TO PUNISH THE CARELESS HUNTER.

The ever-constant danger attendant upon hunting in the woods is prompting the idea of penalizing those who are responsible for accidents resulting therefrom. It is contended that human life should not be at the mercy of the careless or indifferent man with a gun.

against the Liberal candidate in Richelieu, every available method being used to prevent the issue coming to trial. In the general election of 1911 P. J. Carlin was elected in Richelieu by 734. Rather than defend his election in the courts he admitted corruption. At the bye-election held over a year ago Carlin was returned by about 350. Another protest was entered and the Liberals have successfully delayed the trial until now a Supreme Court has thrown out their objection, and the case must go to trial.

Here are two cases by way of contrast. The Globe has a good deal to say about "Covering up Corruption," referring to Macdonald. What does it think about Richelieu, and the Liberals who are endeavoring to prevent even a corner of the curtain being lifted to show how the Richelieu seat was held for the Liberals. It is quite evident that Vigilance Committees are required in quite a few constituencies, though the Globe cannot see beyond Macdonald.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Borden, Club, Zip! Bang! Bing! What have you done with your summer savings?

Welcome again to His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught.

The Borden Club is quite healthy, with everybody pulling for its enlargement.

Not even the Canadian lakes, let alone the air of the universe, have been conquered by human ingenuity.

The Tammany Tiger can at least go into seclusion and sharpen its claws, now that it has seen its shadow.

It seems reasonable to suggest a new platform for the Liberal party before it is necessary to get to work obtaining a new party.

We agree with those Liberals who demand a new party platform. The policy of drift at present pursued by the Opposition is a poor one.

Hon. Winston Churchill made it clear in his speech at the Guildhall that there can be no let-up in the British naval building—Britannia must rule the waves. Meanwhile the Liberals of this country will take care to see that Canada does not render any assistance.

Two prominent Conservatives were acquitted in Toronto for forging tickets for a Laurier demonstration. This is a bit surprising; it would be very strange indeed, if a good Tory wanted to go to a Grit gathering so bad that he would forge a ticket to enable him to do so.—Guelph Herald.

"Away out in their estimates," is the Expositor heading, or something to that effect regarding Hydro Electric. The cupola corner was away out in its estimates on several occasions, when it thought Brantford people didn't want cheap power. The Expositor should eliminate its knocking on this public ownership enterprise, a success everywhere in the province.

"It is said that the Crown will pay the expenses of Mrs. Beemer who has been acquitted on a murder charge at Woodstock. The Mail and Empire sensibly states that it is a cruel injustice that innocent people should be called upon to spend their own money in proving their innocence, and it is to be hoped that a precedent will be established in the Beemer case that will be generally followed." So says the Guelph Herald. In regard to James Taylor of Brantford, the Crown is also paying his expenses, but it remains to be seen whether it is for an innocent or guilty person. No matter as to innocence or guilt it is just British to accord a fair trial.

Was Stranded. Mr. E. G. Simpson, traveller for the Brantford Starch Works, was a passenger on the Steamer "Alberta," plying between Port McNicol and Fort William. The boat was stranded in White Fish Bay, but Mr. Simpson arrived safely at Fort William this morning according to a wire received at his office here.

Damaging Case Against Taylor

The condition of the cloth at the trouser knees indicated dampness. The blood clotted pieces of cloth were identified by witness one by one and handed to the clerk of the Court.

The inside of the left coat sleeve was stained with blood—the fibers examined under the microscope. There were no other particular marks on the coat. Other portions of the clothing were also stained but he did not think it at the time necessary to go any further in the matter.

Saw prisoner in a small room of the court room.

Did you examine him? Yes, sir.

What did you do? When I first went I spoke to the prisoner and turned him so that anything he might say could be used against him. I then told him that I was about to examine him physically.

Did you do so? Yes, sir.

Were his hands dirty? They had been recently superficially washed.

How were the nails? They had been cut back to the quick.

Any blood on the hands? I did not find any. Then I asked for a knife with a thoroughly clean blade which, further cleaned, by rubbing it with a piece of white notepaper.

What then? I scraped from under the nails the ingrained dirt, sealed the particles up and later examined them.

With what result? The particles were full of red blood corpuscles.

Beyond any question? Yes, beyond any question.

What about the body of the prisoner? There were no marks of blood or of violence. The body was clean and I should say had fairly recently been washed.

How did the prisoner act? He was very cool and self-possessed until I asked for the knife, to scrape his finger nails when he commenced to shake. It was quite noticeable. I asked him why he was shaking, and he replied that he was cold.

