunting and watching after its own emotions, that is, mainly its own nervous system; an essentially sensuous religion, depending on the body, not on the soul!' 'Fit only for a gross and vulgar-minded people,' I perhaps added; 'a religion so called, and the essence of it principally cowardice and hunger, terror of pain and appetite for pleasure both carried to the infinite,' to which he would sorrowfully assent in a considerable degree. My assent in a considerable degree. My brother John, lately come home from Germany, said to me next day, 'That was a pretty little schilderung (portraiture) he threw off for us, that of the Methodists, wasn't it?'

In Memoriam. Delia Moloney, drowned by the late disaster on the Victoria, May 24th, 1881, on the River Thames, London, Ont.

In the graveyard softly sleeping,
Where the cypress branches wave,
Lies our loving Delia keeping
Silence in the narrow grave.
There she sleeps, and no to-morrow
Wakes her in that silent home;
There she rests, no sign of sorrow,
Clouds with grief her rural home.

There the dasies and the roses
Pour their incense at her feet,
On the spot where she reposes,
Where the grass is green and sweet.
There the woodlark, sweetly singing,
With her music charms the air,
And the busy wild be winging,
Hums a hymn for flowerets fair.

But they cannot wake our darling, On her bed within the tomb: Angels up in heaven missed her, So they came and took her home: Took her where the wond rous glory Fills her happy soul with love, Where her heart can feel no sorrow, In her blessed home above. BY A FRIEND