What did you think was the cause? I thought it was nervousness, although it is only fair to state that the room was cold and his clothes open.

Stains on the Knife. What happened next? About ten minutes after 12 o'clock that same night I was phoned by the police to say that Taylor had made a confession, and had told where the knife was.

Consider—Never mind referring to any confession. What next? I went with the police in an automobile to the pumping station. We jumped out and started looking for the knife. I think Taylor was along, but don't know.

Who found the knife? I did; happened to stumble across it in some high grass.

Is this the knife? Yes, sir.

Did you examine it? Yes.

What did you find? I found that one side of the knife, a white handled one, had been fractured. There were no stains on the bone, but I found the fractured evidence of blood in the junction between the block and the blade.

What was your next step? I compared the blades as to size and shape with the wounds and found them to correspond. The smaller blade was stuck and hard to open. When he pried it up he found comparatively fresh blood stains on each side of it.

Why do you say recent? Because that blade having been excluded from the air, the blood was fresher. The marks were quite distinct.

Anything else? Yes, the whole appearance of the made it look as if it had been carefully washed with the exception of the small blade.

Cross-examined—Did you know accused? Yes. Treated the family, two children dying within 48 hours.

What about his mental attitude? I didn't pay any particular attention.

Do you think him sane? Speaking casually, I think I can say yes.

You are not an expert alienist? No.

Was he sober when you saw him at the police station? Yes.

Any liquor on his breath? No.

Did you know prisoner's wife? Archibald Likins said he was employed as the Anguish liverly. He was the night attendant. He saw the prisoner at the stable, when he secured a horse and buggy. Young Dawson was with the prisoner when the outfit was secured. Taylor and Dawson drove away. He did not see Dawson again until he saw the boy at the undertaker's. He saw the prisoner the next morning at the Colborne street barn. The horse and buggy were brought back to the Clarence street barn that night. The witness had known the prisoner as jumped out and knocked him down cutting his hands in doing it. The witness examined by Mr. Harley stated the prisoner washed his hands. The witness stated that he had seen the prisoner drunk more than once. The witness saw the prisoner take a drink from a 25c flask about 11 o'clock. He did not see him take a drink before he went out. He did not know whether he had been drinking or not before he went out.

The witness examined by Mr. Drew stated that he had known Taylor 14 years and he had at one time lived with witness before witness died. When the witness first knew the prisoner, the prisoner had been employed carrying out in a moulding shop, and was a good workman. The witness did not notice any blood marks on the clothes. At the time he lived with him he was a very hard drinker, and only acted queer when drunk.

Another Employee. John Butler said he was employed by Mr. Anguish at the time of the murder. He knew the prisoner, and saw him the night before the murder on the street about 7 o'clock. He next saw the prisoner in the Clarence street barn. He had a horse and informed him he was going to see her. He drove away from the Clarence street barn and Young Dawson was not with him. He drove into the barn about ten o'clock the same night. The witness did not notice anything about Taylor that might be suspicious. He had heard one of the men ask "What's the matter with your hands?" Taylor replied, "I got into a fight in West Brantford. A man grabbed my horse. I

Clarence Kelly said he saw the prisoner the night before but did not know who he was. The witness had sold the clothes Taylor wore. He had disposed of the clothes just a few days before the crime.

The witness did not know Dawson. He had only seen the prisoner twice on the night before the murder. When Taylor came back to the barn, he had seen blood on the back of the prisoner's hands. He accounted for the blood by stating that he had got into a fight.

The witness examined by Mr. Harley stated that he had gone to the rig with Taylor after he secured the horse. Taylor having told him he would return some borrowed money. He saw the Dawson boy and Taylor drive west about 8:15. The witness saw the prisoner in the Kerby House bar. The prisoner and witness had a cigar each. The prisoner did not take a drink, and gave no appearance of liquor. He did not tell the witness that he had had any liquor. Examined by Mr. Drew, the witness stated when he left Taylor he did not see the boy with him.

Sergt. Wallace Tells of Confession. Stated that he first heard of the killing of young Dawson shortly after 8 o'clock on the morning of the 9th of September. He visited livery stables and auto garages to ascertain what rigs had been out the night previous. Later he and others went to where the body lay. A close examination was made by himself and others. After investigations they heard that the boy Dawson was familiar with Taylor. What did you do? Arrested him. What date? On September 9th. I had in my hands his coat which I got at his boarding place. He admitted it was his clothing. There were blood stains on it. Didn't see Taylor in the house, but coming out of an alley at the rear of house. Give any warning when arrested? Not that time. He said he got the clothes from a man named Kelly. I said there was something wrong about the clothes and he would have to go to the station. He went quietly.
